LET HER RIP.

One sunny afternoon last week. I thought I'd take a ride. And hired a nag which they called fast: I'm sure she was when "tied." My friend Bill Spriggins drove the mare, While I laid on the whip,

And shouted till I was quite hoarse-Billy put that animated female projecting power through—ge'long—

Let her rip!

We stopped at Bensal's on the road. Of course we had to "smile," And give the expeditious mag A drink and rest awhile. We "lagged," then calling for the mare, I tossed the man a fip, I jumped into the wagon and seizing the reins nequested the Ethiopian individual who held the double distilled essence of lightning, in emphatic tones, to-

Let her rip!

A chap who drove a large buy nag, Seemed anxious for a "brush," So whipping up our own fast cab, We went it with a rush. Twas neck and neck a mile or more, When his nag made a trip.

We glided by like lightning greased, For having hired the extraordinary animal we considered we had a right to get the worth of our money, therefore-Let her rip!

We drove along without mishap, At least a dozen miles, Stopping now and then, of course,

To take several "smiles." At last we ran into a chap Who mave us too much lip,

The horse broke-wagon also-pitching Bill and myself into the ditch on the side of the road. Bill, says I, the mare has run away! Bill, struggling under the combined effects of "lager" and a mouthful of mud, replied-Let her rip!

and Sentiment.

IRISH LOGIC.-Mick Casey used to 'tend' in Carew's grocery on the corner. Smith (von know Smith) went in the other day after some 'fixin,' and among the rest, called for a gallon of molasses. There was about a pint in the measure when Mick commenced drawing, and after filling it he poured into Smith's vessel until about a pint was left, as before, in the measure, and then set it down under the cask.

'Hallo!' says Smith, what are you about? Why don't you put in a gallon as I ordered?" 'A gallon is it, sur? An' sure 'au there's that much in the jug,' replied Mick. Of course, Smith would never believe this, as there was a pint left in the measure, and he made no bones of accusing Mick of attempting to cheat him. Sur, asked Mick, wasn't there a pint in the measure?'

'Yes.' Well, thin, sure, an ye have all that belongs to yer, didn't I draw the measure full and put it in the jug?" 'No-there's a pint left!'

The divil, sur! an' wasn't that pint there before! Get yerself out of the store, ye specimen of maneness, to be afther chatin' a lad out of a pint of molasses!' Smith left, being utterly unable to convince Mick of the 'error of his ways.'

A Quaker had his broad brimmed hat blown off by the wind, and he chased it for a long time with fruitless and very ridiculous zeal. At last, seeing a roguish looking boy laughing at his disaster, he said to him-

'Art thou a profane lad?' The youngster replied that he sometimes did a little in that way. 'Then,' said he, taking a half dollar from his pocket, 'thee may damn yonder fleeing tile fifty cents worth.' A young poet out West, in describing Heaven, says 'it's a world of bliss fenced in with pretty gals!'

Two years with an attorney, and six months with an inspector of the police?
Well, answered the witty thief, that whole time shall be reckoned as if you had served in my troop.'

A western exchange says: "Two ladies were travelling in the cars last week, when one said to the other:

"I was married, but I heard that my husband was killed in Pittsburg, and I am going there to ascertain if the report be true.

Well, I've got a dead sure thing on my husband,' remarked the other, 'for I new him buried five weeks ago.'
