THE GLOBE:

THE OFFICIAL PAPER OF CONGRESS.

I PUBLISH now my annual Prospectus of The Daily Globe, and The Congressional Globe and Appendix, to remind subscribers, and inform those who may desire to subscribe, that Congress will meet on the first Monday of next December, when I shall re-commence publishing the above named papers. They have been so conducted as so long, that most politicians know their character, and therefore I deem it needless to give a minute account of the kind of matter they will contain.

The Daily Globe will contain a report of the Debates in both Branches of Congress as taken down by reporters equal at least, to any corps of short hand writers in this, or in any other country. A majority of them will, each, be able to report, right along, ten thousand words an hour, while the average number of words spoken by fluent speakers rarely exceeds seven thousand five hundred words an hour. When the debates of a day do not make more than forty columns they shall appear in the Daily Globe of the next morning which will contain also the news of the day, together with such editorial articles as may be suggested by passing events.

It is also my intention from time to time, as occasion may require, to publish my valedictory to the public men with whom I have been associated during the last twenty-eight years. Anecdotes of General Jackson and the leaders of the party which he controlled and the leading men of other parties will I believe be interesting, when properly introduced or abated.

In becoming the reporter of the debates of Congress I do not propose to say that the Globe would never be a political paper. This pledge will not be required of me by intending a correct history the political views of each of the distinguished the public men of my time. Although I am and intend to remain, a thorough Democrat I will never obtrude my principles in a way to make them obnoxious to any party. But in regard to persons and events which go to make up history, I hope to make the Globe a lasting memorial, and with that view I am resolved to speak as impartially as I can.

The Congressional Globe and Appendix will contain a report of all the Debates in Congress, reduced to the form of Speeches, and the Annual Reports of the Heads of the Executive Departments, the Laws passed during the session, and every thing else which will make it the most valuable work of the kind ever published in this or any country, whether it be considered in a political, historical, or literary point of view. Congress will be urged to make liberal provision for the publication of the Globe and Appendix, and I have no doubt that provision will be made for the publication of a sufficient number of copies to meet the wants of all who may desire to subscribe. I believe that the Congressional Globe and Appendix will be found to contain more than double the matter of any former Congress
