WAR NEWS

Details of the Attack on Alexandria by the Federal Troops.

WASHINGTON, MAY 24, 1861. Yesterday the Federal military anthorities determined to make an advance on Alexandria. Accordingly, orders were issued to such of the troops as were to move The New York Regiment of Fire Zouaves, under Col. Ellsworth, embarked in boats, and arrived first at Alexan drin at about two o'clock this morning. They were received with a volley of musketry from the wharf as their boats approached, but no one was injured. Having landed, they proceeded to take complete possession of the town, raising the Stars and Stripes, and pulling down the Secession flags. About four o'clock, as Col. Ellsworth was coming down stairs in the Marshall House, bearing on his shoulders a rebel flag that he had pulled down, he was shot by Jackson, the proprietor of the hotel, and expired instantly Jackson was immediately killed by some pri vates of the Zouaves.

Although there were numerous reports of others having been killed, Ellsworth's and Jackson's were the only cases of loss of life, while no one was wounded.

The death of Elisworth has created a general feeling of gloom in Washington, where he has been well known and prominently before the public ever since the first of March. He was small in stature, and apparently not more than twenty-five years of age.

To-day numerous flags are hung at half-mast, out of respect to his memory. His remains are laid out at the Navy Yard, with the American colors over them, and the rebel flag that he captured at his feet. A disposition to take a horrible revenge prevails among the Zouaves. Some of them and of the other troops are earnestly desirous to lay Alexandria in ashes be fore nightfall.

Owing to the large force of Federal troops in and near Alexandria, it is not probable that the robels will make any attempt to advance on the city.

It appears that Ellsworth was marching up the streets with a squad of men to take pos-session of the telegraph office, when, in passing 27th: along, he noticed a secession flag flying from the top of a building. He immediately exclaimed, "That has to come down," and, entering the building, he made his way up to the roof with one of his men, hauled down the rebel emblem, wrapped it around his body, and then While on the second floor, a Secessionist came out of a door with a cocked doublebarrelled shot-gun. He took aim at Ellsworth. when the latter attempted to strike the gun out of the way with his fist. As he struck it one of the barrels was discharged, lodging a whole load of buckshot in Ellsworth's body, killing him instantly. His companion instantly shot the murderer through the head with a revolver, making him a corpse a second or two after the fall of the noble Ellsworth. The house was

It is stated that when he received the fatal his clothing over his breast, tore it entirely off, looked down upon the wound, closed his eyes and fell down dead without uttering a word: Before hauling down the secession flag himself, he politely but vainly requested his mur-derer to remove the odious emblem. The Zouaves were so enraged at the assassiwere compelled to surround them and put them on board the Powhatan, in order to keep them from burning the city. The greatest consternation imaginable exists among the members of the regiment. The government has secured all the products to come. This decisive movement will at once strengthen the government in its efforts to put down rebellion, and will also serve the further purpose of convincing the British government that there is to be no half way work in the pending war. A portion of the New Jersey brigade, while distant some three miles from Alexandria, this forencen, were fired upon from an ambush, but the fire was returned with such effect that the assailants quickly dispersed.

There have been further captures of British vessels homeward bound, with valuable cargoes, that were attempting to run the blockade .-What disposition will be made of them is not known, but it is thought they will be condemned. The Government is fully determined that the blockade it has instituted shall be respected, no matter what the flag that floats from the mast-

FRANKLIN HOUSE, York, Pa.,) MESSES. McCast & Braz :- The have many correspondents from this place, in I observe in your last loves, so many, indeed, that I almost four to venture a few paragraphs. But the pircumstances and the place from whence address you are such that I connot resist the temptation. To-day, in company with Lieut, J. M. CLARE and Sergt. PATRICE MORRIS, I visited a house, hallowed in modern times as once the head-quarters of the beloved Washing ton, and the surroundings of my present sanctum give on the Northern Central Railroad. It is under- every evidence of its antiquity. It is now in the occupancy of J. Welsn, Esq., than whom a mere patriotic man does not breathe the pure air of Heaven. He has two sons and three nephews enlisted for the defence of the country against the rebels who new seek its overthrow. One of his sons was in the Mexican War.

But to a description. The house was crected about the year 1770, mostly by deserters. The work upon the inside is very elaborate, and the cornice would do credit to Plaster of Paris. All the cornice around the ceiling is of wood, and richly carved, that of the upper rooms in particular being fine specimens for that day, and even of mod It has been reliably as- ern times, of carving in wood. Throughout the whole edbited the same chaberate work. The finest room in the house was left in an unfinished condition. To the eye of the visitor is left exposed the holes of the "scaffolding," which have been filled with blocks of White Cedar. In this room Washington slept. The hinges and locks upon the doors would not be deemed extremely fashionable at the present day. The former are something akin to those brass, some ten fiches in length by half that in breadth. The handles upon them resemble the old-fashioned "knocker" at the front door, now superceded by the bells. The tairs are a model of workmanship, and reflect credit upon the architect. Even at this day the style, though mas sive, would be adjudged to be good, and the work almost of the first class. The hall and front room are pannelled, and are finely set with carved wood, which is of oak. Indeed everything, from top to bottom, gives evidence that i was the model house of its day and generation.

Here Washington made his head-quarters in the days that "tried men's souls," and its occupant, in 1861, is fired with the same patriotic emotions, to secure and preserve a country to a noble people, that filled the soul of the Father of that country nearly one hundred years ago. CAMP Scott. York, Pa., } May 26th, 1861. MESSES. EDITORS:—Time with its fleety wings has bor as on through another week, with as much prospect of leaving as when I wrote last. Among the many occurences which happened through the week, was the arresting of a man in camp, on the charge of being a secession ist. From the facts of the case, it appears that he had been living in Baltimore for some time although a native of York; he, however, left the Monumental City, and came to Camp Scott, and, among other remarks in the crowd, talked favorably of secession. An officer approached him and demanded him to show his colors, whereupon he pulled out a card with a secession flag imprinted thereon. He was immediately taken into custody, brought into Col. STUMBAUGH's quarters, and finally sent to jail. Next morning, in default of evidence against him, he was released It is quite evident that he was no spy, and probably no secessionist; however, he will, doubtless, not display any mose secession flags in this vicinity. Jeff davis was hung in efligy and afterwards taken down and burnt, by a Franklin county company. It was an amusing sight.

All the flags in town are displayed at half-mast, in memory of the gallant young Ellsworth. Nothing could have transpired in the present rebellion, which could cause more, into the enemy's camp. Visitors are admitted profound sorrow, than the assassination of one so young into the Navy Yard, but they are strictly pro- and brave. His death at the present time will do more for the cause than his life could possibly have done. It has lit a flame of revenge in the hearts of those Zonaves, which will burn brighter and brighter, until the rebels are driven from the shores of the Old Dominion.

To Messis. Shoemaler, Pitching, Lownier and others

The supper was served up at the Logan Hous on Thursday evening last, at half past 9 o'clock About fifty persons were present and partook a repast which, for richness and variety, would have done honor to the "Continental" or "St Charles." It was a grand supper, embracing fish, flesh and fowl, vegetables in season and ou of season, substantials and luxuries, with a win up of desserts "too numerous to mention." W are pleased to note that there was no wine other spirituous liquors at the banquet, but the absence of these did not in the least detras from the "feast of reason and the flow of soul." The repast elicited the universal praise of the guests, and fully sustained the high reputation of the proprietors of the Logan House as cater ers for the most cultivated tastes. A vote o thanks unanimously tendered them.

The supper over, Gen. Potts arose and states

the object of the meeting and supper, and tedered to Mr. Hall the compliments of those pre ent, assuring him of their high regard for hi as a fellow citizen, and their approbation of h course as a public officer, and more particular as the representative of this Senatorial Distri At the conclusion of Gen. P.'s remarks, M Hall arose and responded in an address occuj ing some ten or fifteen minutes. He thank those present, in very courteous terms, for i evidence they had thus given him of their a proval of his public acts as their representative in State Senate, and also of their kind feeling toward him. He referred to the fact of his ha ing settled in Altoona a briefless barrister, som six years since, with but little expectation the he would now occupy the position of Speaker the Senate of the great and noble State of Pensylvania-also to the fact that this district an county had been honored by having two of he representatives, in succession, elected to the pos tion of Speaker of the Senate-referring to Ilor John Cresswell, of Hollidaysburg, who w elected in 1858, and himself. He then referre to the difficulties of the mution and expresse his sentiments thereupon in a manner while met with universal approval and showed the he was the right man in the right place in th cricis. He was frequently cheered during the delivery of his remarks, which were well t ceived by all present. Calls were then ma for speeches from others who were present. all delined, except Dr. Gemmili. He put is plea for the profession he represented, to t effect that they, as a general thing, were speakers, and generally conveyed informati more readily by an ominous shake of the he and a wise look; than they did by much talking He then adverted to the difficulties of the tion, by which party lines had been obliterat and alluded in a patriotic manner to the Un and the Stars and Stripes. He was frequen

On leaving the table, the party retired to spacious parlors in the east wing of the ho where they indulged in singing the "Star Sp gled Banner" and other national airs, and gaged in social conversation until the cle struck twelve, when the party began to dim ish-all leaving well pleased with their en tainment.

Mr. Hall may well feel proud of the resp entertained for him by his fellow citizens, w out distinction of party, because in this insta party was not thought of. Party feeling, so as we can judge, is "among the things t were" in Altoona. And the people of Alto should and do feel proud of ther representawho, by his actions has won for himself a na throughout the State, and so high a place the opinion of his colleagues and the affair State. Still higher honors we feel confid await him.
