PEN, PASTE & SCISSORS.

Nothing dries sooner than a tear. Queen Victoria will be forty years old next May. Hon. Daniel Sickles was formerly a newsboy in New York.

When you see a man in business, who will not advise or take a newspaper, look out for a man, notorious skulldugg, too tight to enjoy good health, and too tight to enjoy his eyes that he can't see a dollar.

What a Session at Congress. The east of the present short session of Congress, of only three months, duration, looks up with the enormous sum of Two Million Dollars and Half.

The Sickles Tragedy.

Washington, March 2, 1890. During this afternoon and evening, Sickles has been visited by a large number of his Congressional colleagues and friends.

The mother of Mr. Sickles is seriously ill with grief. John Gray, (colored) owner of the house in which it is alleged Mrs. Sickles was in the habit of meeting Key, has published a card relative to the matter, in which he states, among other things, that he had been in the house but three weeks afterwards, and that his object in going there was to "write a letter" to the woman, which Mr. Gray had arranged and would need one.

It is now rumored that Mr. Butterworth is to be arrested and examined for his alleged participation in the late tragedy. Since the sad occurrence of last Sunday, much has been said of the friendship which existed between Mr. Sickles and the late Mrs. Key up to within a brief period of the fatal day.
