Prince Citizens:—The bleasings vouchasfed by a kind Providence through the past year, demand our grateful recognition and again call for the sacrifice of Thanksgiving and praise. Under the protection of a Government that secures to all equal rights, we have pursued, unmolested the various avocations of life, with more than usual prosperity. The earth, under the labors of the husbandman, has yielded her increase, and our barns and storehouses are growded with the fruits of the harvest. We have not only been preserved from the ravages of the past houses are crowded with the fruits of the harvest. We have not only been preserved from the ravages of the pestiliance, but the past has been a year distinguished for health in our large cities and throughout all our rural districts. Our country has been preserved in peace. Our homes have been the abodes of tranquility, and blessings lanumerable have clustered around our domestic hearths. ignimerable have clustered around our domestic hearths. Our various schools and seminaries of learning are diffusing throughout our community a higher intelligence, and imparting to our youth nobler aspirations. The institutions of our holy religion are well sustained; and under the pare and genial influence, the spirit of unity and love, the samest of yet better tays, is most happily developed. To God, the Great and the good, we are indebted for all, and to Him let praise be rendered.

With these sentiments, and in accordance with the known where of many of my fellow-citizens I, William F. Packer, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby appoint THURSDAY. We 24th day of NOVEMBER west, as a day of general Thanksgiving and praise to Almighty God, and recomment to all our people to lay aside on that day, their customary worldly business—assemble in their respective places of worship, and unite in praising God for His excellent greatness toward us—beseeching His gracious goodness.

No matter whose ox is gored, so long as it is not the Huntingdon ox, eh? If it is a necesity to work Furnaces on Sunday, the stoppage of which would entail serious loss upon the owners, how does the editor know but what the same necessity may exist for running a certain number of trains on the Sabbath. It is a well known fact that few Rail Road Companies in the Union do less work on the Sabbath than the Pennsylvania Rail Road Company, having always restricted their Sabbath labor to such an amount as would protect them from absolute loss. If they had Companies do, without any interference law, whether it be right or wrong. We Union:

Washington and Everett.

We have just received from the publishers, Messrs. O. H. Bailey & Co., of 543 length steel engravings of Washington and Everett. So many coarse, miserable pictures have been palmed upon the public as works of art, and especially in cheap, black, and muddy engravings, that it is difficult to convince persons of taste that they are safe in ordering what they have not seen. We are happy to be able to say, that in this case, the engravings are all the publishers cliam for them, really bezutiful works of art, that will adorn any parlor. No American home should be without a good portrait of Washington; and now, as Mount Vernon is about to be resoued by the ladies, it is especially approprists that the hero and his home should be placed prominently before the public. Mr. Everett, from his position, fame and worth, as well as form his efforts in behalf of Mount Vernon, which have already contributed over $70,000 to the fund, is well worthy of being associated with the memory of Washington. The likenesses are excellent and spirited, and both engravings are offered to be sent to subscribers post-paid, and any three dollar magazine a year for $4,00. For the Tribune. The Question.

MESSRS. EDITORS :- Much has been said latey concerning the admission of Negroes into the common schools of our town, and we think the whole affair has been rather an unsound institution. The negro of the North is not a slave in that sense of the word commonly used in the South, yet in a multitude of cases even in those communities that extend their arms for the protection of the slave of the South, in those communities we say, the negroes are far worse than slaves. Mr. Paley, in his Moral Philosophy, pages 158-9, says: "Slavery may, consistently with the law of nations, arise from three causes, namely, from crimes, captivity and debt." In the Institutes of Justinian, 1, 8 and 4, slaves are said to become such in three ways: "By captivity in war, by birth, when the mother was any desire to make money on the Sabbath, a slave; and by the voluntary sale of himself as a slave, by a freeman above the age of twenty, they might readily run all their passenger for the sake of sharing the price." Blackstone trains on that day, as many Rail Road examines all these causes of slavery according to the civil law, and pronounces their foundations extremely unsound, and he insists that the with what custom has evidently made a institution of slavery is repugnant to reason and natural law. 'Tis true that the civil law admitted it to be contrary to natural right, although copy the following paragraph from the it was in accordance, or in other words, conformable to the usages of nations. When the ever memorable Declaration was penned, its author, But a short time since we were in one of well knew, felt it in his heart, and without any rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," and these truths were held to be "Self Evident." That of happiness, but in the right to use them as we will, is too evident to require any illustration. The most important means of happiness, we think, which the Creator has placed in the power of the individual, are his own person, his prop-

Every individual is in possession of a body, and without a body no individual can exist. By this body of which he is possessed he is connected with the physical universe, and this physical universe is so modified for the supply Broadway, N. Y., a pair of very large, full of his wants; he possesses an understanding, by which truth is discerned, he possesses passion and desires, by which he is excited to prompt action, and certainly in the gratifying of these passions and desires consists his happiness. But more than this, he possesses a conscience to direct him to the limit, within which all these desires and passions may be awfully gratified, and finally a will, which arms him with the determination to act. I now ask, all these belonging to man, does it not constitute him a distinct and independent individual. There is yet another addition to be made, which is essentially necessary to elevate him, and which will enable him to cultivate the several qualifications, which is society. He very much needs it, all men need it. Hence there is a reciprocity existing among men. The Creator has imposed certain laws upon men to use these powers, if he will be governed by these laws then and not until then will the Creator hold him guiltless. So long as he makes use of them with the limit as laid down by his Creator, he has a right to use them in the most unlimited sense, at his own discretion, so far as his fellow is concerned. His will is his sufficient and ultimate reason. He need offer no other reason for thus conducting himself than his own free choice for so doing. He is still responsible to his Creator within this limit, but within this limit he is not responsible to man, nor is man responsible to him. Every man has a right to do as he pleases, provided it does not interfere with the rights of his fellow man. He has a right to use his body as he will provided his using it does not interfere with the rights of his neighbors. And the point to which we want to arrive at, to sum it into a few words, is, that no man has a right to do with another individual as he pleases, provided that individual is in possession of the same right. This right belongs to all rational beings, be they of what color you please. All human beings are descendants of one grand parent, and if we would argue that the negro is a descendant not of our first parents, et me ask who our first parents were, if the color is to draw this great distinction, and it does, and there is a marked difference between the negro and durselves. There is also a marked difference between our first parents, (Adam and engravings to our friends. See advertise- Eve) and ourselves, and then we may ask with propriety who were our first parents. But it is freely admitted that we are the descendants of a son of Noah, and also that the negroes are descendants of a certain other sen of Nosh. Such being the case we are descendants of one parent. Now should any one advance the doctrine (and there are many) that the negro is not a rational being, then the parent must have been irrational; but his grand parent was our lished by him, entitled the Memoirs of grand parent, then we must be irrational; such a course of reasoning resolves itself into an absurd conclusion, for we are rational beings,and Daniel Boone, the celebrated Kentuc- Then if such be the case, our parents must have been rational, but we and the negro and all other races, are descendants of one grand parent, then all races are rational. This is correct, very few will deny the premises. If such be true, why not grant to our fellow-being, not all our rights, but part, we mean a cultivation of the mind. Why refuse him this grand blessing? This is a question we cannot solve.
