JACK PROST-This gentleman made us a very unwelcome visit on Monday morning last, and did considerable damage to corn. buck wheat, garden vegetables, and many other things. We are sorry he has had so little regard for our wishes as to intrude himself in so unbecoming a manner. Howover, we incline to the opinion that the cheerful countenance of old father SoL, as he came marching up the Heavens, put rather a lamper on the young man's wayward pro pensities. If Jack would only bide his lime, we have no doubt such an ingloriout retreat would be saved his vory sensitief
