The supplies are obtained from extensive forests in Ohio.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

FIRE.—On Saturday night last, the Smoke house and Wash house of Mr. Saml. Linn, Esq., caught fire, and was burned to the ground, destroying a considerable amount of meat belonging to Mr. Linn and his neighbors, who had it there to smoke. There was no water to be had from public hydrants—as by order of the Town Council they were removed. Believing they intended for the best to compel all freeholders to introduce water on their property and to have private hydrants, might be pardonable. But did not that fire prove that they should have public hydrants on public streets from the main pipes. In the vicinity of that fire, there was but one or two private hydrants yielding water, all the rest were frozen up—no engine, no fire-hooks or ladders—in fact no precaution or prevention at hand to put out fire. In a borough under such circumstances it is cruel to others to hear the cry of fire, and then be unable to render assistance to save property, but must stand by and see valuable buildings destroyed, without being able to give any assistance on account of having no public hydrants, engine, hooks, ladders or fire company. Is it not time for the citizens of Bellefonte to be up and doing in this matter—not by meeting, passing resolutions, committees to form companies, &c., but honestly to meet and at once purchase a good and sufficient engine, hooks, ladders and suction box, form a company and be prepared for an emergency in case of fire. We do not know of any town that is less prepared or in more danger from fire, and as we have been informed has before this had ample warning to provide for the ravages of the element of fire.

WE HAVE BEEN INFORMED that the landlord of the Pennsylvania Hotel, Capt. R. D. Cummings, has leased the entire second story of Brockerhoff's Row, fronting on Main street, and intends making such improvements as will render the establishment one of the most complete and convenient hotels in the interior of the State. The Captain has a reputation, as an entertainer of man and beast, all over the Commonwealth, and we appreciate his commendable enterprise and industry to maintain the good name of the good old "Pennsylvania Hotel." This addition will make the house not only the largest, but the most comfortable in the county.

THE MARKETS.

REPORTED WEEKLY FOR THE DEMOCRATIC WATCHMAN, BY WM. J. KEALSH

BELLEFONTE, March 12

There has been some improvement in favor of the producer, in the prices of wheat and rye in the east since last week's report. Breadstuffs are steady. The opening of navigation may change the prices somewhat, and cause a decline.

Flour has been selling in this town at $8 50 per bbl. for good quality, with demand only for immediate wants.

Wheat is bought at per bushel.

Rye—small sales at 65 to 70 cents cash, per bushel.

Corn—very little coming in. The price for corn in the car during last week was 45 cents. It is spoken of as not being worth more than 48 cts., but as it does not bear hauling any distance it may not get down below 45 cents.

Oats—considerable coming in, varying in prices for small lots according to the wants or convenience of the consumer, from 28 to 31 cents per bushel.

Beef.—The market for fat cattle in the eastern cities has advanced. Our farmers within a few years, have improved their stocks of cattle very much. The citizens of this region are gratified by seeing as fine looking fat cattle being driven into town as can be seen in the Philadelphia and New York markets. Lieb, and Gilliland & Cottle are supplying this neighborhood with a very superior quality of beef. Messrs. Gilliland & Cottle purchased of Mr. Jacob Sparr near Boalsburg, a steer and a heifer each three years old, weighing respectively 1575 and 1281 on foot—terms private. These cattle are equal to any offered in the eastern markets. Samuel Gilliland of Harris township, is now feeding five head of cattle, which were intended for the State Fair at Harrisburg, all coming within the ages set forth in the advertisement. They deserve more than a passing notice. Their ages and weight are as follows: Cow 8 years old 1300 lbs.; Cow 5 years old 1520 lbs.; Heifer 3 years old 1590 lbs.; Steer 4 years old 1950 lbs., and Steer 2½ years old 1800 lbs. The Steers are perfect specimens of the Durham, and Devon breeds. Harris township has fattened more and better cattle than any other township in the county.

Pork	7 cts., very little coming in.
Potatoes	50cts. per bushel.
Butter	20cts per lb.
Tallow	12½ " "
Lard	10 " "
Eggs	15cts. per dozen.

Bidders are invited to predicate their bids upon the use of brick as well as stone for the building. The plan and specifications, as finally adopted by the Committee, may be examined at any time after the 20th of February, inst., at the office of the State society in Harrisburg, by application to Henry Gilbert or A. G. Heister. Proposals may be addressed to H. N. McAllister, Bellefonte, or Frederick Watts, Carlisle.

EDUCATIONAL.

The following letter we copy from the February number of the Pennsylvania School Journal. As it refers to a subject that is interesting to all classes of the community, we bespeak for it a careful perusal:

These are the primary branches—not merely in position, but they are of primary importance too. This is too apt to be forgotten.

I propose to consider what attainments in these branches might be considered necessary, to entitle a teacher to a No. 1 certificate.

That peculiar form of comparison which mercantile men use, but which grammarians, I believe, do not recognize, in which a super superlative grade is signified by the phrase "A, No. 1," is not applicable to State certificates. The "No 1" is the absolutely superlative, and it should be true to its significance, both in justice to teachers who have acquired a claim to it, and as an inducement to others not to stop short of excellence.

As writing naturally precedes reading, I will remark on it first. And first: the candidate should be skillful in writing copy-hand. In writing between lines, a quarter of an inch apart or less—which is the utmost reach of six-years-old-fingers—the strokes should not only be uniform in distance and grade, but accurately joined and strictly to the lines. Small hand should be the same in miniature. Capitals and figures should be well balanced and gracefully outlined.

The teacher should also have some skill in engrossing in back or upright hand, and in lettering in German and Roman. It is a refreshing change of practice to learners, and often useful.

Some skill and taste should be manifested in the composition or getting up of headings or titles, verses, epitaphs, &c., although this art more properly belongs to composition.

Another accomplishment which must now a-days be considered essential to the qualifications of a finished teacher of writing is a practical knowledge of phonographic short-hand. This art should be understood by every common school teacher, because it should be taught and learned in every common school, and for the following reasons among others.

1st. It is the best possible scriptal exercise for the hand. The strokes are of necessity geometrically correct in direction, in curvature and in length. They are the best first lessons in drawing or draughting. The monotony of ordinary writing wearies scholars. After some weeks of practice, the sameness of the process induces blots, faults, desperate dashes of the pen, shrugging of the shoulders, lolling of the tongue, and other symptoms of disgust. An occasional change to figures, capitals, print, or the endless combinations of form in phonographic writing, relieves this, and keeps up constant care and therefore constant progress.

2d. Its practice cultivates the ear, involving an intimate practical knowledge of the sounds in every word to be written, and is therefore an important auxiliary in the study of a much neglected feature in modern spelling book.

3d. The art is simple, so that children of eight years can readily learn it, and a teacher unacquainted with it, can in a week or two of two half hours daily practice, advance himself to give the first blackboard lessons to a juvenile class, and to illustrate interestingly.

4th. It is, when acquired, an invaluable accomplishment. Prof Hart, Principal of the Philadelphia High School for many years, and the best authority that can be quoted, says, "Whatever value be attached to writing as an art is increased five fold by a practical knowledge of phonography;" and he speaks in the highest terms, from experience in the school under his charge, of the incidental advantages attending its practice, and of its value in every business, and as supplying of itself a ready and reliable means of support. All who are familiar with the art concur in this testimony.

5th. Like the ordinary hand it should be learned and practised in childhood, to secure full expertness and manual dexterity. Few adults can practice sufficiently to educate their more rigid muscles.

The candidate for a No 1 certificate as a Teacher of Reading must, of necessity be a good reader. The writing master may accomplish much by using other copies than his own, and by securing close imitation and proper control of the pen; but the teacher of reading cannot well borrow elocutionary examples, nor can his scholars discover of themselves how a sentence or passage should be read with proper effect, any more than they could find out how to sing a tune when first learning music, without having heard it sung.

The teacher must, then, be a good elocutionist, ready at the utterance, description, or identification of the sounds of the language, as described in phonetic works and in all spelling books published since public attention has been especially called to the phonetic features of English words—of which Towers' Speller and Enuncator is a good illustration. He should of course be able to render any of the examples of reading in pauses, inflections, force, emphasis, manner, time, &c., given in Works on Elocution (of which Parker and Zachos' Reading and Elocution is an admirable and practical example) with the ease and naturalness of tone, which only long and careful practice under good copies can give, especially if erroneous habits have been pre-acquired.

It is naturally to be expected that teachers should be most thoroughly versed in the rudiments of instruction. It is where the fullest ability is most requisite. Those who make their steps firm and sure are not likely to fail in subsequent ones.

EMPIRE DAGUERREAN GALLERY.
The blushing flowers fade from earth,
Youth's beauties pass away,
But Barnhart's pictures ever bloom,
To mock at Time's decay!
This Gallery is now opened to the public, under the control of
J. S. BARNHART,
With facilities for Daguerreotyping rarely equalled or perhaps never surpassed in the country. A soft, mellow tone, beautifully blended in light and shade; a perfect delineation of features and drapery, and the pleasing effect incident to a judicious arrangement of the attitude, are truly objects worthy of no small consideration. Like many other branches of science, the most important requisites can only be attained by years of practical experience and close observation. Of such we have had the only unrivaled opportunities.
Those who have friends they fondly cherish, should remember disease may soon lay its withering hand upon them. The vital spark of life, that today imparts bright anticipations of the future, to-morrow may be waning amid the lingering cries of mortality. Why not secure your pictures when it is both expedient and economical to do so? We wish not to be under the necessity of transferring your images to a polished surface, in the icy embrace of death. We are often called upon to perform this sad act in memory of the departed, but hereafter in no case will our charge be less than $10, nor will the pictures of such have died of contagious diseases be taken for any inducement whatever.
Pictures handed in out of the gallery, of any size, shape or finish. Also, GOLD and GILT LOCKETS kept constantly on hand.
Instruction given and Apparatus furnished on reasonable terms.

STEAM UP IN MILESBURG. THE Marble speculators at Lock Haven are in a great panic about my invention of enamelling letters on marble, they are satisfied it will make all such work more conspicuous. That is a fact, for all lettering cut must be engraved in the finest style and well formed. It has outstripped the Drilling agents, and given them the fever and ague. Be cool, gentlemen. Don't flurry; for your malady may turn into something worse. I can cure you, if you follow my instructions.
My improvement in lettering marble cannot stop; it has taken root, and is blossoming like a rose. There will be erected in the spring, in the Bellefonte Cemetery, three sets of Marble tombstones with the enamelled lettering. This is the first of the kind in America, or in the world, that has ever been heard of.

CHESTNUT STREET, PHILADA.
This new Hotel is located in Chestnut street, between Tenth and Eleventh, running back to the Orange street, an entire square with ample room and accommodations for 250 persons.
The Hotel has much to render it attractive to the Traveller, Sojourner and Citizen, being directly opposite the Academy of Fine Arts, Parkinson's Garden and Saloons and in one of the most pleasant and fashionable places on Chestnut Street, also, in the immediate neighborhood of the Theatres, and other places of amusement.
The Rooms are large, airy, and well ventilated—many of them have communicating doors suitable for Families and Parties traveling together. The Furniture is entirely new, and of the most improved style, and replete with the latest modern Hotel improvements.
In close proximity to the different Railroads diverging from the city, being only one square distant from the great Pennsylvania Railroad Depot, and its central and pleasant location, renders it at all times desirable for the Merchant, as the Traveller for pleasure. Coaches will always be in readiness to convey passengers to and from the Hotel.
The proprietor would also beg leave to give notice, that he will be assisted in the management of this New Establishment, by Mrs M. L. Neefe, the late popular Proprietress of the Yellow Springs Penna., who will have the whole and entire charge of the Ladies' Department, and by Mr George W. Mullen, late Superintendent of the St. Charles Hotel Parksburg, Penna
Under this arrangement, the Proprietor flatters himself that he will be able to provide for every want, and establish the character and reputation of the House as strictly a first class hotell

MASON BROTHERS, NEW YORK,
Publish Saturday, January 19th,
LAMMERE;
By Miss JULIA C. DIXON, author of "Farmingdale,"
1 volume, 12mo. Price, $1 25.
The many readers and admirers of "Farmingdale," will anticipate with pleasure a new volume from the pen of "Gertrude Thomas," (the nom-de-plume formerly used by Mrs. C. Dorr.) We can assure them that they will not find "Lammere" one whit less charming than its predecessor. We shall be disappointed if the public does not find it even warmer praise.
Published Saturday, Feb. 9th,
EDITH, OR THE QUAKER'S DAUGHTER
A TALE OF THE PURITAN TIMES.
By one of her Descendants. 1 vol 12mo. Price $1.25
The scene of this Domestic Tale is laid during that religious persecution of the Quakers, which is so deep and sad a stain upon the bright fame of the Puritans. To the charm of absorbing interest as a tale, it adds the attraction of historical accuracy.
We have never announced new books with greater satisfaction than in the present instance. These are not sensation books. They do not in any respect belong to the "gutter literature" of the day. Though differing wholly in plot, purpose and style, they may alike lay claim to fascinating interests and in adaptation to improve both head and heart.
