A CAUTION IN USING KEROSENE.—Now that the great competition in the manufacture of coal with a reserve of eighteen pieces of artillery.

The fight was kept up till noon, when a charge was made by the Ohio infantry, the first Michigan, ly elicited at a Coroner inquest in New York. attempted to kindle a fire, and it being generally understood that Kerosene oil was not explosive. the coroner gave the case a thorough examination, The facts shown were principally in the testimony of George Mowry, of Titusville, Pennsylvania,-He testified that he was a refiner of petroleum; has been a manufacturing chemist for twenty-six vears : is the first who introduced the petroleum oil from Pennsylvania into New York. The witness then poured out about four ounces of each of the oils produced by Dr. Peard. The Kerosene oil did not ignite. The oil sold to the deceased ignited instantaneously. An oil manufactured by Mr. Kelly, of Green Point, ignited immediately. Another sample purchased at Mr. Kelly's works by a juryman, did not ignite. The mixture of benzole or benzine and heavy oil, ignited easily.

The witness then testified that, in the process of refining, an extremely light fluid, termed improperly Benzine. Benzole or Naptha, but which is new to chemists, comes over first. After this a mixture of various oils supposed by many to be very numerous, but really only a few, comes over, and lastly heavy oil and paraffine; these latter at a temperature of melting lead; the last portions and the first, that is the benzine, and paraffine are rejected, while the intermediate oils are reserved, and often after a treatment with sulpheric acid. soda, and washing, are delivered to the trader, as that Jackson was approaching, from the holiday that run over, to the intermediate portions, an explosive oil is the result, dangerous precisely in pronortion to the quantity of benzine that has been added. A test for such explosive oil would be the application of a match, as shown by the jury; still son could enter unobstructed. This evidence derived from the prisoners. hetter would be the warming of the oil to a temmatch; if it ignited it should be rejected.

The following test was proposed before the jury as the easiest method of detecting impure kerosene: Pour out a teaspoonfull and immerse in it a lighted match, and if it will take fire before the temperature is raised to 110 degrees, then the oil is

We are not so lost to all sense of honor as to be guilty of betraying the secrets of those who have confided in us, unless they first prove false, and we are compelled, in self-vindication, to meet them with weapons of their own choosing,-We have not done anything since our counection with the publication of the Tribune which we would care to conceal from the public. We will not now admit or charge anything, but simply state for the information of the editor of the Whig, that if he wishes his nefarious transactions, in the congressional campaign of 1858, made known to the public, it is only necessary for him to reproduce: a little more explicitly, an item in the last issue of his paper. We can accommodate the Whig man to his heart's content in any line, as we happen to any other than an enviable position before the comwe have unscupulous men to deal with, we deal John, or sing mum.

THE WINCHPOTER BATTLE.

WINCHESTER, March 25. On Sunday morning, at sunrise, Gen. Jackson being reinforced, artacked Gen. Shields near Kearnstown, three miles distant. The rebel force was composed of five hundred of Ashby's cavalry, five thousand infantry, and nine pieces of artiller

A Mrs. Siddons: having been burnt to death by the explosion of a can of Kerosene oil, with which she to turn their left flank, which was executed by our troops, but with terrible loss, the enemy being protected by a stone ledge.

The eighty-fourth Pennsylvania and thirteenth Indiana charged their centre, and the fight became general, with a terrible slaughter on both sides. Col. Murray, of the eighty-fourth Pennsylvania, was killed. The enemy retired slowly, bringing their guns to bear at every opportunity. Our men rushed forward with yells, when a panic of the enemy ensued. Our troops followed, and drove them till dark, capturing three guns, three caissons, and muskets, equipments, &c., innumerable.

Winchester, March 25—Evening.—It is currently reported to-night that Gen. Banks overtook and destroyed two hundred of Jackson's wagons. Gen. Banks, who was on his way to Washing ton, on Sunday, returned and assumed command. In the meantime, Gen. Shields' division, commanded by Col. Kimball, pursued the enemy beyond Newtown, shelling them the whole way. Jackson's men, who were perfectly demoralized and beyond control, threw overboard their dead and wounded, to lighten the wagons in their re-

The fact of Gen. Shield's command having been screened from observation on the east side of the town, led the informants of Jackson to believe that all our troops were evacuating, and that Jack-

LATEST PARTICULARS. WINCHESTER, March 25 .- The details of the fight on Sunday record more deeds of personal hisory and daring than any battle in history

Captain Shriber, aid and inspector of General Shield's division, while riding to the crest of a hill to the left of Stone Ridge, in company with two orderlies, was confronted by five rebel cavalry, who emptied their revolvers, killing the two orderlies.-Capt. Shriber charged on them, running one through the hilt of the sword, and receiving a ball through the cap, but escaped unhurt. Capt. Perkins, the chief of General Banks' staff, was mainly instrumental in planning the attack, and performed deeds of skill and valor.

The twelfth rebel regiment engaged were all Virginians, including the 1st, 2nd, 4th, 18th, 23rd, 42nd and 32nd Virginia regiments, and one provisional and one Irish regiment. They had the assistance of Ashby's cavalry, and two eight gun batteries, one six gun battery, and one four gun battery, making twenty-six guns, among which were some of the captured Bull Run pieces. The four color bearers of the 5th Ohio were suc cessively killed, when Capt. Witcomb seized the colors, and prepared sword in hand to defend them. He fell with a shot through the head. A youthful rebel fell, receiving two wounds . When he was approached by one of our officers, he enquired if the officer knew Gen. Banks. He received an affirmative reply. "Tell him I want to take the oath of allegiance," said the boy, "for I have three brothers in the federal service, and I want them to know that I died true to the Union."

Gen. Shields' arm was badly shattered, and owing to the imperfect setting it first received, he must undergo the painful operation of having it This morning many of the bodies of both Union and rebel soldiers remained on the field, but they have since been interred. Many of the wounded have died since having been brought to this city.

The ladies of this town are busy furnishing the wounded with comforts.

The ladies connected with the theatre, which is now occupied as a hospital, are also assidions in their attendance to the sufferers.

The latest reports to-night represent all quiet in the neighborhood of Strasburg.

It is reported that two sons of the late John A.

Washington were in Sunday's fight, and both were wounded, while one was taken a prisoner. From Lieut. Morrow, of Frankstown, who came nome on the Fast Line last evening, having been wounded in the foot, we gather the following information concerning the killed and wounded of the 84th regiment.

Col. Murray was struck by three balls. The first carried away the oilcloth covering of his cap but did him no injury. The second struck exactly in the centre of the bugle on the front of his cap. know a thing or two which would place him in and passed through his head, killing him instantly. The third struck him is the thigh as he was being munity. We know whereof we affirm, and when carried from the field. His remains arrived in Harrisburg on Wednesday where they will remain with them unscrupulously. Talk straight out, until to-morrow (Friday) when they will be forwarded to Hollidaysburg on the Mail Train.

Capt. Gallaher. of Williamsburg, was struck by a minnie ball above the left eye and instantly killed. Lieut. Reem, of Frankstown, and privates Paul Long, from near Hollidaysburg, Brubaker, master at that place. It was sent us by Lieut. PANIC AT PEA RIDGE.—Our aggregate loss in killed, wounded and missing, in the battle of Pea Ridge, was 1,812. As an evidence of the dispiriting effect of the contest, it is stated that a Colonel York to lay in his supply spring goods. Knowing all the "ropes" around wholesale houses in those cities, and buying for cash, he is enabled to secure a selection of goods at low prices. Bob understands his business and the wants of his customers, and he will bring a spock of goods that will please, both in style and price.

Ing effect of the contest, it is stated that a Colonel of Arkansas militia retreated with his regiment for Arkansas militia retreated with his regiment for Arkansas militia retreated with his regiment for the secure of action, and there ordered his men to stack their arms, and return to their homes, he being ultrary disheartened and disquisted with the rebellion, and his men being quality so, judging from the fidelity with which they carried out his enders. Their guns, two hundred in number, were found by our troops carefully stacked and unguarded in a narrow ravine.

The matter of running away has been reluced to a science by the rebels. At Newbern, ar soon as they heard of the approach of the Yankees, they got a train ready, and as soon as they were whipped, they jumped into the cars, and ran off at the rate of twenty miles per hour. That beats Floyd's style.
