The Tonnage Tax Question.

between the Commonwealth of Pa. and the Penn'a R. R. Co., to test the constitutionality of the Tonnage Tax, was about to open before Judge Pearson, at Harrisburg. The trial was concluded on Friday Judge Pearson delivered a lenghty opinion of the case, reviewing the various points presented to the Court. He remarked that the case presented new and important features, involving a large amount of money and questions involving the rights of States. He had no precedents given by any Court upon which to base his decision, and was therefore bound to declare the law as he found it. H had no doubt that it was the duty of any court of this State to declare a law unconstitutional if it should be found in conflict with the Constitution of the United States. From the Harrisburg Telegraph we copy the following extract of the coucluding portion of the opinion:

The Judge remarked that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company was incorporated on the 13th zailroad from Harrisburg to Pittshurgh, and a burden was at that time imposed upon them that they should pay a tonnage tax upon goods carried over their road; and that after the expiration of twelve years they come now to contest the claim upon them made by the State, and the court is called to decide the constitutional power of this State. The constitutional power of this State to impose a tax upon goods carried in the State is not doubted; but the right to trammel foreign commerce is disputed. If the duties were merely imposed upon foreign goods passing through this State, it might present another question; but the burden was thrown upon the corporation alone and not apon citizens of other States. The citizens of this State, as well as those of others, were equally taxed : and it would not do at this time for the Railroad Company to come into Court and say, "we have collected the money from those who shipped goods over our road, but we won't pay it over because we deem the law imposing those duties unconstitutional." His Honor then enquired, "who can take advantage of the uncon stitutionality of the law? Certainly the Railroad Company cannot; but the party paying the duties might test its constitutionality. held the law to be a contract between the Railthe franchises received from the Commonwealth. and hooted at the idea of the Railroad Company coming into Court and contesting this claim!-They had no defence at all on this piea; they could not come and say, in good conscience, that they had collected this money but refused to pay it over because they considered the law unconstitutional. The only party that might bring such a plea must be a citizen of another State. He did not look upon them as the scents for the State to collect this tax, but they collected it for themselves. The agent cannot say to the principal that he had collected this Fair opens on Tuesday, the 27th of Sepmoney but refused to pay it over.

His honor then directed the jury to return a verdict in favor of the State for the full amount claimed, with interest thereon; whereupon the jury returned a verdict against the R. R. Co., for the sum of $91.-196, 61, debt and interest to date.

HAND-BOOK OF THE PENN'A RAIL ROAD.—Col. Geo. B. Ayres, formerly connected with the Penn'a Rail Road. has published a Descriptive Hand-Book of the road, a copy of which is before us.— The author commences at Philadelphia and goes over the whole line of the Road. noticing every station and point of interest, and furnishing information in regard to the country and towns which must be of great interest and satisfaction to every traveler. With his book in his hand the traveler will feel as though he knew the Road and country, although he may never have seen it before. The price of the book is not attached, but we presume it is 25 cents, a small sum certainly to invest in a work which will afford so much information, as well to those who live along Wharton, have been assigned positions in the line as to the stranger.

John Coyode, under the presence that the frank was not in Mr. Covode's hand-writing. Mr Covode was present and acknowledged the frank, but the P. M. still refused to send the documents. Mr. Covode appealed to the P. M. General but he was attending a Cabinet meeting, and the First Assistant declined to decide until after a conference. It was subsequently decided that the documents could not go because some of them were admitted to have been franked wheat cakes. by a clerk.

The Republicans contend that they have proofs that Judge Douglas, Mr. Florence and others, are constantly franking by their clerks, and no questions asked. All they want is for the Post Office Department to decide that Democratic members have no more priviledge of using the frank than those of the Opposition. The President and Postmaster General are already threatened with impeachment, and probably the whole Cabinet may be added to the list before

NEW BOOKS.—We have just received from G. G. Evans, Philadelphia, a copy of a work entisled "Italy and the War of evening last, and on Saturday morning 1859," by Julia De Marguerittes, with an introduction by Dr. R. Shelton McKenzie. embelished with a map of the country and portraits of the principal officers of the armies engaged in the war. The fact that Dr. McKenzie consented to indite the introduction is sufficient to give it character as from his reputation it is not likely that he would encourage an unworthy politician. From the cursory examination we have given it we think it one of the most interesting works recently published. Price

From the same publisher we have also received a copy of a work entitled "Brown's Lectures," which is well worth the price of the book. In fact many of them are ceiving one of the above books will receive a prize, worth from 25 cents up to $100. Price of the "Lectures" $1.25.

NEW PAPER. We have received the first and second numbers of a new paper styled the Alleyhenian, published by Bolsinger & Hutchison, at Ebensburg, Cambria county. It is a neat and spicy sheet, creditable to the publishers and the town. Who the editor is does not appear, nevertheless he evinces a disposition to run his new barge afoul of the Tribune. Knowing that it is natural for conductors of new crafts to imagine them superior to those longer in the service, we are content that the new craft referred to be tested as its conductor desires. If its timbers are no more affected thereby than ours, it will pass as being sea-worthy. We wish it prosperroad and the State to pay certain amounts for ous gales in the way of subscribers, a heavy cargo of paying advertisements and a full cabin of passengers, i e, job-work.

Swindian Armstan.—The telegraph repor-ted on Thursday last that an adroit swindler, by means of an advertisement in the Ledger, lately succeeded in getting fifteen young ladies to go to New Yark to take passage for the south, to become teachers there. On arriving at New York he swindled them out of all the money they had given him to pay their passage, and also all their baggage. The police have proved too much for him, as he was arrested in Washington last night. He was recognized as Hiram P. Leelie, heretofere temporarily employed as a laborer in the Patent Office. His value contained a large number of letters from various parts of the country, the contents of some of which show that he has traveled South, and was extensively engaged in dishonest Two large trunks claimed by him are at the express office, and are supposed to contain many raluables belonging to his victims. He has been committed to await the requisition of the Governor of New York. A gentleman from Toledo, Ohio, who first suspected the character of the swindler, and put the young ladies on the qui vive, says that many of the advertisements in the New York papers, are inserted at the instance of Southern libertines in quest of victims; that in such cases, the young women are outraged on their journey, or discharged in

KILLED HIS WIFE WITH A STONE. - Daniel Steele, who is respected as a hard-working and frugal farmer, near Paterson, New Jersey, on the 29th ult., killed his wife in a strange but accidental manner. The hogs were in the corn, and Mr. Steele and his daughter were racing them out—the daughter handing stones to her father to throw at the intruders. Mrs. Steel: saw there was difficulty in expelling the hogs, and running to the fence, near which some of the swine were approaching, she proceeded to let down the bars. Mr. Steele hearing the bars, with excitement seized a large stone, which his daughter had picked up, and quickly threw it in the direction of the noise at the fence, under the impression that it proceeded from the hogs, which he could not see through the weeds or high corn. The missile struck the unfortunate wife on the temple, from the effects of which blow she fell to the ground in an insensible state. The force of the blow on the temple had with the same success on every excursion that been so great that it had litterally driven out the eye. She lived only a few hours.
