skin and flesh so as to expose a fearful sore. The disease on my head went so far that several small pieces of bone came out. I was very week and low spirited, and had given up all hope of ever getting well, as I had tried several skillful physicians and they did me no good. In Sepember last, 1861, I was induced to try " LINDSEY'S IM-PROVED BLOOD SEARCHER." I must confess I had no faith in patent medicines, but after I had used three bottles of Blood Searcher, the ulcers on my head and arm began to heal. They tell me you must die my child, And walk alone that mystic vale, Where sounds the rush of waters wild. Where reigns the Kiug of terrors pale Then doth thy heart beat low with fear. And wish with me on tearth to stay, Or is there aught that gives theo cheer? Do angels beckon thee away ? Father 'tis hard to part with thee, But. Jesus will take care of me.

Around me hang the mists of death And earthly scenes are hid from view, I soon must yield life's fleeting breath And bid you all a fond adieu. And bid you and hold saide. Dear friends come gather 'round me now, Your forms once more I wish to see, For death's cold sweat is on my brow, And soon my spirit shall be free. Mother I griere to past a sith thee, But, Jesus will take cars of me.

Oh, let me fondly press each hand A promise give before I go, That you will meet me in that land, Where lite's clear waters ever flow; There will your Agnes longing wait, To greet you on that blissful shore, And pass with you that pearly gate, Where sighs and tears are known no more. My brothers, when you part with me, Let Jesus then your comfort be.

Like as the resebud's early bloom, So entered I life's active scene, And future joys did brightly loom Like sun er clouds in skies serene But sudden as the lightning's gleam My brightest hopes have quickly fied, Like phantoms of the midnight dream. Or silent as the sleeping dead. Dear sisters shed no tears for me, In Jesus let your solace be.

Dear Linney we are called to part, Dear Linney we are called to part, I go to my eternal rest; I feel death's touch upon my heart, I soon shall mingle with the blest. A few more brief and fleeting hours, I'll bail you in that blissful home; Unsullied joys will then be ours, As o'er the verdant plains we roam. Linney grieve not to part with me, Jesus my friend will come for thee.

How transcient is all earthly joy, Alternate change of light and shade, No bliss enjoyed without alloy. Our highest hopes in ruins laid. The desret friends although entwined Around affection's sacred shrine, Love's golden chain can never bind earth-those fondly claimed as thine Agnes and Linney sweetly rest In Jesus-and are ever blest.

In their brief lives they lovely were, Not death's cold stream could them divide; On Heaven's green plains together share The bliss that is on earth denied. A duzzling crowu advrns each brow. With golden harps they join in songs Around the throne—and meekly bow To Him, to whom all praise belongs. They live, they live, they are not dead, To founts of bliss by Jesus led.
