TUESDAY, JULY 7, 1863.

The Unorganized Militia's Campaign.

The unprecedented excitement of the last few weeks has served to show not only to the rest of mankind, but even to ourselves, the latent energy in the breasts of the American people, which...

On Tuesday, the 16th of June, it was announced that the rebels, having made a raid into Pennsylvania, contemplated injuring the Pennsylvania Railroad Road, and that in all probability Altoona would be one point of attack.

With these after throwing up some earthworks at Altoona Mills, in Bedford county—the march was resumed on the evening of the 19th for Bedford and Bloody Run. The former place was reached the same night, and on the morning this hastily gotten up force joined Gen. Milroy at Bloody Run.

Horrible stories have been told about the attacks made by this army upon hen-roosts and spring-houses, but as a general thing they are untrue. It is a fact, that part of our way seemed to lie in an enemy's land, and the boys did capture some contraband chickens which they say with rebel ingratitude attempted to bite them.

It would be but an act of justice to say here that an independent company, led by Captain Wallace of Huntington, and some 10 or 12 of the twelfth cavalry, led by Capt. Hartman of this place, did some efficient skirmishing a mile or two above McConeburg where two of the twelfth and a volunteer from Lewisburg were wounded.

Immediately on the return of the militia, Gov. Curtin having called for 60,000 men for 90 days, for this defence. Captains Campbell and Huff began to raise companies of infantry and Capt. J. M. Bell a company of Cavalry, all of which were completed, and sworn in and started for Camp Reynolds at Huntington on the 2d inst.

Previous to starting Capt. Huff was the recipient of a beautiful sword, the gift of the men of his command. It was presented on their behalf by Hon. L. W. Hall and received by the Captain in person. We give below the officers and number of men in each company, viz: Cavalry—Capt. J. M. Bell, 1st Lieut. Marshal McCormick, 2d Lieut. John B. Cunningham and 92 men.

There is also a body of men under command, we believe, of Col. Sisk, called the Mountain Sharpshooters, from this place, in camp. Whether a full company or not we are not able to say, as we could secure no account of them.

We visited the boys in camp yesterday and thought their new clothes looked very well. They seem to be enjoying themselves, and all unite in saying that there shall be no chicken raids in old mother Huntington. They think the mass of the people around them are loyal. They do not fear that they will be "blown by rebel chickens" but think that they will grow confident when the mountain ridges of the ancient borough are giving signs. One of the boys, in his joy, told us he never got such good eating in his life.

Our forces occupy the strongest possible position. A Bank movement on our left is impossible. At about 8 o'clock last night the Florida Brigade of General Longstreet's division, with a Brigadier General in command, advanced to within our lines and gave themselves up with their colors.

A bearer of dispatches from Jeff. Davis to Gen. Lee has been captured. The dispatches order General Lee particularly to retreat to Richmond; he states the movement into Pennsylvania was totally against his wishes.

The following were among the officers killed and wounded in yesterday's engagement: Col. Taylor, of the Bucktail regiment, a brother to Edward Taylor, of the same regiment. Lieut. Col. Miles, of the same regiment. Lieut. Metzger, of Philadelphia is wounded. Major Kenely of the Eleventh New Jersey regiment was wounded in the knee.

PHILADELPHIA, July 5, 1863. The following dispatch has been received at the War Department. PATENTERS, Md., July 4th—8 P. M. To GEN. HALLECK, General-in-Chief: An expedition sent out by me has just returned, having entirely destroyed the enemy's pontoon bridge over the Potomac at Williamsport, capturing a guard, consisting of a lieutenant and thirteen men. (Signed) W. H. FRENCH, Maj. Gen.

THE DRAFT.—From numerous correspondents of the press in Washington, we learn that it has been determined that, while all persons coming within the provisions of the act of enrollment for calling out the national forces are to be enrolled, nevertheless, under the first enrollment, those who were in the military service at the time the act went into effect, namely, the 3d of March last, are not to be included in that class which is subject to the first draft.

THE SITUATION. The absence of the entire force of printers, with one exception, rendered it impossible for us to issue a paper within the past three weeks. The loss, however, is to ourselves and not to our subscribers, as we have to make up all the lost numbers. Considering the circumstances which called our hands into the military ranks, we feel sure that our subscribers will freely forgive us.

GLORIOUS NEWS FROM GEN. MEADE. GETTYSBURG, Friday, July 3, 1863. The third day's battle began this morning at 4 o'clock. The fight was commenced by the rebels on our right. The fight there has been unceasing, and the irregularity of the fire—black and scattering for awhile, and then heavy and continuous—indicates reinforcements on both sides.

Important dispatches have been captured by Capt. Dahlgren and Kline, the gallant scout, from Jeff. Davis and Cooper to Gen. Lee. They indicate anxiety for the safety of Richmond. Both Gen. Lee and the reinforcements from Beauregard which he had for.

The most terrific fight of the war has taken place. Our men stood up heroically. To-day was the most awful of all. The loss on both sides has been tremendous. The rebel Generals Longstreet and Barksdale were mortally wounded and have since died.

The fight raged furiously till ten o'clock last night. We took Gettysburg, occupying two-thirds of the rebel line, and the other third. Gen. Sickles was routed about 5 o'clock, in the right leg, which was subsequently amputated. He is doing well.

The authorities have the names, as we are informed, of ten cities of Carlisle, Pa., who are traitors in assisting themselves before the Rebel Gen. Jenkins. They assured him that they were friends to the Southern Confederacy, and begged him to parole them, that they might not be detained in the Confederate States, and come down to their homes, but remarked that they were such friends to the Southern cause, they were of course willing to fight for it, and actually put them into his ranks!

The enemy opened at one o'clock P. M. with our snipers and fifty guns concentrated on our left and centre, and fought three hours. He then assaulted our entire line but was handsomely repulsed, with a very severe loss in dead and wounded, and leaving 3,000 prisoners in our hands.

There has been no fighting up to this time to-day. Last evening we drove the enemy back to Gettysburg. Our lines this morning extend eight miles around Gettysburg. Our batteries being on the hills looking on the town from the South. We occupy Round Top Ridge, commanding the Chambersburg turnpike and have cut off all lines of the retreat.

OUR MOTTO. "The nimble mind better than the slow dollar." Come one, come all and be convinced that the cash system is to your advantage, and you will go away with the resolve that my establishment is the place to save money. No charge for showing goods. Call and examine.

I would respectfully invite your attention to my well selected assortment of Ladies and Misses' Dry Goods, containing all the late and most desirable styles of dresses to be found in the Eastern markets, among which may be had, Mozambiques, Celligues, Killarney Checks, Union Checks, Shepherds Plaid, Linen Lutes, Silk Poplins, a full and complete stock of fancy and plain Linens and Shirtings, Linen, Muslin, Ladies and Gents' Gloves and Hosiery, and a tremendous stock of Austin Kelly & Co's Patent Hoop Skirts, from four to fifty springs, which I can sell at least 25 per cent. below Philadelphia retail prices.

PHILADELPHIA, July 5, 1863. The following dispatch has been received at the War Department. PATENTERS, Md., July 4th—8 P. M. To GEN. HALLECK, General-in-Chief: An expedition sent out by me has just returned, having entirely destroyed the enemy's pontoon bridge over the Potomac at Williamsport, capturing a guard, consisting of a lieutenant and thirteen men. GLORIOUS NEWS. VICKSBURG SURRENDERED.

We have just received intelligence, purporting to be official, that Vicksburg surrendered to our forces on the 4th day of July.

The Braider is used for laying cord or narrow braid upon any fabric. The work resembles embroidery and is popular for ornamenting children's clothes, morning dresses, slippers, etc. How are our Dresses so nice?—A contemporary answers the foregoing question in the following lively manner—"By a sewing machine, of course. We trust that the day is over in which needle druggery sets a feeble opposition to the musical click of the Wheeler & Wilson machine. A lady who says she does not know how to use a sewing machine, is looked upon as much distrust as a lady who says she don't like babies? Side by side, in every house, we see the patient and sewing machine. Of course, people have a right to their preference; but give us the merry little musician whose crystal eye and silver tongue not only fill the ear with melody, but set the pulses of life and health throbbing away in the old-fashioned way of a million women. Is it not better than all the pianos ever turned? Some of the newest improvements to the Wheeler & Wilson machine, are the Binder, Braider and Corset, all of which ladies find indispensable. The binder makes up dresses appropriate to the present mania for dora-ving everything with braid. "I do not know what we should do without the Wheeler & Wilson Braider," said the director of one of our fashionable mania establishments, when we inquired how she tasted labyrinths of braid were laid on, and his words are echoed in every home in the land. Really, we scarcely know which blessing to wish our young lady friends—a Wheeler & Wilson machine or a husband, who will be prepared to buy one for her, for they can exist minus the matrimonial alliance, but can't do without a sewing machine. What do you say, girls?"
