In the busy and bustling city, where the insignia of commerce meet us on every hand ally in our ears, we are apt to forget that there are other interests claiming our attention and our aid. Closing our cars for a time to the rumble and roar of active machinery, to the whirl of heavily-laden ' cars, and the shrill shrick of the locomotive ; and closing our cyes to the puffing steamers and lines of drays, and the smoke of factories; it is but right and proper that we should occasionally wander out into the broad fields of our farmers, and look at their rich orqps, and liston to their demands upon our con
