THE RELIEF COMMITTEE .- The labors of the emilitee for the relief of soldiers' families are by means light and are rendered gratuitously, yet embers come in for no small amount of cen-. In their search for the families of volunthey met with very diversified cases. Some were really re dy would scarcely adm't it, and en sid was tendered thankfully received what given them. Others positively refused receive anything, and others again were ir and ill-poken and not sparing in their demeignons of the committe, the government and armst of mankind" because they were not supad with the best in the market. A few days are complaint was made to us that the family of connicer was not attended to by the committee was suffering for want of the necessaries of On making inquiry we learned that aid had tendered the family and was rejected. The man who made the complaint had not gone to committee, as he should have done, and found the truth in the case, but at once set about deancing the committee. It was his duty, as it is edny of every other citizen, to make known to and member of the committee any needy families er may know, and then, if they are not attended let that member be censured or dismissed. If e iamily referred to suffers, it is not the fault of

in a previous article we expressed a fear that ere were some who, from a false sense of delicawould suffer and almost starve, rather than apfor relief. Let such cases, be seached out and ings. In contradistinction to this, we may note a woman who receives aid, recently threatened fast and plentifully as she would like to receive. Board will no doubt be compelled to refuse of in some cases, for in every community there persons who will apply from more greediness. not from necessity, and yet these are the first use the cry about "starving soldiers' families." thate to the relief of all families of volunteers, touly to the really necessitons.

SOLDIERS INTERED. The circle in the centre of Fair View Cemetry; set apart by the Associaduring the war, received three accessions on Sun- ingly: day last, viz:-the bodies of Isnac Markley and oseph McLaughlin, of company D. 125th Regt., who fell at the battle of Antietam and George Everson, of the 8th Pa. Reserves, who fell at South Mountain. The bodies of John E. Davis and John Rose, of Co. D. 125th Regt. will be brought home this week, and laid beside their companions. The body of Lient. S. C. Potts was Sunday, accompained by the Good Will Fire Company, of which he was a member, and the Mounnineers. Efforts have been made to secure the embers of his company, who may be killed or die in South Carolina, but we cannot say whether

A. L. S. OR T.-We have had several letters nimself "A. L. S." or "A. L. T." who is endeavorthe character of the 1st Lieutenant, A. W. Marshal. A paragraph in the last letter received rom the company reads as follows-

"We would ask him, (A. L. S. or T.) to give us his name. If what he writes be facts, he ought either to be afraid or ashamed to give his name n connection with them. A man who is afraid o come out and fight for his country ought not endeavor to create disturbances among those who have left their homes and friends and offered hemselves as sacrifices on the altar of their conntry. We esteem Lieut, Marshall a brave soldier ter evidence than that of anonymous letters that our confidence is misplaced.

We think it wrong for any man to attempt pooting and we hope he will get it.

The remains of General Conrad Feger

Jackson passed through this place on Friday last, terred at 1 o'clock P. M. on Saturday. The deand was well known and much respected by most of our citizens. He was born in Reading. He entered the service, some eighteen months since as Colonel of the 9th Pa. Reserves. He shared all the hardships of his men on the Penusula, was with them at South Mountain and Antietam, and by his soldierly conduct on all oceasions made himself distinguished to the extent that when Gen. Ord was ordered to the West, he (Col. Jackson) was promoted to the office of Brig. General and assumed command of General Ord's Brigade, at the head of which he fell, on the 12th nst., nobly battling for his country's honor.

CURIOSITY.-A few days since we were shown a book printed in 1681, 121 years ago. Compared with the books issued at the present day, it presents a wide contrast. The improvement in the art of printing, both in the appearance of the work, the speed in execution and the price, can also be comprehended by comparison. More improvements have been made in the art of printing, within the last century, than in any other, and almost nd fully competent for the position he holds, and every day adds something more in the way of shall continue to so regard him until we have bet- beauty, speed or durability. AT HOME.—Capt. Pat. Walsh, of the gallant "rhinoserahosses," dogs, dolls, whistles, drums, Eighty-fourth has resigned his command and retops, balls, and plenty of "minstick" for the boys turned home. His company was reduced to ten s not to be expected that the Board will con- to feed the girls on. He has a number of beauti men fit for duty. Seeing no chance for recruiting ful table and mantle ornaments to which he invites his company to the required number, he transthe attention of the fair sex. Call early, ladies, ferred his men to another command and gave up his commission. The Captain looks wears his honors becomingly.

WOUNDED.-Among the wounded in the late on their way to Pittsburgh, where they were in fight at Fredericksburg, we notice the name of George M. Tipton of the 12th U.S. Infantry. ceased was, for a number of years, conductor on Tipton enlisted under Lieur. J. S. Campbell in the Mail Train between this point and Pattsburgh, this place, some eight months since. The character of the wound is not stated. We hope to have the particulars ere we go press.

On the outside of this issue will be found a letter from Hilton Head, S. C., and extracts from a letter from our correspondent "Blain." The Hilton Head letter, although principally copied by our correspondent from the New South, a paper pubi hed at Port Royal, is nevertheless interesting, and will repay a perusal.

Nor YET TAKEN.—The offer of a fine lot of brick clay, a short distance from town, over a good road, has not yet been taken. The chance to secure an opening for what must become a profitable business still awaits a brick-maker to take it up. Somebody will make money out of it.
