DEATH AND FUNERAL OBSEQUIES OF LIEUT. FEORGE W. BURLEY .- It is our unwelcome duty this week to chronicle the death of Lieutenant George W. Burley, son of Mr. John Burley, of this place. He died in Washington City on Thurslav last, 26th ult., of typhoid fever.

On the breaking out of the rebellion Lieut. B. ralisted in Capt. Bell's company, of Tyrone, and erved a three months' campaign, as 1st sergeant. When the camp of instruction was opened at Huntingdon, he again volunteered in the service of his ountry, this time occupying the position of 1st Lientenant of Captain Brisbin's company, of the 10th Regiment. The regiment was first assigned active duty in General Lander's division, and anicipated in several skirmishes under that offi-After the death of General Lander, the division was placed under command of General was in the thickest of the fight at Winchester, and himself most nobly on that occasion. He was with his company in every action which followed. tr Front Royal he bore his full share of the dangers, and stood by his men during their retreat efore the hosts of "Stonewall" Jackson. It is said of him that he never left his company for half day from the time they were mustered into ser-

When attacked with the disease which terminaed his existence, he still refused to leave his post, and did not leave it until he fell exhausted on the ield, and had to be carried off in an ambulance.-After remaining in the camp hospital a short time a was convinced that he could not soon again take the field, and he accordingly resigned his poition and started for home. Arriving at Washington city he was so much worse that he was imable to get out of the cars. He requested to be taken to a private house, not wishing to go to any if the hospitals. A young man who was standing and heard his request, took an interest in him, ad had him conveyed to his boarding house, in a quiet part of the city, where he received every pos-and so often rallied, and for the honor of which he had so bravely fought. What a fitting sight on which to close his eyes forever, and what an evidence of true patriotism and genuine love for his ountry, thus to desire to fix his last gaze upon its scred emblem and give to it his last thoughts up-

The fatal archer had marked Lieutenant Burley as his victim, and notwithstanding good medical attention and the motherly care bestowed upon him the lady of the house, he sunk rapidly, and on he fourth day after his arrival in the city, he slept the sleep that knows no waking."

His body was immediately embalmed and placed a metalic coffin and sent to this place, where it rrived on Saturday morning last. His funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, at o'clock. The cortege consisted of an escort of nfantry, under command of Cantain Szink, the lodge of Odd Fellows, in this place, and a large oncourse of citizens, the whole preceeded by the Altoona Brass Band. The impressive burial serrices of the Odd Fellows were gone through with the house and grave, after which the infantry ired the usual number of vollies over the grave.lieut. Burley was 28 years of age, and unmarried.

made to form a military company in this place, Altoona to form one or more full companies, yet all the exertions put forth by Capt. Szink and others have failed to secure half a company. We imagine that one reason, and, perhaps, the principal one, is that the young men are afraid they will be styled "Sunday soldiers," which is equivalent to a charge of cowardice. We can't understand why a man who volunteers in the company now about to be formed, should be any more liable to such a charge than the man who does not. The man who puts on a uniform, not intending to go into actual service at present, is no more a coward than he who refuses to join a company lest he should have to go to war some time in the future, and the last named would be the only man who would say "Sunday Soldier." Almost every large town in he country has a regularly organized and uniformed company, and why should there not be one in Altoona? Are the various companies and regments of Philadelphia, Lancaster, Harrisburg, &c., scoffed at? Certainly not. On the contrary they are drilling, and always ready in case of a pressing mergency, such as we had some time since Again, we need a military company to do approlatate honor to deceased soldiers who may be sent home for interment. We should have a uniformed company for this purpose if nothing more, although we hope when we do have it, it may seldom, or lever be called on to perform that duty. Captain Saink has sixty stand of new arms on hand with hich to fit up a company.

CAPT. CROZIER WOUNDED .- In the list of causualties in the late engagement of the right wing of General McClellan's army, before Richmond, we are sorry to find the name of Captain R. J. Crozier, of this place, noticed as being wounded in the arm and side, badly. The particulars not being given, we cannot tell whether the wound was from shot or shell. Knowing the dashing bravery of the Captain, and his utter disregard of consequences when placed face to face with his foes, we are not surprised that he was among the first in the list of causualties. We hope that his injuries may be less serious than the above would lead us to suppose. The fact of his being wounded is an indication that his company, recruited in this place and Hollidaysburg, was in the action, MILITARY COMPANY.—An effort is now being but we do not recognize any of the names published among the wounded of the 62d regiment as but for some reason or other it appears to be an up being from this county. FRUIT CANS & JARS!

ALTOONA, PA. HUYETT & FRIDLEY'S PATENT. These Cans and Jars, being perfectly simple in their arrangement, and requiring no cement or solder to make them Air-Tight, are the most reliable and convenient vessels for preserving fruits and vegetables of all kinds, that are in the market.

THEY POSSESS THE FOLLOWING ADVANTAGES: THEY POSSESS THE FOLLOWING ADVANTAGES:

1st. All that is required after the fruit has been put in hot, is simply to scrow the top down tightly.

2d. They can be opened by a single turn of the cover, and the contents taken out in one-fourth the time required by other cans.

3d. Besides their simplicity and ease of adjustment, and impossibility of stoppers blowing out, they show at all times the exact condition of the fruit, by simply looking at the top of the cover; if the gum is concave the fruit is good; if convex, the fruit is going to spoil, but will always show itself in time to be saved.

Directions. Heat the Jars or p ace an iron spoon in them while filling, which will avoid cracking. After the Jars are full take out the spoon or iron, and screw down the cap tight. Care should be taken to replace the same covers on the me Jars from which they were taken. To restore the gums that have been used, to their origi
