LOCAL ITEMS.

ALTOONA. A rush of job work which, owing to the nature of our paper at the usual time, has been lessened, has been given it that attention it should have had.

INTERESTING TO THE ECONOMICAL. Miss Jennie Scott, our talented milliner, has purchased a machine which, in these hard times, is particularly adapted to the wants of the people;—Miss C. C. Dwyer's Patent Hat and Bonnet Pressing Machine. The invention is an old and long known one, and has proved a successful one. Its advantages over the old system of pressing by hand with irons are:—the work is done in much shorter time; the articles pressed are made stronger, more durable; equanimity, mildness, neatness, etc., are wholly removed; after going through the machine, the bonnets will, when exposed to the sun, continue to whiten for some time and will never sunburn again. Gentleman's hats can be rendered equally as good as those by the machine. Miss S. has purchased the right of this and Millin county, for the use of the machine, consequently her's is the only one in this county. In connection with this, we might state that Jennie intends starting to the city on Monday morning next to lay a stock of goods which will not be excelled for beauty and quality this side of Philadelphia.

ACCIDENT.—We learn from a correspondent of Spruce Creek, that a man named James Leary was run over at Barre station by the Fast Freight westward, on Sunday morning last, and was much injured that he died between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening. He was a laborer on a farm near Spruce Creek, and was on duty by a train to accompany him to Barre, where he became intoxicated, and the man left him. He was found between 8 and 9 o'clock on Sunday morning, but was speechless. After being carried into the station house and warmed up to get to talk, but could not be understood. His right arm was crushed from the elbow to the shoulder and he was slightly bruised in other parts of his body. An inquest was held upon his body by Esquire Lytle, of Spruce Creek, and a verdict in accordance with the above statement rendered.

FAITHFUL CASUALTY.—One of the most faithful accidents which we have ever been called upon to record, occurred on Thursday, May 1st, at Hay & Co's Coal Works, near Irwin station on the Pennsylvania Railroad. It appears that six men entered the shaft for the purpose of going to work, and were being let down in the usual way, when the rope attached to the windlass through which they were being lowered, broke, precipitating them a distance of some one hundred and twenty feet, to the platform below. The result is easily imagined. The entire party were killed and their remains terribly mangled. They were all miners, and worked in the pit. Three of them were married, and men of families.

PAY OF CENSUS MARSHALS.—The pay of Marshals is now one dollar per thousand in the district if the population exceeds one million; if less than $1 25 for each thousand. The pay of the assistant is 2 cents per head of the population, 10 cents for the statistics of each farm, 15 cents for each establishment of productive industry, and two cents for each death reported. The Marshal is prohibited from receiving any part of the fees of the Assistant under a penalty of $1,000 for each offence. The assistants have five months in which to perform their duties, in place of six weeks, as is stated in a paragraph going the rounds of the papers.

A LONG COURTSHIP.—A couple were recently married in the village of Webster, Westmoreland county, who had been billing and cooing for the last twenty-one years! The gentleman is over sixty, and the lady about forty. Their courtship commenced in 1859, when the lady was not yet out of her teens, and when her "boy" was double her age. Some one has said that courtship is the happiest period of life. If this be true, what a joyous time this couple must have had. Courtship bliss was nowhere!

More Show Bearer.—Our excellent and enterprising caterer for the public, in the beef line, Mr. Runyan, appears determined to keep up, if not raise higher, his reputation for slaughtering the best beefs to be had here or in the west. On Wednesday last he drove a lot past our office, nearly all of which were as large as the one heretofore noticed. They were beautiful, and will furnish choice cuts, and when they have been served up there will be "more of the same sort" on hand. The beef dealt out on Saturday morning last was capital, only a little too fat for some palates.

WATCHED.—We are pleased to note the return of our young friend, Bob Pittman, who comes to assume the position of Clerk to the General Superintendent, and will therefore remain permanently among us. His thorough knowledge of railroading and his previous long acquaintance with the Penn's Central well fit him for the situation to which he has been called, and his selection will be well received by all whose business requires them to have intercourse with him.

[COMMUNICATED.]

"On with the drum"—Dunham.
"On through the mass of the first dance on"—Hemans.
Messrs. Editors.—Tersapichore rules the hour. The arch magician, Dunham, has brought a French revolution in "Young America's" vulgar ideas of locomotion. This progressive youngster has done away with walking. He "waits" on his breakfast; he "schottisches" up stairs and down; he goes off to his work in a "jig," he "reels" to bed; he "maroukas" to church; the juvenile instead of going it flattered to school, "trips it on the light fantastic toe," and "tip-toes" tersapichorally across the Academic threshold. Even the dogs seem to have caught the infection, and the stranger from distant parts, stares with mute wonder to see a canine quadruped skip across the floor a la Dunham. But when we come to consider him who leads off in this giddy whirl, the master-spirit which controls and corrects this romping revelry, which might elude our wild, we cease to wonder at these strange results.

Mr. Dunham is a person of marked and peculiarly distinguished personal appearance; of medium size; of square build; his commanding person would secure respect even from those whom the sun of his genius has not enlightened. With a head of the finest phenological developments, (which a slight tendency to baldness shows off to peculiar advantage, an eye beaming with intelligence, a countenance indicative of the exalted benevolence of his character—of manners in which consummate grace is harmoniously blended with the highest dignity, he is indeed a striking and effective figure. His mind is a mine, which tingles all subjects with the reflection of its own brightness. His grasp is wonderful. He seems to be perfectly familiar with all the subjects which it is possible for the mind of man to dwell upon. You need but suggest to him the most intricate, profound problem of politics, the Gordian knot of it he will untie; take him on physics, his very presence is a physical—his conversation is a prolonged physics. He is a thorough master of metaphysics;—we have seen him, with unabated zest, maintain an argument of five hours duration, to convince his opponent that the contemplated "mill" between Hecan and Sayers, is not a brutal exhibition, but an intellectual "set to." Hear him discourse on trout fishing, you can almost see the "speckled beauties" flashing in the sunlight. In electricity he is a galvanic battery. In alchemy he is a perfect Doustersweeper. Talk of your lawyers. Shakes of the immortal Coke, Blackstone, Mansfield, Marshall and Kent: Here is a disciple worthy to enter into the sanctum sanctorum of the grand temple of jurisprudence, and minister at the altar of justice! He is familiar with the most mysterious arcane of law. His speech blazes with the rich trophies and rare brilliancies of thought, which give the current of time, and illustrate the history of law.

But his great forte is unquestionably finance. His financial genius eclipses all his other faculties. Finance seems to be the focus of all his rays of his genius. All the other mental endowments we have mentioned seem but auxiliary to this. They all seem to center here.—He was not long in our midst until he had resolved himself into a committee of the whole on the state of the finances. This prodigy met his juvenile disciples twice a week, in the hall above Mr. Jagger's saloon. Here his startling and eccentric expositions struck the youthful mind with intense wonder; he was furthermore a "whole-souled man," he had "a foreign air," his untiring patience, forbearance, cool integrity and facile temper won the praise of all. Our citizens were wild in his praise. At the fifth meeting of his class, he displayed his magnificent financial feats by suggesting to his youthful followers to "come down with their dust," which they accordingly did, each dancing to the tune of two dollars and a half cent, excepting one who evinced a spirit of reckless insubordination, (I had almost said rebellion) by refusing to the earnest importunities of his professor, that he "danced on time."

After this grand coup d'etat, the Professor went a trout-fishing. Since then he has not been heard of; and it is shrewdly suspected that he is so much taken with this genteel sport, that he has quite forgotten to come back, forgotten his bill at the Loggia House, forgotten his magnificent financial feats by suggesting to his youthful followers to "come down with their dust," which they accordingly did, each dancing to the tune of two dollars and a half cent, excepting one who evinced a spirit of reckless insubordination, (I had almost said rebellion) by refusing to the earnest importunities of his professor, that he "danced on time."

LASTED FROM THE EAST.—Of course every body who takes any interest in the "mill" between the "Benicia Boy" and Tom Sayers, which comes off in a few days, will be on the lookout for the latest news in reference to the condition of the men and their prospects, and what is said about them, but all that may be said about them could not possess as much interest to the people of this community as the simple announcement that J. & J. Lowther have just received their stock of Spring and Summer goods, and a beauty of a stock it is.—Large, varied, excellent, consisting of everything and the very best of everything, calculated to suit everybody and all their friends. Just drop in and see the piles and learn the prices.

HEALTH AND LONG LIFE.—Dr Geo. H. Keyser, of Pittsburgh, Pa., has prepared a medicine for the cure of lung diseases, that bids fair to rival all the various hordes of nostrums, which the public have been pestered for years. He does not pretend that it will cure consumption in its last steps, when ulcers are eating up the lungs, but he means to do a great deal of good, in arresting in time the symptoms which lead to a fatal disease. Take warning in time, then, and when you get a cough, get a bottle of Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup, which will be sure to cure you. Sold at J. W. Keeler's.

CHANGE OF SCHEDULE.—On Monday next, a new schedule will go into effect on the Penn's R. R. It will make considerable change in the time of departure of passenger trains from this station, and those who intend to travel should make a note of it, else they may find themselves a "little" too late.
