Mind your own Business.

The New York Sun very pertinently remarks that if people would pay more attention to their own business, and inter fere less with their neighbors', there would be more peace and more happiness in the world. Much of the discomfort, and most of the disputes which vex families, com munities, and even nations, spring from an intermeddling spirit. How many en mities are created in social life, by a few busy-bodies who spend their time in collecting and disseminating petty slanders How often are those who should b friends estranged, and the peace of fami lies disturbed by the wanton tongues of those social nuisances called "gossips?" It is their delight to create distrust and to defame character—to find some fault, some little error, in the conduct of their neighbors. Like carrion-birds, they go about searching for something putrid or unclean upon which to feed their deprayed appetites.

And, as it is in the narrow circle of private life, so we find it to be in the broader circle of public life. In Church matters—in State matters—in all public organizations—we meet with "mischief makers." and see the deplorable affects of their malign influence. There is a class of people—and unfortunately they are numerous—who cannot live at peace with their fellow-men. They seem to take pleasure in making divisions and sowing the seeds of dissension—but their pleasure breeds only discontent. Selfish, un-

To counsel those in whom the habit of intermeddling and the love of slander has become confirmed, to mind their own business, would be advice thrown away; but it may be useful to warn the well disposed to avoid such persons. The wise man has said that "the words of a talebearer are as wounds," and many are the wounds which tale-bearers inflict. To parents, therefore, and to teachers of the young, we would say, "Never encourage a child in tale-bearing." The foundation of the habit is laid in early life, and too many parents implant the vice in the children by countenancing their tendency throughout life. "Train up a child in he will not depart from it." right training of children were generally children and grandchildren of those who followed, the promise connected with it fought under him at New Orleans, and would be fulfilled; and we should have all who may be entitled to the privileges many more good men and women; more good citizens; more domestic and social happiness; more charitable feeling; less religious bitternes and strife; and less political animosity. The law of love would more preyail, and the fierce and not prenominate in our public councils.

We have received the first number of the Journal & American, Huntingdon, by J. A. Nash and Samuel G. Whittaker. In appearance it is similar to the American, and is a vast improvement on the Journal. The editorial and local items contain much of the spice usually found in Whittaker's effusions. With two such good looking and able fellows as Nash and Whittaker to control it, the American & Journal will be a popular paper.

Going a Little too Far.

Post Master General Holt has decided that the people of Virginia have a right, according to the laws of the State, to forbid the introduction and dissemination of books, newspapers, &c., within their borders, which contain anti-slavery sentiments, and, if brough there in the mails, they may, by appropriate proceedings, have them destroyed. Acting upon this decision a Post Master in that State has returned several copies of the New York Tribune. addressed to subscribers in the neighborhood of his office, informing the editor that said papers will not be delivercd. This is certainly carrying the thing Where parties are unknown to us, our rule for adver- a little too far, and it must, in the end, operate to the injury of the State. How are as advertisements offering to pay at the end of three or six | post masters to know what packages contain incendiary documents, or sentiments antagonistic to slavery, unless they open them. And it is to be presumed that hereafter all letters, papers, packages, &c., that pass through Virginia post offices, are to be subjected to the inquisitorial inspection of the Post Masters of those offices, before they are forwarded or delivered?— If such is to be the case, what will be the effect? All freedom of thought, speech and writing will be destroyed. It would be nothing less than a despotism, equal to if not more tyrannical than any species which now curses the most darkened corner of the world. The people would be at the mercy of the post masters, because they have authority to break open all mail matter, including the most private and saered letters. But the people of Virginia can not endure such a law, or such libertics with their private affairs, any better than the people at the North, and we have no idea that they will long stand it.

A Remarkable Document.

Has been received through the mails, by many Irishmen. It purports to be from a committee of the United Constitutional Association, a body organized to protect southern interests and has reached the north from southern post offices. The object of the document is to induce Irishmen to avenge the south by destroying the property of northern abolitionists and freesoilers. It starts with the claim that the Irish are true friends to the south, and says, "whenever a stack or cotton gin is burned at the south by plethoric store, or an immense granary, in New York or Boston, be given to the 35 feet. flames." It also advises the Irish to mob demonstrations, for the purpose of obtaining increased wages. The origin of the document is not known Whether such an association exists, or whether the matsatisfied, devoid of truth or honor, they ter is a trick of abolitionist or hot pro- other members of the Union, but cannot consent to the intorment themselves while tormenting slavery fanatics, cannot yet be determined. | vasion of her territory by armed men, even for the pur-

Sale of Irving's Works of Wash-

It may not be smiss to add a passage from the Boston Post, given recently in an article on the sale of books: of Washington Irving's worksexclusive of the "Life of Washington," and "The Sketch Book"-there have been sold within the last ten years, twenty-two thousand sets of each. Of the "Sketch Book" thirty-five thousand copies have been distributed; of 'Washington forty-two thousand sets of five volumes each, and at prices ranging from seven to eighty-five dollars per set. This gives a grand total of five hundred and seventy-five thousand volumes disposed of under G. P. Putnam's management since 1848. Meanwhile Mr. Irving has received, as a reward of his brain work, the snug little sum of seventy-five thousand dollars in the past ten years. A curious scrap of secret literary history is the fact that at the expiration of Irving's contract with Lea & Blanchard, in 1844, there occurred a biatus of five years, into which no other publishers ventured to leap .-During this time the genial author of "Sunnyside," then in Spain, imagined himself obsolete and forgotten, his works being almost entirely out of the market, and no proposals being made to him for their republication. In 1849 Mr. G. P. Putnam tendered to Mr. Irving a for- stitution, that may even have the appearance of mal offer to assume the reissue of the various works in uniform and attractive style, which proposition the great writer accepted without suggesting a single change of terms. And the immense sales I have mentioned are the fruits of the contract then entered into

The Labor of Making Hoops.

A correspondent of the Hartford Times gives the following curious facts respecting the manufacture of steel hoops for ladies' skirts, at the mill of Henry S. Washburn, of Worchester, Mass.:—He showed us a specimen of No. 62 iron wire, finer than a hair. It weighed only seven ounces, and was sixty-eight thousand nine hundred feet, or thirteen miles, fifteen rods. twelve feet and six inches in length! It was drawn cold from a piece of iron one-half inch in diameter. Mr. Washburn manufactures twenty thousand yards a day of steel crinoline, or flat wire, which is hard tempered and califred all ready for the ladies' skirts. The manufacture of this kind of wire, or hoops, is immense. Mr. Washburn estimates that at least five thousand tons of steel and iron are used annually in this way for the ladies of the United States, South America and Mexico. It is sold, when covered at wholesale, at about fifty cents a pound, and about three-quarters of a pound is required for each. Indeed, we suppose that his estimate of five thousand tons of hoops a year is quite too low. There are, undoubtedly, ten millions of females in this country and the South American States who wear hoops. Many of them wear out half a dozen skirts a year; suppose the average to be three a year to each, and that the iron of each weighs only half a pound-we have fifteen million of pounds of steel and iron hoops used by the ladies of the United States and South American States every year, or seven thousand five hundred and fifty-two tons costing $7,500,000.

A RICH SENSATION. - Canandaigua, New York, has a sort of Sickles transaction to gossip over. A Mr. and Mrs. Warren were invited to a party, but the wife persuaded her husband to attend it without her, she being indisposed. Mr. Warren consented, but on the way met a Mr. Pheins, a bachelor of that beautiful village and a very prominent and esteemed citizen; and having his suspicions aroused, followed Phelps, bed. Mr. Warren knocked, but receiving no answer, broke in the door, confronted Phelps before he could escape from the bedroom, and beat him "to a jelly." The Rochester Union and the father told him to get a carving-knife, but the boy would not, telling his father that he would be hung if he killed Phelps. He escaped but Warren again caught him and thrashed him once more, and did not "let up" till an officer interfered. This was the evening before Thanksgiving, and the affair was discussed over the turkey at most of the tables. Phelps is wealthy.

About the Truth.

"We are satisfied, says a late number of the Charleston (S. C.) Mercury, that every intelligent man in the South has been completely disgusted at the broad and pathetic fares that has been played off before the public about the hanging of that hoary villain, "Old Brown."— From the 500 invaders in possession of Harper's Ferry, and the 1,000 negroes parried off to the mountains of Pennsylvania-from the further invasions and threats of invasion—the arsons and fears of arson—the marches and counter-marches of the ponies and cessations of ponies-Governor Wise, the energetic, and his troops-down to the final climax of military aid offered by Gov. Gist, of South Carolina, to the Governor of Virginia, for the purpose of making certain the aforesaid hanging of Old Brown & Co.—it is a tissue of disgrace, exaggeration and invention sufficient to stir the gall of any Southerner, who has regard for the dignity and responsibility o the Southern people. To us it really looks as i those in possession of the telegraph were in league to ridicule the South and make us a lunghing stock to ourselves and before the world. We sincerely trust that our Legislature, which meets to-day, will bear this in mind, and take no action whatever in regard to ourselves or our inbeing prompted by the Virginia farce and its ter-

A Noble Little Girl.—The Warrentown Flag contains an account of a death, last Thursday week, of a little girl of eight or nine years, daughter of Mr. Traverse Gough, living a few miles from Haymarket. She first tried to suppress the flames herself; then she asked her little sister of four years to throw water on her, but the little one ran instead, to call the neighbors. When they came, they found her lying out in the yard, and in replying to the question "what she was doing there?" she said. she thought if she staid in the house that the house would catch fire, and burn the baby up too. What a noble, sensible remark for one so young! She retained all her faculties to the last, conversed freely, and bore her sufferings with a fortitude truly remarkable for one of her age.
