BOSTON, May 29.

The following MESSAGE is in a tone of language, which our august Ally, LEWIS 16, has not made use of for some time past:—It augurs a return of his authority:

PARIS, MARCH 26.

Yesterday the King, sent the following Message to the President of the Assembly:

"I am surpris'd, Sir, that the Assembly has not taken into deliberation the proposals which have been made from me by the first Ministers of the Finances, for establishing a Commission of Treasury, the Members of which I mean to take from among the Members of the Assembly. I think this discussion as useful as urgent; and I demand that this object may be presented to the deliberation of the Assembly."

The following paper has been stuck up in many parts of the town.—"Citizens, we are trifled with; our misery increases every day, and nothing is decided. They give us a number of good words, but they leave us to starve. It is time to see the end of our misfortunes. If, in eight days we see no change in affairs, the National Assembly may have reason to FEAR the consequences which may follow."

HARTFORD, May 31.

The following gentlemen are chosen by the Freemen, to stand in Nomination for election in October next, as Representatives in Congress, viz.

Roger Sherman, Jonathan Sturges, Jonathan Trumbull, Benjamin Huntington, Jeremiah Wadsworth, James Hillhouse, Pierpont Edwards, Stephen Mix Mitchell, Tapping Reeve, John Chester, James Davenport, and Amasa Learned, Esquires.

The Governor and Council have concurred with the House of Representatives in repealing the excise laws; but with the alteration, that the excise shall be collected up to the first day of July next.

ALBANY, May 27.

James Townsend, John Lawrance, Egbert Benson, Cornelius C. Schoonmaker, and James Gordon, Esqrs. having the greatest number of votes in their several districts, are duly elected Representatives to Congress, for this State.

The rays of freedom have extended their influences to the cold region of Nova Scotia; in the Boston Independent Chronicle of last week there is a long speech of one of the House of Representatives, in favor of the exclusive right of the House to originate all money bills.

Wednesday afternoon were interred in Trinity Church yard, the remains of the Hon. THEODORICK BLAND, Esq.—The Honorable the Congress of the United States and the society of the CINCINNATI, together with a great number of respectable citizens attended the funeral.

The Honorable Richard H. Lee, John Walker, Isaac Coles, Samuel Griffin, Richard B. Lee, James Madison, Josiah Parker, and Thomas T. Tucker Esquires, supported the pall.

After the corps was carried into the church, his Reverence the Bishop, read prayers; after which the Reverend Dr. Lynn delivered a most excellent sermon, peculiarly adapted to the occasion.

A short account of the Hon. Theodorick Bland Esq. deceased, one of the Virginia Delegation.

Mr. BLAND was a native of Virginia, and descended from an ancient and respectable family in that state. He was bred to physic, but upon the commencement of the American war, having been educated in very liberal principles, he quitted the practice, and took an active part in the cause of his country. He soon rose from a volunteer to the rank of Colonel, and had the command given him of a regiment of dragoons. While in the army, he frequently signalized himself by brilliant actions. In 1779 he was appointed to the command of the Convention troops at Albemarle barracks in Virginia, and continued in that situation till some time in 1780, when he was elected to a seat in Congress. He then resigned his commission of Colonel, and continued in Congress three years, the time allowed by the confederation; after the expiration of this term, he again returned to Virginia and was chosen a member of their State Legislature. On the great question of the Constitution, Mr. Bland was opposed thereto, as supposing it repugnant to the interests of his country, and was in the minority that voted against the ratification. When the Constitution was at length adopted, Mr. Bland, acting in conformity to the character of a good citizen, submitted to the voice of the majority, and became a candidate to represent the district in which he lived, in the Congress of the United States. He was elected without opposition, and has had the honor of representing them in the first Congress under the new Constitution. Mr. Bland's character in the present Congress has been such as to merit the warmest esteem of his countrymen in general. In his character, he was honest, open, and candid, and bore an universal good character in his intercourse with mankind.

On the DEATH of Col. THEODORICK BLAND.

THO borne alike on Time's unresting bier,
All claim from some the tributary tear;
Yet grief superior should bedew the grave,
Where rests the wife, the patriot, and the brave!

Oh! skill'd alike in Councils to preside,
Or in the Field the martial band to guide,
Long shall Virginia mourn the fatal blow,
That laid her Warrior and her Statesman low!
Long call to mind, while gratitude inspires,
The Man, who warm'd by Freedom's sacred fires,
The tranquil joys forsook of social life,
To wield the sword in scenes of sanguine strife!
His country's good, his first, and only aim,
Undaunted, firm, in every view the same!

Nor shall his mourning friends forget to tell,
Or on his gentler virtues fail to dwell.
Wit, Grace, Politeness, Dignity and Ease,
And all that in th' accomplish'd Man can please,
Insur'd applause, and in the milder sphere
Of sweet domestic bliss still made him dear!
The faithful Husband—(now, alas! no more!)
His weeping widow deeply shall deplore!
Th' indulgent Master—many a work-worn slave
With grateful tears his memory shall love!
But ah! how vain each human power to charm
Mute now his Tongue—unnerv'd, alas! his Arm!
Hush'd are his lays, that once so sweetly flow'd,
On him the Muse her choicest gifts bestow'd,
His smallest praise, so high his fame was held
His life alone, his tuneful strains excell'd!

The following lines were written by a LADY of this city, on the President's Recovery last year; they being applicable to his late recovery, are now presented to the public.

On the PRESIDENT'S RECOVERY.

BEHOLD conven'd in mournful state,
The virtues, long with bliss elate;
Each brow a gloom unusual wears,
Each heart oppress'd with grief appears;
"The general friend, to pain a prey;
No longer charms each tear away."
Said Liberty, and hung her head,
While sorrow soon the tidings spread!
Benevolence scarce check'd her tears,
Such as descending worth, reverts.
Compassion Love, with anguish press'd,
And Patriotism smote his breast!
While gentle Pity heav'd a sigh,
And fearful rais'd th' imploring eye!
Patience strove th' appear serene,
But anxious was her placid mien!
In gloomy mood, stern Justice sat,
And Fortitude in danger great;
And Temperance in manners mild,
With Charity wept like a child!
When lo! sweet Hope with joy illum'd,
While round celestial radiance bloom'd!
"From all let grateful incense rise,
I come commission'd from the skies,
To your united prayers he's given,
Restored to health by smiling Heaven!
Who yet admits of this delay,
From bliss supreme, in realms of day;
Since his lov'd Country's dear success,
He's still prefer'd to happiness!"

We hear, that on Wednesday last a Bill for establishing the permanent seat of the federal government, was read a second time in the Senate of the United States—and referred to a special committee of five members: The resolution passed by the House for holding the next session of Congress at Philadelphia, it was moved, should be referred to the same committee. On taking the question, the Senate was equally divided, twelve voting in the affirmative, and twelve in the negative, when the President of the Senate voted in favor of the motion.

Extract of a letter from Boston, May 30.

"Unless we can effect a repeal of the excise laws, or if Congress does not interfere in our favor, we shall experience as dull a summer as ever we did during the contest with Britain."

"If the excise was equal throughout the union, we should acquiesce in it most cheerfully."

"Yesterday Capt. Hodges arrived from Canton, by what I can learn our East-India voyages will turn out bad this year."

The ship Queen Charlotte, Capt. Caldwell, arrived here in 45 days from Bristol, on Thursday; English papers by this vessel contain the following particulars.—That the new Emperor of Germany, LEOPOLD II. has demanded a categorical answer from the court of Berlin, to certain queries respecting the war with the Turks, and the revolted provinces, a negative on the part of Prussia is expected, in which case a war between Austria and Prussia is inevitable. LEOPOLD was to be crowned with great pomp and magnificence in May; affairs in France wear a very precarious aspect, Paris in daily alarms, the abolition of the noblesse, clergy, &c. having reduced many to poverty.—The Count MAILLEBOIS had laid a plan to restore absolute monarchy—his scheme was discovered to the National Assembly by his Secretary, in consequence of which the Count decamped to Breda; the King of France has sent a message to the national assembly, couched in terms similar to those in use before the late commotions.

PAOLI has set out from England on his return to Corsica; the troubles in Brabant and Flanders continue—the patriotic army complains of the inefficiency of their new Congress—and declare their intention of vesting Gen. VANDER MERSCH with dictatorial authority.—The States of Flanders on the other hand, have wrote to those of Brabant to join in citing VANDER MERSCH before them to answer certain charges against him. The Empress of Russia is entirely recovered from her late indisposition—and is doing all in her power, personally, to forward opening the next campaign.—ANTWERP is evacuated by the Austrians; and 16000 of the Belgic troops have taken possession. The British Parliament was to be dissolved the middle of May; Gen. MEADOWS is appointed Governor General of Bengal, in the room of Lord CORNWALLIS.—Mr. OARLY for Madras, and Mr. SEATON for Bombay.
