Among the numerous writs which came before the Inferior Court, which was opened at the Court-House in this town on Tuesday last, there was one with the following return on the back:

DY virtue hereof I've taken poor HILL,

Who to pay the demand has both stomach and will;
But fails in ability—Cash he has none,
And curfedly plagu'd with the gravel and stone!
If to goal he must go, his joints, nerves and marrow
Must move flowly on, in a coach or wheelbarrow;
For on a car-horse he can't possibly ride,
So seeble his limbs, such a stitch in hisside—
Your Sheriff thus makes his return, and he thinks

I should be gratified by the infertion of the following, if some of your phi-losophic readers would furnish a solution of the phenomenon.

I should be gratified by the insertion of the solution of the phenomenon.

A DJOINING South river (which empties into the Rariton) there is a spring of water from which a family is plentifully supplied for constant use at all seasons of the year; even in the drieft times a small stream issues from the spring, excepting when the wind continues to blow from the North-West, for more than two days successively, when the water stops running—and is laded out, the spring (or rather the cask inserted in the ground) will remain empty until the wind changes from that direction—when it again becomes still and slows out as before, although the weather continues fair all the time. It is situated not more than 150 or 200 yards from the river, and is very little elevated above the surface of the water in the river, perhaps four or sive seet (by estimation.) It is in a small valley or gully, yet not in the lowest part; the ground to the West and North-West rises gradually to a considerable height. From some reservoir in the adjacent hills it is to be supposed the spring receives its supply; that the North-West winds should have such an effect as to stop that supply after two days continuance, and not until then, appears to me extraordinary; many springs are known to ebb and flow regularly, but I do not recolled any account of one similarly affected; I hope it will arrest some attention from those who have accustomed themselves to contemplate the works of nature, and examine with scrutinizing attention, when any thing occurs different from what we are generally accustomed to meet with.

A. S. New-Jersey, July 24, 1790.

FOR THE GAZETTE OF THE UNITED STATES.

A St live near 300 miles from the feat of government, in this part of the country we depend upon your Gazette, for information respecting our national government.

The Funding Bill, as reported in committee of the Senate, appears to every one in this quarter to be, in one particular at least, extremely wrong, viz.—rating interest below principal. We think it violates all the established principles of equity, and the common fense of mankind.

fense of mankind.

1st. It has ever been considered that interest was at least as good as principal, in all public and private contracts and negociations; and in cases where the interest was not duly paid, (as in the present case), justice required compensation for such delay of payment.

2d. Going upon the universal principle of mankind, many soldiers, and others, being under the necessity of selling some of their securities, they sold principal; supposing, if government made any provision for payment, it would first be for the interest; and they were consumed in this belief, by the taxes which Congress required to be paid in Indents.

3d. Foreign purchases, have been of the principal, therefore the bill is calculated to tenrich sorieiners by injuring our people—and in violation of all the established maxims of justice—consequently the government would be considered as capricious, and must fink in the estimation of wise men, at home and abroad, 4th. If the revenue is not equal to the wants of government, let equal justice be done, and the wise and good through the world, will justify our measures—but such partiality must inevitably destroy our national character.

5th. The report of the Secretary met with the approbation of the people, as it was calculated to do equal justice, and conformable to the state of our country—(and it is the general opinion through eight of the states, where I have travelled within two months pass, that if the Secretary's report had been adopted five months ago, the advantages to the United States by this time, would have been millions, as thereby the scentiles would have brought so much more money into the country).

6th. Every debt, due in money, whether for supplies, personal services, for interest, or for any thing else, where the faith of government has been pleaged, or justice and honor requires payment, is considered by all impartial men as equal—and whenever government fund or pay their debts, there can be no distinction. These are the prevailing sentiments of the people of e fense of mankind.

18. It has ever been considered that interest was at least as good

We think, Mr. Printer, it is necessary that the opinion of common people, far from the seat of government, should be published as well as the sentiments of the learned in the great cities; for good rulers wish to know the sentiments of the people, and when government proceeds upon one plain and equal scale, the people can see the line of justice, and will love and support the government. But it one man's certificate for money due to him from the public, is made more valuable than another man's, for an equal sum, who can think it right?

A SOLDIER. fum, who can think it right?

Extract of a letter from Constantinople, Feb. 20.

"The discouragement and gloom so lately prevalent here, has now given way to the spirit of active preparation and bustle. The cause is the new alliance formed by the Porte with Pruffia. The muslilmen now entertain the most fanguine hopes that the affidance of Prussia will enable them to repair the loffes suffered in the late campaign with Russia and Austria. The thirst of battle fully possesses the Mahometans : Abundance of recruits flock in every day, and are immediately drafted off to some particular destination. The Ministry do not fail to profit by this appearance of zeal and ardour among the peo ple : Nor are the common people only eager to testify their zeal; several opulent individuals have made offers of so great presents to the Sultan, as to enable him to defray the expences of the war. These, however, the Sultan refused; alledging that he does not want for them, and that his resources are sufficient for the war; a third campaign, therefore, is inevitable."

The IRON WORKS,

B ELONGING to the Estate of JAMES HUNTER. deceased, pleasantly situated on tha sails of Rappahannock River, within two miles of the town of Fredericksburg, and one of Falmouth and Tide-Water—Consisting of a Forge, 130 feet by 54, eight fires, and sour hammers—a Coal House, 80 feet by 40—a Slitting and Rolling Mill, 68 teet by 30, for Sheet, Rolled and Slit Iron. A Merchant Mill, 70 feet by 36, with two pair of stones; one whereof French Burr, and every other necessary apparatus for manusasturing Flour in the best method.—A Saw Mill adjoining rhe same, 60 feet by 10. The walls of all these buildings are of stones, machinery and fixtures of the whole, commoditually and judiciously contrived, and performed in the most masterly and advantageous manner, on large and improved plans. The running geers, machinery and fixtures of the whole, commodiously and judiciously contrived, and performed in the most masterly and advantageous manner, on large and improved plans. The different departments are conveniently disposed and arranged at proper distances, on a deep and capacious canal, calculated to supply more large and extensive works, and suture improvements; cautiously secured and guarded against casualties from freshets, or nigh sloods; has its source in the main body of the river; a copious proportion whereof, to any reasonable degree of quantity, is at pleasure collected and turned in by a compleat set of well constructed strong dams, which have not broke, or given way, since their formation, near nineteen years past.—The head and sail of the water operating on the wheels, is about twenty seet the greatest part of the works are in good sepair, and the whole may be rendered so at a small expense. In the appendages thereto, are a convenient Tanvard, variety of shops and utensils for mechanical business of different kinds, houses for the Managers, Workmen, &c.—And about 4 to 8000 acres of land contiguous, mostly wooded, including some Farms and meadow land. Also, will be offered for sale, a number of valuable Slaves, such as Hammermen, Refiners, Colliers, Forge Carpenters, Wheelwrights, Smiths, Millers, Waggoners, &c. These works have advantages over any in America, particularly in respect to the sale of their produce, as there is none of the kind to the southward thereof, to most of which extensive, rich and fertile country, there is easy conveyance by water; nor is there any Forge within 90 miles, nor a Slitting mill at all in this state, which might share the custom, or vie with its manufactory—some other peculiar advantages that can best be pointed out on the premises, which on application will be shewn, and the terms of Sale made known, and very casy for the purchaser, by easy for the purchaser, by
