THE DYING WIFE.

Though many a stricken heart will bleed afresh and nany a manly aye grow dim with tears over the remem-rance of a reality which the following cautiful lines will

Lay the gem upon my bosom Let me feel her sweet, warm breath, For a strange chill o'er me passes, And I know that it is death. I would gaze upon the treasure-Scarcely given ere I go, Reel her rosy, dimpled fingers, Wander o'er my cheek of snow.

I am passing through the waters. But a blessed shore appears, Kneel beside me, husband dearest Let me kiss away thy tears; Wrestle with thy grief, my husband Strive from midnight until day, It may have an angel's blessing,

When it vanishes away. Lay the gem upon my bosom, Tis not long she can be there; See! how to my heart she nestles, "Tis the pear! I love to wear. If in after years, beside thee

Sits another in my chair. Though her voice be sweeter music, And her face than mine more fair-

If a cherub calls thee "father." Far more beautiful than this. Love thy first-born: 0, my husband Turn not from the motherless. Tell her sometimes of her mother. You will call her by my name? Shield her from the winds of sorrow;

If she crr, oh! gently blame. Lead her sometimes where I'm sleeping, I will answer if she calls. And my breath will stir her ringlets When my voice in blessing falls, And her solft black eyes will brighten With wonder whence it came; In my heart when years pass o'er her,

She will find her mother's name. It is said that every mertal Walks between two angels here If before the midnight drear Man repenteth; if uncancelled, Then he seals it for the skies,

Bending low with veiled eyes. I will be her right hand angel, Sealing up the good for Heaven. Striving that the midnight watches Find no misdeeds unforgiven. You will not forget me, husband, When I'm sleeping 'neath the sod! Oh! love the jewel given us,

As I love thee next to God

Mr. Peters' First Wife.

"Dear! dear! no toast, eggs boiled as hard as brickbats, and the coffee stone cold," and Mr. Peters rose from the break fast table in a temper by no means amiable, and rang the bell violently. There was no answer! He rang again, a third, a fourth time, still no answer! Ou of all patience, he went to the door and called

At tea-time Mr. Pcters entered his home, whistling. Maria was seated at the table, sewing on her white robe, and there were no signs of preparation for the even ing meal.

AN UNEXPECTED QUESTION.—At a village called "The Centre," in the Northern part of Vermont, the boys and girls, last month, had a glorious dance and a gay time generally. "And so you are going to that degenerated place, New Orleans, are you? "Yes, sir: but I don't expect to be influenced by an extraneous pressure of any kind," responded the young man, with considerable earnestness. "Well, I am glad to see you so confident. I hope the Lord will guide you.-But do you know the temptations which exist there?"

"No: not particularly." "Well, 1 do; you'll find wanton women n the guise of Paris, tempting the very elect; and rare wines and ardent drinks: and you'll find gay company, and night brawling, and gambling and dissipation, and running after the lust of the old man

The tempter is worse than the sin, and the greater the temptation, the more merit there is in resisting it.-The man who goes to Heaven by way of New Orleans, is sure to have twice as high a place in eternal glory as he who reaches Paradise through the quiet portals of Connecticut or Pennsylvania."

SINGULAR FREAK.—An unmarried man by the name of Philip Ferman, residing "Say our dairy, my dear," screamed Oneida county, came to his death a few days since, by the adoption of a singular "My dairy! my dairy!" vociferated the and extraordinary freak. He lived with his mother a widow woman, and about a year ago he took it into his head that he re-echoed the wife, emphasizing each word ought not to eat anything but bread and water; he lived on that diet alone until about five or six weeks ago, when he again took a notion that his hands were so dirty that he ought not to eat bread; and water he would not drink only as he inspected it in the bucket as it came from the well; and sometimes he would require that a number of pailsful should be drawn before he would drink For forty-three days before his death he eat not a mouthful as his mother is positive. He would wash his hands equently for an hour at a time; whilst he lived on bread, he would require that Mr. Slang has avoided this odious singular his part should be baked by itself and then he would break off and eatit, as he wanted it. When he become so weak that he couldn't go out, then he would carefully inspect the water brought him. It was a singular freak; he was doubtless partially nsane, although he talked pretty well on
