Not wishing to annoy the congregashe got up and passed out of the church into the house of Mrs. Cauffman, close by. entering Mrs. C's she complained of feeling Il and lay down on a settee, or lounge, e, in a few minutes, she breathed her last. cal aid was immediately summoned, but it of no avail, the vital spark had forever fled. cause of her death has been variously atuted to heart disease, to which she was suband to the breaking of an ulcerous affecupon her lungs, occasioned by the violent coughing. Mrs. McCrea had gone to ch in her usual good health, and had no intion whatever that her sands of life were so ly run out. She was a woman of robust realthy appearance, and, to human obseron, bid more fairly to live out her three surrounded. She leaves a husband and famif four boys to mourn their loss. In this connection it is but just to observe at much of the success of the passage of the nnage bill, is owing to the quickness and mness of decision, the profound acquaintance ith the history and operations of the Central ailroad which characterize the young Vice resident of that road. Every man who has come in contact ith him during the pendency of the terrible truggle through which this bill has gone, has een strongly impressed with his clear percepve faculties, his cool judgement, and great enrgy of character. Modern Choir Singing .- A correspodent of a religious paper, who urges the necessity of a reform in church music, says that our ameteur choir singers are too fond of "executing" difficult pieces, and confounding common people with reverberating resonances.
