Public Nicht School.-In many of our large thems and cities. In this State, the Directors have caused to be opened a public night school. for the benefit of apprentices and others whose daily employments prevent them from attending the day schools, and who are consequently deprived of the blessings and benefits of our system of popular education, and it has been found to work admirably. We do not know that such an idea has ever been broached in this place, but we think if there be a town in the county where such a school is needed, and would be well attended, it is Altoona. There are a great many young men and boys employ. ed in the shops and throughout the town, who can not leave their work to attend the day schools, who would gladly embrace an opportunity, such as a public night school would afford, to improve their education. It would furnish them with the means of spending their time in something more profitable and rational than puffing tobacco smoke and losting about street corners and drinking saloons. We recommend such a school to the Directors in this place. knowing them to be men who have the welfare of the community and the best interests of the rising generation closely at heart, as has been ovinced by all their actions, and we feel sure that if such an institution can be established, they will do it. If it can be, let it be tried and it will soon be apparent that a large number will avail themselves of the opportunity and gladly exchange a seat on some store box or in a drinking saloon, for one in a school room where they may improve the knowledge attained in their younger days, or make some amends for the time they have misemployed when they had the opportunity but did not value the privileges of a day school. This is a that it will meet with the hearty concurrences | the cry is still they come." of nearly if not all of our citizens.

"CALATHURPIAN" SERENADE.—On Monday night of last week, our ears were greeted with the dull-cet strains of mel-odious music, excruciatingly extracted from about a dozen tin horns, a kettle drum, any number of tin pans, in town, and the loudest yelling that the best News. lunged portion of the party could execute. All together it was a fine effort—that is, if those reold colored friend, Billy Smith, who keeps the oyster saloon and restaurant, on Railroad street. a few doors above the Exchange Hotel, in this place, did, on the Sunday previous to the serenade, take unto himself a wife, from among the colored people of one of the towns down the road, with whom he arrived in this place by the Lupress train on said Monday morning. We have not learned whether the musicians receivd a "treat" or not, but presume they did, as old Billy never wants people to work for nothing. We embrace this opportunity of wishing our aged friend many years of joy and prosperity with his new partner.

NEARLY FINISHED.—The Carpenters are about Ming the finishing stroke on the new store-1.00m and Town Hall, erected by Mesars. Low mer & Plack. The building is an ornament to the town, and creditable to the owners, builder and painter. The carpenter work was executed by Mr. Jacob Hesser, of this place, than whom few better workmen can be found. The painting was the work of our young friend, P. Walsh, and need only be seen to be admired. The first story of the building, fronting on Annie street, contains three large windows of four lights each, and the panelling between and underneath the windows, and the doors, are oak graining, executed in a style which can not be surpassed .-The Hall, on the second floor will, we presume, hold between four and five hundred persons, and will be a great addition and decided advantage to the town. All that is now required to make this the centre of attraction, is a fine stock of goods, and we know the proprietors will have them on hand in a few days.

COUNTERFELT MONEY A contemporary says that forty-two new counterfeits of various bank notes have been put in circulation since last month-n pretty certain proof that the talent, labor and risk of those persons concerned in this illegal trade meet with a substantial reward. Were counterfeiting unprofitable, men would and engage in it; but, when it is found that banking institutions are careless about the matter, and the commercial public generally rather indifferent on the subject, counterfeiters will proceed with their work at all hexards. The only way to account for the lukewarmness generally manifested towards propositions to stay the flood of worthless money thrown into circulation, is to believe that the losers by counterupon the mass of Thom the texation of counterfeiting, in the aggregate, falls with great secity, several millions of dollars annually beg made and scattered throughout the country. speedy and effectual remedy.

> I'LL CALL AROUND AND PAY. - What a world of wee is contained in these few words to the poor artizan or mechanic! 'I'll call around and pay,' says the rich man to avoid the trouble of going to the deak to get the necessary funds, and the poor mechanic is obliged to go home, to disapoint his workmen and all who depend upon him for their due. It is an easy matter to work—the only real glory in this life is an independent idea of being able to sustain yourself by the labor of your ewn hands, and it may easily be imagined what crushing force there is in 'I'll call around and pay' to the laboring man who depends upon that pay for subsistence. If those who could would pay at once, it would place hundreds and thousands in a condition to do likewise, and prevent much misery and distress.

A Home Picture.—There is scarce a family in our town that does not mourn the loss of a "household treasure." How many parents in the beautiful language of one of our sweetest poets, can exclaim:

O, where is our dainty, our darling—
The daintiest darling of all?
O where is the voice on the stairway,
O where is the voice in the hall?
The little short steps in the entry,
The silvery laugh in the hall?
O where is our dainty, our darling—
The daintiest darling of all?
Litle Maud!

The peaches are ripe in the garden,
The spricots ready to fall:
The blue grapes are dripping their honey,
In sunshine, upon the white walk.
O where are the lips, full and melting.
That looked up so pouting and red.
When we dangied the sun-purpled bunches
Of Isabells over her head;
O Mand! little Mand! say, where are you?
(She never replies to our call!)
O where is our dalnty, our derling.

O where is our dainty, our darling— The daintiest darling of all?

Among the achievements of the party, was that of taking a photograph of one of the finest degantly engraved School Copy Books, in eight engines on the road, the "Blazing Star." She was standing in front of the western end of the Logan House, at Altoona, at the time. In the representation, which is perfect, Mr. J. J. Weitzel, the conductor of the train to which the locomotive is attached, is seen standing beneath the small house on the engine. The engineer is gazing from the window, and the figure of the fireman is discernible in the background. In the distance, is a portion of the "Logan House," and that part of Altoona which lies immediately cery, on a Business Balance Sheet, made out by back of it, upon the ascending hill-side. SHOCKING RAILBOAD ACCIDENT.—The Harrisburg Telegraph brings us intelligence of a horrible accident which occurred on the Pennsylvania Railroad on Wednesday, and by which two men, named Lawrence Moore and John Wagner, were hurried into eternity without a noment's warning. The Telegraph says:-· Eight men, employed by G. W. Wilbert, Master Mason, in the construction of a slope wall below Bailey's Station, left Newport in a handcar after the emigrant train going West had passed that station. The law of the road requires the track to be clear of obstructions twenty minutes before the approach of regular trains, and the occupants of the hand-car expected to reach Bailey's Station in time.-EMIGRAET TRAVEL. The travel of emigrants But it was subsequently ascertained that Mr side of the track. Six of the eight succeeded in getting out safely before the advancing train came upon them. One of the occupants-either Moore or Wagner-fell backwards upon the track, and was struck by the cow-catcher, and the hand-car itself was carried by the cowcatcher some distance beyond the switch. Larry Moore was killed on the spot, and John Wagner so badly injured that he died in a few hours.

A FAST OLD FELLOW.—The Ex-Reverend Mr. Mott, of Rutland, Vt., must have attended the Free Love Convention in that quiet little town, for he has done naughty things, according to the Rutland Herald. The Supreme Court of Vermont has just rendered a decree of divorce of Mrs. Sarah A. Mott from her husband, whereupon the Herald gives a biographical aketch of the gentleman:

"We know that man—Darwin Mott. He came to Saint Albans with a long face, a silver headed cane, and Rev. prefixed to his name.— He preached one faith a few months, and suddenly changed it. He preached and wentuus. ing the same day. He preached on temperance (and the people were astonished at his stolen lectures and feigned modesty,) and got drunk. He lectured to young ladies and played the admirer. He kept a bad school—edited a reckless paper—stole money, and charged the theft upon the servant girl—got the office of Deputy Inspector—got drunk upon smuggled liquor took one shirt; another man,s wife and a bundle of manuscript sermons, and ran away from his own wife, his paper, and a crowd of creditors."

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared on strictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Boerhave: Because of its great success in the most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of our fatherland scattered here and there over the face of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among than, I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medical virtues must be acknowledged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent spirits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in effect, it finds its way directly to the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the system.
