OUR BRAVEST AND BEST—WHERE ARE THEY?

Ask not—the truly heart-stone tells.

To plain the mournful story:

Gone in their beauty and their pride:

To swell the ranks of glory.

Scarcely any home that has not now

Some vacant, lonely chair:

Look in the forward battle-line:

Our bravest are all there!

They'll tread again the gory steps

Our soldier's tread of yore:

Avenge the sacred blood that dyed

The stones at Baltimore!

To shake from off our banner's fold

The dust that on it lay,

God takes his mighty cause in hand

And guides them on their way!

We've sent our best and bravest forth

To these unhappy wars

To lift our country's flag again:

The golden Stars and Stripes.

To fight as gallant Lyon fought.

To fall as Winthrop fell!

To all, perchance, a soldier's grave.

So, forward! and farewell!

At home the anxious hearts are full

Of many hopes and fears:

And in the midnight hours alone

We shed our bitter tears.

While coming daylight dawns we still

Whisper the loving prayer:

That God would take our absent ones

In His Almighty care!

Oh! mothers, wives, and maidens,

Have each done what you could.

You've cradled theaching long

And sought your country's good.

You've taught your lips to smile farewell,

And bravely met the day:

While yours the banner lot it is

To wait, and watch and pray:

Oh, women, noble, suffering hearts,

Hope for a fairer dawn!

The hand that doth the trial

Will give a brightening morn!

Pray on, then, with a mighty faith:

For freedom's right and law:

That, whoever live or die,

God save his holy cause!

And if they fall, (as fall they may)

In mercy, Father, comfort send

Together with the blow.

Not for ourselves we pray.

Our bravest and our best,

Oh, guide them safely through the fray!

Or take them to Thy rest!
