COMPOUNDED ENTIRELY FROM GUMS, Is one of the best Purgative and Liver Modicines now before the public, that acts as a Cuthartic, easier, milder and more effectual than any other medicine known. It is not only a Cuthartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and boweis to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cuthartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen

MORE THAN 500,000 BOTTLES NEW ENGLAND STATES IN ONE YEAR.

The Restorative of Prof. O. J. Wood for Restoring hair perfectly and permanently, has never yet had a rival, volume after volume might be given from all parts of the world and from the most intelligent to prove that it is a perfect Restorative; but read the circular and you cannot doubt: read also the following. The Hair .- People have for centuries been afflicted with bald heads and the only remedy, heretofore known, has been those abominable wigs. By a recent discovery of Professor Wood these articles are being fast dispensed with, but a great many persons still patronize them, because they have been so often imposed upon by Hair Tonics of different kinds. To all such persons we earnestly make the request that they will try once again, for in Wood's Restorative there is no such thing as fall. We know of a lady who was bald, who used the article a short time, and her head is now covered completely with the tinicst and most beautiful curis imaginable. We know of numerous cases where hair was rapidly falling out, which it restored in greater perfection than it ever had been before.

It is also without doubt one of the best articles for keeping the hair in good condition, making it soft and glossy, removing dandruff, and has proved itself the greatest enemy to all the ills that hair is heir to.

It is the duty of every one to improve their personal appearance though some may differ in regard to the ways o doing it; but every one will admit that a beautiful head o hair, either in man or woman. is an object much to be desired, and there are no means that should be left untried to obtain such a consideration.—Woman's Advocate, Phila.

O. J. WOOD & CO.—Gents: As I have been engaged in selling your Hair Restorative the last season for one of your local agents (R. M. Hackinson,) and having experi enced the beneficial effects of it myself, I would like to obenced the bencheial effects of it myself. I would like to obtain an agency for the State of Ohio or some State in the West, should you wish to imake such an arrangement, as I am convinced there is nothing equal to it in the United States, for restoring the hair. I have been engaged in the Drug business for several years, and have sold various preparations for the hair, but have found nothing that restores the secretive organs or invigorates the scalp as well as yours, being fully convinced that your restorative is what you represent it to be, I would like to engage in the sale of it. for I am satisfied it must sell. Yours truly.

PROF. O. J. WOOD & CO,—Gents: Haying realized the good effects of your Hair Restorative, I wish to state, that fluding my hair growing thin, as well as finding my hair growing thin, as well as gray, I was induced from what I read and heard, to try the article produced from what I read and heard, to try the article propared by you, to promote its growth and change its color as it was in youth, both of which it has effected completely. In the eperation I have used nearly three bottles, Yours &c., JAMES FRANCIS.

The fairest spot of all the earth, Is home, The one of all to which we turn, Where'er we roam,

A pleasant home, a happy home, There is no place so fair, If those we love who smile for us, But have their dwelling there. The dearest word I ever learned

Is home,

The sweetest song, I ever heard Is " Home, sweet Home." Is " Home, sweet mome.
There may we turn when cares are o'er, When day draws to a close, And find among the loved ones there A season of repose.

"I then struck Oliver several times on the struck her with the maul, and she fell; she did not struggle. The candle was setting on the woodbox by the side of the stove; I tipped it off the box into the box of shavings; the shavings took fire, and I did try to put the fire out: I then left the house and went out round it; I staid out round there till it got pretty well afire; then I over; when we got there the house was much burned through.

"I killed Albert (his nephaw, a boy ten years old); I killed them all; I think I didn't stike Albert on the head; I struck him on the side of the face with the maul; he didn't struggle then; I heard him make a noise afterwards; he was lying on the bed, but I don't know as he was asleep: I don't know how the shavings came in the box; they were there before; mother was up and sitting by the stove when I came in; my two brothers were in bed; we had some quarreling before, but nothing but words." The examination of the mutilated and charred bodies confirms the account of the manner in which the murder was effected, even that of the boy whose jaw and face is horribly crushed The murdered is 43 years of age. He shows no particular sign of feeling, but seems rather indifferent than otherwise.

JUDICIAL FARCES .- A correspondent, who has evidently kept his eyes open and made use of his optics, sends us a communication concerning the escape of an alleged murderer in Philadelphia. The remarks of our correspondent will fit some other localities we know of. He thus sketches the judicial farce sometimes enacted under the name of a trial for murder:

"For the fun of the thing, let us suppose the alleged murderer caught. "Vell vot of it?" Of course, he will have a hearing before a magstrate, bail business discussed, and awful hard swearing, pro and con., generally. Prisoner is committed to stand a trial. Day arrives.— Quarter Sessions crowded. Counsel for defendant on hand and eager for the fray. Jury called. "Formed an opinion?" Yest "Stand aside." Another and another—same question -same answer; till, after a long time, twelve ntelligent, &c., are procured. When, all of a sudden, the discovery is made that an important witness is absent. "Can't go on, your Honor. Peter Jones is here-will swear that John Snooks, who knows everything, and more too, can't be found; expect to prove by him insanity in the family of the prisoner for a thousand years; will swear that the prisoner is as harmless as a kitten; was hit once, when a baby, on the shins, with a dough-nut, and been softheaded ever since." The trial is put off; comes on next six months; crazy dodge no go; convicted : great shame : innocent as a lamb; move | edfor a new trial; argument heard; refused; sentenced; Governor pardons. And so ends the please be cautious sir." farce. Who would'nt "take a day's shooting?"

A STRANGE ADVERTISEMENT.—We find in the Zanesville Courier an advertisement of Solomon Sturges, one of the wealthy men of Ohio, in which he sets forth his reasons for offering for sale his vast landed property. He advertises the subject thus:--

"I have some eight or ten fine improved farms the value of £11,000, and silver bars valued at in Indians, and one of 670 acres near Galena, £4000, finished up from the wreck of the British in Illinois, that I wish to sell. "THE BLACK LIST!

What an awful picture presents itself to the vision of the workman as his name, that good name, the name it may be of an honest man, is ordered to be written upon the "black list!" Hisses and groans await him, and visions of eternal infamy seems to glimmer before him, as the persecuting chalk scrawls out his hitherto fair initials. His tearful wife, too, trembling inter doubt between starvation and honor, bids him go and yield to the committee and the union, and have their spotless names preserved from such a fearful list. Now, brother mechanic, let me say a word or two, as we go up to the judgement hall. I have joined in a 'strike," in days long since past. We struck against bosses who were exceedingly kind to us; agains men who sympathized with as in our sickness, and smiled upon us in our prespecity. We, too, were perfectly satisfied with our employers and our wages, and in fact, there was but one man who complained of anything in the whole establisment, and he was the laziest man, perhaps, that ever breathed, and strange as it may seem, was as peevish as he was lazy. He must have wondered at the generosity of his employers, in keeping him about the shops; but like all things earthly, his wonder had an end, for he was discharged, and with no other alternative but to "strike." He struck for higher wages, and though despised by all, he started a little stream which burst every barrier, till the fountain itself was exhausted. We all struck, we knew not why, hut we imagined we were in an age that demanded a revolution. We soon disliked to meet our employers, and we as soon imagined that they hated us, and only wished to crush us beneath their terrible tyranny. We formed a union, and displayed a magnificent "black list." We paraded the streets to very martial music; we drank. and smoked, and flourished, and our employers had to yield, yes, we "brot'em" to terms, and they were mighty glad to get us back. Glorious day! Mugnificent victory!! What a grand success we mechanics had achieved !!! And yet strange to tell, in the short space of seven months, there were but sixteen of the "strikers" left in that town, and they of the sixteen all. with but one exception, had been emblazoned on the terrifiic "black list." Let me tell you. my friend, no man nor no set of men could frighten these strikers, now with a "black list." Nay, though they dared to write their names send from thence the most hissing groans of damned spirits, they would die before they would yield their liberty and strike for what they did not desire

If your employers are regardless of your rights, strike off their bonds and starve before you will yield. But for humaity's sake, do not say " I was perfectly satisfied, and would like to be at work again, but the rest struck, and I was afraid to stand out."

If you have any rights to vindicate, let me urge it upon you to mantain them. "But he alone is just."

who in the vindication of his own cause, infringes not the rights of others.

THE LAUGH OF WOMAN. - A woman has no natural gift more bewitching than a sweet laugh. It is like the sweet sound of flates on the water. It leaps from her heart in a clear, sparkling rill; and the heart that hears it, feels as if bathed in cool, exhiliarating spring. Have you ever pursued an unseen fugitive through trees. led on by fairy laugh, now here, now there, now lost, now found? We have—And we are pursuing that wondering voice to this day,— Sometimes it comes to us in the midst of care, or sorrow, or iksome business; and then we turn away and listen, and hear it ringing through the room like a silver bell, with power to scare away the ill spirits of the mind. How much we own to that sweet laugh! It turns the prose into poetry, flings showers of shunshine over the darksome wood in which we are traveling; it touches with light even our aleep, which is no more the image of death, but is consumed with dreams that are the shadows of immortality.
