CARRIER'S ADDRESS or THE DEMOCRATIC WATCHMAN.

~JANUABY 1, A. D. 1836.

Another year; passed to oblivion's shade, With all its sorrows in the grave is laid-With joys to soothe the aching heart of man We feel, admit, but its events must scan.

Then oh, arouse Great Goddess of the Muse And teach us thy grand precepts to peruse Teach us to gaze on nature in her dress. " Of earthly pride and noble happiness-Teach us to know that as we live, we feel, There's something higher than individual weal- [here. Something that makes each man a sovereign The subject only of sweet Pity's tear : The muse will sing, as the winds ring out, The requiem of the year -

"And tunes its voice to a merry shout. As the new one doth appear. Yet Time moves on with sturdy strides,

In his path of traumphs grand. He heeds no winds, nor surging tides, Nor knows no clime or land,

His mighty arm, with a giant's grasp, Has crushed full many days, And he will march, with zest to clasp,

The sun's last dying rays.

. Oh, who can gaze on the past and feel, That sorrow's cups o'erflow-And turn with pain from the thoughts that steal Across the troubled soul.

Let him arouse, for the future's light Sheds lustre on his path. Let him awake, for the day is bright," Nor fear misfortune's wrath. If sorrow comes-chase away the tear

That dims the eye of love-And read this truth-you should never fear; THERE'S A NOME OF LOVE ABOVE!

We.gaze upon the past in wondrous awe, To view the changes grand to mind and time. And feel the teachings of their truth sublime. How mighty are the deeds which now disturb, The awakening passions of the eastern world,

Where slaves in bending to a tyrant's knee, Sigh for the moment that shall maker them free,

Where silken fraud, 'neath base corruption's T'm. Scenrely lives from indignation's harm

And stalwart men, oh shame, servilely groan In toil and sweat, 'neath every tott'ring throne.

How long will man await the brilliant hour, That gives to kim his destined Godlike power, Which, wickled nobly in courageous fight, Inspires him onward for his freedom's life ? And though the battle may be lost or won, 'Tis freedom's battle and has just begun !

And why should Europe not be free, oh say. Genius of Truth, thy answer now we pray? She answers Yas! All Europe must be free Because 'the part of Europe's destiny ! She will be free, because the voice of God." Calls forth a soldier from each rock and clod. She must be free ! Who questions the decree ?

When God's with right- and God is rictory.

While awent Italia groans, and in her tears Hungary, Time's Njobe, would hide her fears. While France, once proud in native truth and trust, ...

Bows her wan head into the servile dust-And German learning, grand in legion's tale, Join's in the requiem of the solemn wail --Out from the East the cries of vengeance pour, That drown the surges of old Ocean's roar. A Moslem cry-unchecked by Russian pride, A mighty spirit, that all storms betide-Will, though it issues from a heathen clime, Beget its votaries in all future time.

The Farmer's Department. "An ANTRICAN RAT DOG .- Last summer Bob L. crossed the Atlantic to spend a little time and a good deal of money in looking at the women and wonders of the world. Among the wonders which he took along, "just for the fun of the thing," was a smallsized snapping turtle. Having a week's leisure in London, Bob took his traps and went over to Ireland. The first night he spent "on the sod;" was at a little road side inn about fifteen miles from Dublin. Having, partaken of a supper of bacon and eggs, Bob walked into the har and placed the turtle on the floor. The first one, to notice the "critter," was Mr. Flynn, who kept the house. " And what do you call that ?" " That is an American rat dog." "A what ?k. i 🖕 " An American rat dog." . " Musha, go along-and do you call such spalpeen a dog ?" "I do, indeed, and he is worthy of his name." "Will he fight ?" . Yes sir, not only fight, but will whip any eight pound dog in Ireland." "Will you hold me ten shillings on that ?" 4 I will.? "Enough said. Barney get the brindle pup we bought of Sheridan yesterday, and salt, all holled for about fifteen minutes, let him out." Barney did as desired. The brindle pup nurchased from Sheridan was brought in. The pup took a look, and then he made a plunge. The turtle caught him by the nose. The pup then gave one yell and put for the door. When last seen he was rushing towards Dublin as if he had eight tin cups tied to his tail. Whether Flynn-gave up the money without getting a shelalah to act as jumpire, will be known when the noxt steamer arrives. 17 A Down-cast paper gives the Maine. liquor law a thrust after the following fashion. A friend of ours, it says, had arrived late at a hotel, and asked for some spirits. " Stranger," said the landlord, " you forret I guess, you're in the State of Maine We've no spirits here, but we have some tarnation fine lemonade."

The lemonade was acceeded to, brought and tasted. The lemonade was half whisky and water. " This is rather powerful lengonato," said.

TORT SURGICAL-At a Inte examination of the College of Surgeons, a candidate was asked by Aberthney, what he would do if a nesia of sulphate of soda - that may be m man was blown up by gunpowder.

"Why," coolly replied the tyre, "wait until he came down again." "True," said Aberthney, "and suppose I kicked you for such an impertinent reply, what muscles should I put in motion ?" -"Why," replied the young man, "the flexors and extensors of my arm, for I should floor you directly." IT Ashady was once declaring that she could not understand how gentlemen could smoke. "It certainly shortens their lives," said she. . "I don't know that," replied a gentleman "There's my father who smokes every blessed day, and is now seventy years old." "Well," was the reply, ' if he had never moked he might have been eighty."

A RESEMBLANCE .--- " Col. W. is a fine looking man, am't he !" said a friend of ours, the other day. "Yes." replied another; "I was taken for him once." " You ! why, you're as ugly as sin !" "I don't care for that : I was taken for him : I endorsed his note, and was taken for him-by the sheriff." • -----When a young man confidently tells
