> DREADFUL ACCIDENT .- The Cleveland Plaindealer tells of a fearful accident in Van Amburgh's menagerie. Some of the new keepers commenced to torment the lion. Wishing to hear him roar, the brutes spit tobacco juice in his eyes. This thoroughly maddened him and his plirenzy was terrific. The lion made a tremendous dash against the cage bars-they gave way-he cleared the cage with a bound-and sprung for the affrighted wretch on the pole. In the blindness of his rage, the lion missed the man, striking his own head against the pole and splitting himself from head to tail! It was lone as evenly as though he had been sawed by an experienced mechanic. The uproar brought Mr. Van Amburgh to the spot. The emergency required promptness. This was no time for reflection or argument. Seizing the cleaved parts of the lion the great "tamer" clapped them instantly together. They stuck, and the lion was soon restored to consciousness. But imagine Van's agony when he saw that he had put the lion together in the wrong way!—that two of the animals legs were up and the other two lown! But the lion got well, and seems to enjoy himself better than ever. When he gets tired of walking on two legs he flops over on the other two. He is said to be a curious look.

He proposes, if Mr. Porter will allow scaffolding to be erected on Goat Island, to turn a somersault down into the water at the foot of the Island, a depth of one handred and seventy feet from the point where he springs. He choses this place because it is the only one of sufficient depth of water and clean of rocks for him to clight in. The bare contemplating of such a feat, is of a thing actually to be accomplished, stamps Mr. Aymar as one of the boldest public performers the world ever saw. If he takes the daring leap, and lives, he is indubitably the world's champion in his line.

The murder was committed by the side of the public road, from which her body was dragged some twenty or thirty yards by the feet to a small run, in which it was found. The murder was committed by heavy blows of a stone or club about the head and breast. The side of her head was broken and one eye knocked out, besides indications of a number of severe blows upon different parts of her person.

EPILEPSY, OR FALLING FITS.

We believe we can not do our readers a more important service, than by again calling their attention to that most remarkable preparation, discovered by Dr. Seth S. Hance, of Baltimore, Md., which possesses the power of alleviating and curing that horrid visitation of man-Epilepsy, or Falling Fits. In commending this preparation to our renders, we do so with a conviction that we are not degrading our columns to puff a cominon patent medicine, but are placing before them a discovery, which, if fully known, would probably do more to alleviate human suffering, than any invention of modern times. Dr. Hance, in asking us to notice his preparation favorably in our editorial department, has sent us for perusal a number of letters from persons who have used his Pills, and have been cured thereby. All of them speak in the most grateful and culogistic terms." One great advantage this medicine possesses is the fact, that it can be transported through the mails, thereby affording every one an opportunity of dealing directly with the inventor, and also precluding all possibility of being imposed on by a counterfeit or spurious imitation. Dr. Hance pays the postage on his Pills to any part of the country, and will forward them by return of mail, on the eccipt of a remittance. His prices are as follows: One box, $3; two do.; $5; twelve do, $24. All orders for the medicine should be addressed to Seth S. Hance, 108 Baltinore street, Baltimore, Md.
