Ordinarily, we pay no further attention to the ringing of the Railroad shop bell, than to drop our work and haste to our homes, however homely they may be; yet to the contemplative den cessation of work in the evening when the bell rings. All the workmen are vigorously plying the hammer and other noisy instruments. In another moment a living mass is pouring out through every door. One exclaimed to another where were you when the bell rang?" The thought, "where were the minds of that mass when the bell rang?" Truly varied must have been the thoughts that were passing through their heads while their external motions were so similar. The younger men were full of light and merry ideas, even though some features of of the nights amusement, the evening spent at a friend's house, the already appropriated maiden who was even then preparing her toilet cases, their thoughts upon the war, and while toiling monotonously their souls were in Missouri, or Kentucky, or Hatterns, or Pickens .-One weary-faced man was thinking of the sick child or wife, the watching of whom through the long night was a bad preparation for the day's work. THE WITNESS "BORE."-If there is one bore in this world greater than another, it is that of being compelled to act the part of a witness in Court, and be kept hanging around the Court-House, day after day, under the delusion that the case on which you have been summoned will come up next in order, only to find that when it is called up, some important (?) witness is absent, or an attachment is out, and the trial must be postponed for an hour or two; and at last to find that Court has adjourned and the case will not be tried at all. And then again the pay foots up so nicely-something after the following fashion:

SICK HEADACHE. DYSPEPSIA, &C. JAYNE'S SANATIVE PILLS.

A MILD, PROMPT & EFFECTIVE REMEDY. THERE is scarcely any disease in which purgative medicines are not required; and much sickness and suffering might be prevented were they more generally used. No person can fiel well white a castive habit of body prevails; besides, it soon generates serious and often fatal discases, which might be avoided by the timely and justicious use of proper Cathartic medicines. Convinced of the correctness of these views.

JAYNE'S SANATIVE PILLS Are recommended with the greatest confidence, experience having demonstrated them to be far superior to any other in use, being more mild, prompt, safe and uniform in their operation. While using them no particular care is required, and patients may eat and drink as usual. Age wilf not impair them, as to always readily dissolve in the stomach. In small doses they are alterative and gently laxative, but in large doses are actively cathartic, cleansing the whole alimentary canal from all putrid, irritating and feesl matters.

MORE OR LESS bile is strained from the blood in its passage through the kidneys, and, by its acrimony, produces pains in the back, and scadds and irritates all the urinary passages. Some days the passage of urine is profuse, and natural in appearance; at other times it is scanty, and the desire to evacuate is frequent and urgent. Sometimes the color is nearly white and milky, but usually it is high colored, red or yellow, with a rank, offensive odor, and sometimes it is bloody.

The tongue is usually more or less conted with a brown scurf. There is irritation, and frequently chronic inflammation of the inner surface of the stomach and bowels, with a tenderness on pressure, and a soreness along the lower edge of the ribs.

SOMETIMES THERE IS A LOATHING of food, and at other times there is a voracious appetite. There is often a ther times there is a voracious appetite. There is often a seeling of childness, and coldness of the feet and kness, and along the Inside of the thighs—sour or bifter eructa-tions, and sometimes a spitting or throwing up of the food

There is a feeling of oppression across the stomach and chest, as if pressed down by a weight; troublesome and often frightful dreams, low spirits, languor, want of energy, melancholy restlessness and discontentedness, dreaminess of mind—timorousness and a great deal of trouble. ness of mind—timorousness and a great deal of trouble, and a disposition to magnify everything, sometimes great watchfullness and an inability to sleep—at others great drowsiness, wearlness, and disinclination to motion.

AT TIMES THE FACE is flushed, with more or less fever, especially at night or in the afternoon. Sometimes violent colics, and wandering pains in various parts of the body. Frequently there is a short liacking cough, with a huskiness of the threat, and sometimes a very severe, dry, and hard cough, which is often mistaken for consumption. This cough often commences in the latter part of the night or early in the morning, and lasts for hours, frequently producing nauses and yomitting. If there be any expectoration, it is a tough, ropy, tenacious phierm, which adheres to everything it touches. There are also frequently chronic pleurisy pains in various parts of the chest, which shift about from one part of the breast or side to the other. Sometimes abscesses form in the Itver, and pressing unward on the lungs, produce constriction and cough, and breaking, discharge their contents into the lungs, whence it must be ejected by expectoration, or the patient is destroyed. Some persons are troubled with spasmodic twitches in various parts of the body, sometimes faintness and sighing, difficulty of breathing; reading or talking producing weariness. THERE IS A BEATING SENSATION near the pit of the stomach, with palpitation and fluttering of the heart; profusion of dandruff and loss of the hair; indeed, to sum up in a few words—a yellow, ditty, greasy appearance of the skin, a yellow or green tinge of the white of the eyes, an aching pain across the abdonen, with tenderness on pressure—lowness of spirits, frightful dreams, acidity of stomach, with other dyspeptic symptoms, billious fevers, billious colies and billious diarrices and dysenteries, obstinate costiveness, intermittent and remittent fevers, januallee, fiver and ague; &c. all rhoea and dysenteries, obstinate costivoness, intermittent and remitten favers. Jaundice, fever and agne; &c., all originate from the same cause—a deranged state of the liver. Violent remedies always do more harm than good; but, by a persevering use of these pills, all that can be desired will be accomplished.

THE MOST SUCCESSYUL TREATMENT is to give the patient, every night on going to bed, from two four Sanative pills; or enough of them to insure one and not more than two evacuations from the bowels next morning.—The dose of the Pills can be increased or diminished at pleasure, so as to produce the above effect, and their use should be continued until a cure is completed; and also, at the same time give the Alterative three times a day according to the directions, unless there is a want of appetite, with weakness and dobility or symptoms of worms prevail, when, instead of the Alterative, give a teaspoonful of the Vermifurge, (mixed in a little cold water and sweetened to please the taste, about half an hour before each meal, until these symptoms are removed; and if there should be cough, or oppression about the throat or chest, then give the expectorant as often and in such doses as may be found necessary to quiet the cough and make expectoration easy.

The Sanative Pilis, and all of DR. D. JAYNE'S Family Medicines, are sold by C. JAGGARD and G. W. KESSLER, Altoona, and by Agents everywhere, from whom may also be obtained, gratix, Jayne's Medicial Almanac and Guide to Health, containing besides a valuable calendar, a Catalogue of Diseases, together with the symptoms by which they may be known, and the proper remedies for their cure.
