Reading out of the Party. A certain class of men who are wine their own concert, manifest a disposition to proscribe all men who do not concur with them in every measure of political progress Our understanding of the Democratic faith is, that it is broad and comprehensive in its principles - rational and liberal in its spirit, and emmently progressive in its tendencies Animated by a common spirit of philanthropy, and imbued with sentiments of patriotistn, the members of the great National parly nie not disposed to quarrel about abstract differences, but keeping the common object on all subjects that do not conflict with the of the Democratic Watchman. established and spheal principles of the party.
