REMEMBERED BLISS

Amid past hours of deep delight. That a ught could break the guiden link That then between us seemed so bright We little dream what time may bring: The heart is a mysterious thing; A change came o'er thy gentle brow,

Amid the scenes of tail and strife. And oft in woodland solitudes After from dark and busy life, Thy image rises to my eye As bright as in the days gone by: Thy voice, low, musical, and clear, Steals like a spirit's on my car; The vanquished joys come wildly back Along life's dark and arid track: Old thoughts within my bosom stir. And I am still thy worshipper.

And we are but as strangure now.

The hird that o'er my pathway flice, The fleeting vision of a dream, The star that lights awhile the akies, Then turns away its silver beam-These, these are emblems to my heart Of what thou wast, of what thou art, The hird, the dream, the star are flown And I am left alone slone; Yet still I hear with sweet delight The song the hird song in her flight; The dream with all its fairy train Still hannts the chambers of my brain And often when I gaze afar Through tears where beamed the vanished star It seems again to burn on high, The glory of my clouded sky. And on its lovely disk I trace The pictured image of thy face, And kneel in worship as when first FILLOW HORSES :- We have now orgauized ourselves into a convention for the purpose of peaceably discussing our grievances in accordance with the republican character of our inalienable rights. We are brought from our stables and pastures, every Sunday, to be tied up here, in this hot weather, upon a pavement of villainous bolders, exposed to the heat of a mid-summer sun and the bites of the merciless flies. Many of us have not a stitch of fly net to our backs, and all of ns have been more or less incapacitated from protecting ourselves by having our tails clipped to gratify an unseemly fashion which neither our masters nor mistresses seem disposed to honor, at this time, in their outward continuations.-Besides, our check reins are left tied so tight that we cannot bite a fly from our shoulders, or ease our aching muscles a minute. In view of these abuses, we feel that our condition calls loudly for redress. and hope this convention will devise some means of relief.

The Black then nominated the Chesnut as Secretary, which was agreed on. The Cream Color moved a Committee of three to present a platform for the consideration of the meeting. Carried, and the chair appointed the Cream, the Black, and the Ross, on said Committee.

While this committee was consulting ingether, the Chair called for an expression of opinion from the different memhers of the convention, and requested that each one bring in a resolution embodying his sentiments; whereupon the following were offered:

The little Sorrel said the Pony was right. The old Dun thought the language too strong for the place, but would vote for it any other day but Sunday. The big Gray moved to strike out all after "Resolved," and insert "that these flies have the faculty of causing the members of this convention, and our race generally, much pain and annoy-

At this the Pony fairly kicked one leg over the shaft, and bit a splinter from a rail. He said:

"Mr. Chairman, the horse just up is an old fogy. I go for calling things by their right names. This standing up here in such weather is a d-d outrage which no christian horse could endure. Master is in there on his soft cushions, hearing Shadrach, &c., in the fiery furnace, that did not burn them a bit, while we stand here in a fiery furnace that does nearly take the hair off, and tormented by flies to boot! I protest against Dun's milk and water substitute, and call for the previous question on my resolution.

This was seconded by the Bobtail Black. little Sorrel and Dapple Grey, and the resolution was carried by a large majority. The Cream announced that the committee on a platform was ready to report, and presented the following:

1st. Since the horses are de their natural defences, they should be effeetually secured against flies, &c., while confined in harness.

2d. No good christian will leave his horse tied in the sun, upon the paving ground within fifty yards.

3d. The man who keeps a check rein as a contribution box; so I stepped out to the hour, ought to go to the place we read
