THE UNION PEULING IN KENTUCKY .- The voing in Kentucky last week, for delegates to a order State Convention, was almost unanimous for the Union candidates. In many counties they received the entire vote, and this in of the last Presidential election. From the returns received, it looks as if the whole vote of the State was about 150,000, and of the these not less than 140,000 are for the Union. Yet, notwithstanding this extraordinary show of the popular devotion to the Union, there is danger hat the traitors Mangessin, Breckinridge & Co., and the majority in the Begislature, may pass ome unwarrantable act declaring Kentucky out of the Union, just as was done in Virginia, Tennessee and Arkansas, after the people had decided in favor of the Union. A DARTARDLY OUTRAGE UPON THE AMERICAN FLAG. - The New York Times of yesterday publishes, among other information it received from passengers who recently arrived from Savannah, Georgia, the following statement:

"On the occasion of the arrival and speech of Mr. Stephens, a large procession was formed which marched through the city. They carried painted on canvas, a representation of the American flag, soiled and torn, supended by a broken flag-staff. Underneath was the picture of t grave, with the words, "Receive me." This outrage upon the flag aroused feelings of deep disgust and indignation among the still loya portion of the citizens; and one gentleman, venerable pastor of the Seaman's Bethel, openly denounced the proceedings, declaring that Savannah had been the first to dishenor the glorious banner of the Union. On being threatened with violence, he told the mobocrats that, though he was an old man, he would defend himself i attacked, and some of them would bite the dust if they laid their hands on him." It is difficult to conceive how men who have ong enjoyed the protection of our glorious stau dard could have acted in this shameful manner but even this dastardly outrage is only in keeping with the whole rebel movement.

A GREAT CAPTAIN BY ACCIDENT-Contradictory Estimates of Military Genius.—When the false report of General Scott's resignation reached the South it gave rise to the rejoicing; bells were rung, guns fired, and for two days a coach and four were kept in readiness at Richmond to bear him in triumph through that city. The press throughout the entire South was loud in his praise as a great military chieftain. They declared that no such soldier ever led armies to the field, conquering and to conquer. Hannibal was nobody beside General Scott: Napoleon was not to be compared with him, and Wellington not to be talked of in the same breath. But next day the news was contradicted, and the loyalty of the old another name for Rebellion and Treeson and here to the flag of his country proclaimed. warn our brethren of our beloved State to And then what a change there was in the tone and spirit of the Southern papers. They de clared that General Scott was a miscrably poor soldier, that his career in Mexico was marked unoffending citizens of our sister State of by terrible blunders, and that he got out of the unoffending citizens of our sister State of by terrible blunders, and that he got out of the country at all more by good luck than good generalship. A rather sudden change of opinion and a new interpretation of history arrived

> THE REVIVAL OF LOYALTY. -One might well be willing to exchange several years of life, at the ordinary rate, for the privilege of having lived during the three weeks which have clapsed since the issue of the President's Proclamation. To behold and to share in the noble enthusiasm which, at a single signal, electrifies the bosoms of twenty millions of freemen, rousing them from ignoble case and sloth, silencing their petty divisions, and creating an inextinguishable rivalry for the first and foremost place of danger and sacrifice in the patriot cause, imparts to one's whole life a peculiar value. We feel that we have been translated from the worn paths of old use-from the oppressive air of expediency and self-interest, from an order of crime, or patriotism to be a virtue—into an heroic age, such as the historic and the epic muse future generations of men. - American Presbyte-
