Growth of the Union.

Thirty-four stars now adorn the Ameri can flag, three new ones being added to represent the States of Oregon, Minnesota and Kansas. We include the latter because we believe from the evidence that the people of that unfortunate Territory desire admission as a Sovereign State, even under the Lecompton Constitution, with leave to alter and amend at pleasure, and that they will accept the proposition of Congress, and at once close the national agrication that has so long been disturbing our political conspinute and destroying the fraternity that exists between the people of our I mon. Our true national statesmen are those whose broad and comprehensive minds unite with the patriotism of their hearts to form a nel work as it were, of national principles that will protect every legitimate interest that may be fostered into life upon our diversified soil. He who will seize any

The protection of our national Union, and the preservation of our freedom as a great people, is the first step toward the encouragement of individual enterprise or the cultivation of local and per sonal prosperity. What matters it, that we should differ on minor questions, if we agree on the great and fundamental one, of adhering to the Constitution and the country? What is lost if we cannot concur in the establishment of the laws of trade, if we unite in the great principle of self-preserva tion, and determine to sacrifice everything an defence of our known of Laborty ! The only true system of Government, for a people such as we are, is to look upon our comfor the people of the States and Territories What we want our Congressmen to do now is to restrain and control national legislation. and to encourage a spirit of universel patriotism such as amounted our early sires. The Kansas Question at Washington

THE BILL OF THE COMMITTER OF CONFERENCE ,The Detroit Free Press which has advocated the doctrine of popular sovereighty throughout the controversy, and has constantly opposed the effort to admit Kansas without the consent of her people, takes ground in favor of English's bill. It says:

We have not yet received the bill in extenfor the admission of Kansas reported by he Conference Committee, but we have such ccounts of it as give us, we think, a full unlerstanding of its provisions.

1. It amends the ordinance of the Lecomn ton constitution (which is not regarded as a part of the constitution) so that the State Whig, from a serious attack of Spring fewill receive the usual grants of lands made ver. rdnance is a copy of the ordinance of the Munosota constitution, and the amount or ing twenty four pounds. ands granted to the same as by the Crittenden-Montgomery bill.

2. The ordinance thus amended is to b submitted to the people of Kansas. If accented by them the State shall be admitted with the Lecompton constitution, by proclamation of the President. If rejected by them, hen the bill provides that Kansas may, when the number of its inhabitants reaches the Federal ratio of representation, form a constitution of State government, and be admitted into the Union, with or without slavery is the people shall determine so the people shall determine.

Such is the bill. It is in effect, if not in dy's black eyes, says: "They were mourn-fact, a submission of the Lecompton constitution to the people of Kansas, for their acceptance or rejection. That is all we ask We care not what the form of submission is, if it be full and fair, so that we have the substance. We certainly get the substance by this bill. By it, the people of Kansas are enabled, by their votes, to say whether they want to come into the Union with the Lecoupton constitution or not. It has been objected that the land grants made by the amended ordinance are in the of peace. nature of a bribe to the people of Kansas to accept the Lecompton constitution. There is not the slighest force in the objection, because as we have sard, the grants are the same as the new States have received -the ed to our dominion. This will be no hardship for her. It is botter for all her interests that she should stay out until that time. -She is not able, now, to maintain a State government. It will be injurious to her to undertake it. Her prosperity will be greater, for two or three years, as a Territory than as a State. If her people were wise they would elect to remain a Territory rather than become a State with same

The magistrate proceeded to read the riot act, and the mob speedily dispersed. Several persons have been injured and thirty of the police much cut about time in laying pavements around the yard the head.

Exciting Scene in a Church.

The Episcopal Mission Church, 'corner of South Third street and Union Avenue, 18700k.
Ivn. was the theatre of an exciting scene, on the evening of the 18th inst., during the services. A young man walked leisurely up the middle aisle, and, after viewing the
congregation for a while, walked up to a congregation for a while, walked up to a young lady in the choir, and, drawing a dagyoung lady in the watchman on former occasions, been ger, made a desperate thrust at her breast. PHILADRIPHIA ELECTION. - The municipal PHILADRIPHIA ELECTION.—The municipal clection held in Philadelphia, on Tuesday last, resulted in the defeat of Mr. Vaux, by about 4000. This result, deplorable to the city, was not unexpected. Mr. Vaux in the city, was not unexpected. Mr. Vaux in the careful and successful management of city cheap goods and groceries were suggested. affairs succeeded in arraying against him a miserable horde of loungers whom he refused to fatten out of the city crib. These men flocked around Mr. Henry, the successful candidate, with a two-fold, abject of place and plunder, and will just as certainly be disappointed.

REJOICINGS AT WASHINGTON - PASSAGE O THE KANSAS BILL .- Washington May 2-Last night a large crowd collected bufore the President's house when cannon were fired amid music, from the Marine Band. President Buchanan appeared at the window and witnessed the sedident, there is no possibil-returned thanks for the honor, saying that it his life, would have been saved. Us the best interests of the country were in was seriously injured, but hope is now envolved in the contest which had been so happily terminated and he honed and believe that the passage of the Kansas bill would tend to promote the peace and prosperity of the Union.

crops, although effected to some extent by the winter, are coming on finely, and as far as our observations extend, we will have an abundant harvest, should the present prospect continue. The ravages of the weevil. which so seriously effected the crops in this portion of the State last summer, is said to be materially overcome by an early season. If the observations of our farmers in this respect be correct, we can have the most cheering hope for the future, as vegetation is now about two or three weeks earlier than it was this time one year ago. But we have often membered three years have already expired since they first appeared in our midst. We sincerely hope that our farmers may realire the blessing of good crops, which is in fact essential to the vitality of every business rereceived amid the lation, and so much identified with the interest of our harder sons of toil.
