WE ARE GROWING OLD.

BY FRANCIS BROWE. -Henre growing old-how the thought will rise When a glance is backward cast Ou some long remembered spot, that lies In the silence of the past: It may be the shrine of our early fows, Or the tomb of early tears; But it seems like a far off isle to us. In the sea of early years.

Ohit wide and wild are the waves that part that steps from its greenness now-And we miss the joy of many a heart, And the light of many a brow; For deep o'er many a stately hark Have the whelming billows rolled, That steered with us from that early mark Out friends, we are growing old. Weil in the dimness and the dust of our daily toils and cares, i Old in the wrecks of love and trust Which our burlen'd memory bears. Each form may wear to the passing gaze The bloom of life's freshness yet,

And beams may brighten our latter days Which the morning never met. But sit! the changes we have seen
