THE DEMOCRATIC WATCHMAN.

BELLEFONTE JUNE 23, 1859.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

THE IRON HORSE.—On last Saturday the first neigh of the "Iron Horse" that ever re-echoed through our valley, startled the good people of this vicinity. Men, women and children hastened toward the Rail Road, to get a view of his enormous proportions and witness his peculiarities. In common with many citizens we possessed an inkling of curiosity, more from the fact that it was an event worthy of commemoration, than any novelty the huge proportions of the "critter" might present to us. In the midst of an eager crowd we found ourself gazing in admiration and wonder, that such an event had been so long deferred, especially when this County possessed such luxuriant pasturage. For many years the people of other localities have been greatly favored in this respect. They have not been intimidated by his wild fierce characteristics, and apparently untameable nature. They have harnessed and put him to work, and are reaping the reward of their labor in harvests of gold. We are glad to see that our people too have had courage to take one. We are gratified to know that they possessed the ability and disposition to meet the expenses. Will they "grow weary in well doing?" We hope not. We should feel ourselves becoming a great people with a dozen or two Iron Horses" tamed and playing around us. We feel that a new era has dawned in our history to witness the exhibition of even one, in such prairie like snorting fearfully puffing great volumes of thick black smoke from his nostrils, just apparently for pastime. But we must not digress. The fiery steed was really reigned up; the people assembled, and the astonishing feat of riding on rails" was really accomplished. The locomotive passed between this place and the foot of the mountain, a distance of about ten miles, on Tuesday last, taking out the board of managers.

P. S. Since the foregoing was in type we had the pleasure at half past 2 o'clock on Tuesday, in common with many of our citizens, of passing over the entire finished portion of this Railroad. The Brass band accompanied the excursion. Eleven cars were attached to the Locomotive, and perhaps not less than three hundred people were on the train. The weather was pleasant almost beyond description, and every person seemed quite animated with the occasion. Many ladies were present to witness the departure of the train, and in various directions on the surrounding hills the evidences of approbation were manifested by the waving of handkerchiefs, and similes of encouragement. Every person seemed animated by one common enthusiasm. The scene was particularly calculated to inspire emotion. We left the Station with the "Star Spangled Banner unfurled to the breeze," in the midst of a large crowd and soul inspiring music from the Band. At Lamb McCoy & Co's Iron Works, and various other points along the route many people had assembled. At the "Gum Stump" a portion of the train was detached, and two cars with their passengers proceeded to the present terminus of the road, about three miles farther up the Mountain. The destination was reached in safety, and the excursion after a delay of fifteen minutes, started homeward and arrived in Bellefonte in the evening without anything to mar the pleasures of the day.

Our paper just going to Press precludes the possibility of a more extended notice.

LADIES' DRESSES.—An European correspondent writes that "the next important news is that Paris tight sleeves and short dresses (short in front) have come into fashion, and to be admitted into the best society, a lady must cut short her front hair and wear it frizzled, for locks have gone to what do ye call him."

Bravo for the dresses! we will say nothing of "the short front hair to be worn frizzled," but shorter dresses,—dresses that can't reach the dust, dirt and mud, that won't gather up all the filth of the side-walks and gutters,—that are too short to sweep the streets, and the bottoms of which are too high to be torn to threads by the common obstructions of the highway. We know of no greater abomination than to see elegant dresses dragging in the mud and mire of our dirty streets, and, though in the parlor long dresses add something to the fine appearance and carriage of a lady, in the street they are made untidy and often disgusting by their redundancy and excess.

HUMBUG.—A cotemporary indulges in some remarks on the philosophy of kissing. Evidently something has disturbed his equilibrium. He thinks there is a great deal of humbug in the world—in fact more than it is credited with—and the most outrageous humbug is to see two pretty women kissing on the door-step. He cannot see why they could not just as well call up a fellow to do the job for them. For our part we have no objections to seeing ladies kiss each other. It keeps them in practice, and not unfrequently puts them in the notion of trying the operation with a masculine friend.

THE CELEBRATION.—Our citizens are making great preparations for the Celebration. A large crowd of people are anticipated. Invitations to distinguished orators in Harrisburg and Philadelphia have been extended, and it is expected they will be in attendance. The grove beyond the German church has been selected for the occasion. The military and citizens celebration will consequently be a grand affair and every body should attend it.

PIC NIC.—The School taught by Miss Sarah Caldwell held a Pic nic in a grove near this place on last Saturday. Light hearts and smiling faces characterized the appearance of the children, as they marched in procession to the grove in anticipation of a feast of good things. Miss C. has been very assiduous in discharging her duties as a teacher, and certainly deserves the encouragement of every friend of education.

SUMMER.—The first day of the present month, says the Clearfield Republican, by the established division of time, is regarded as the beginning of summer; and certainly the season under whose fostering care and nourishing administrations we, etable life is conducted to full maturity and fruition, was never ushered in more auspiciously than at its recent advent into the year. The early opening of spring, and the uniform mildness of the weather which followed, the genial rains falling just when most advantageous to vegetation, promised if no enemy attacked the crops, to complete one of the earliest and most fruitful harvests that has been reaped in our country for many years, perhaps ever. And so far was the picture so cheering the prospect, that we allowed no shadows to darken, no gloomy forebodings to mar the bright anticipations we were framing upon it. No visions of future calamities prevented us from enjoying the luxuriant scenes that invited our gaze, and intended for our contemplation and our benefit, and never were the beauties of nature more lavishly displayed. Sheltering forest, green fields soft grass and fragrant flowers; melody of bird, humming insects sighing trees and murmuring brooks. These were a few, and only a few, of the charming attributes of glorious summer upon this birthday, and every heart had hung out its welcome. But alas! the clouds came and thundered many days after, a change came over his fair face. Dark clouds overshadowed the sky like the mantle of night. Its breath became chill as the wild blast returned, and the tender plants, the early grain, and the waving grass, under the cruel frowns of old winter, from their early promises of plenty, gloomy hope to the husbandman, and almost despair to the agriculturist. Such was the cold and wasted our fruit destroyed. Such were the scenes of 1859. Who under such circumstances would not be disheartened? Such were the anxious countenances exhibited when the vegetable part of creation. Since the frost however the prospect has again brightened, and within the sombre faces of our community. The destruction of the crops is not as universal as was feared, and nature will repair much of the damage sustained by vegetation. Once more the smiling earth gives promise of a fruitful harvest.

SIR JOHN.—Gratitude is not altogether a wooden or this naughty world. One of our contemporaries says Sir John Franklin's daughter speaks of the respect and consideration which her father's name commands in the United States. Some years ago, when Sir John was missing, the people of this country were deeply interested in his fate, and many hazardous expeditions were fitted out for the purpose of discovering him. Lady Franklin has never forgotten this manifestation of sympathy, and every year she writes to the President of the United States, thanking the people for their kindness to her husband.

THE DEMOSTHENIAN LITERARY Society of Farmers Seminary, will please accept our humble acknowledgments for the honorary membership conferred upon us. Our sympathies are with the best interests of the society and the institution, and sincerely hope prosperity may attend them.

TWO YOUNG MEN of Centre Co. last Saturday and undertook to kick up a fight with a darkey down at the Rail Road, and got into jail besides. So much for getting "up steam" and the locomotive excitement.

IRA C. MITCHELL, ESQ., has removed his law office to what has formerly been known as the parlor of the Arcade. It has now the best location for business, and the most pleasant and elegant suit of rooms in this place.

DISTINGUISHED STRANGERS.—There was considerable excitement, yesterday, occasioned by the advent of two tiny strangers on Capitol Hill. At an early hour the rumor was spread that the fawns presented to the State, some two years since, by Capt. G. Nelson Smith, of Cambria, had been so profitable to the Commonwealth as to add two more to their number—the doe having gave birth, on Thursday night, to two little spotted things, miniature editions of herself. Crowds of visitors, old and young, ladies and gentlemen, performed divers pilgrimages to the deer-pen to look upon the tiny strangers. They are about the size of rabbits, and lay encased in the grass, perfectly unconscious of, and indifferent to, the attraction of which they were the centre. In a little while we hope to see them skipping playfully about, to the infinite delight of the juvenile frequenters of the Capitol grounds.—Patriot & Union.

ALLEGHENY VALLEY RAILROAD.—The editor of the Clarion Democrat learns from an authentic source that the committee of directors of this road, who are in Philadelphia negotiating for its extension, are meeting with some success. The prospect of making a connection with the Sunbury & Erie at no distant period is good, although nothing definite can be accomplished at present. It was expected that satisfactory arrangements could be made for extending the road to Mahoning.

Punishment of Crime in North Carolina.

The administration of justice in North Carolina is much less mild than in many of her sister States. Having no State prison the old punishment of the English common laws are still inflicted: such as branding, whipping, cropping the ears, &c. A writer, while describing the recent opening of the court in one of the counties in that State says:

"A prisoner, who was convicted of bigamy, was then brought in by the sheriff and an assistant, when counsel has counsel moved for a new trial on the ground that the defendant had been unable to procure all his witnesses. His Honor inquired if he could give the requisite security? On being answered in the negative "Then" said his Honor, "let the sentence of the court be executed forthwith." The sheriff and his deputy then blindfolded the prisoner, tied his hands, and bound his head humbly to the bar. Taking the branding iron from the furnace the sheriff applied it red hot to the cheek of the bigamist, burning a plain letter B an inch and a half long, and nearly half an inch deep. The prisoner was then commanded to put down his head and hands were introduced into the pillory and forty stripes "save one" were applied to his bare back, at which he was discharged.

Every jail in North Carolina is provided with a whipping post, stocks and pillory. Murder, rape, arson, burglary and all the higher crimes and misdemeanors are punished with death; manslaughter by branding the letter M in the right hand. The convict's hand is bound to the bar and the branding iron held upon the plain until he can say "God save the State" three times. Theft and minor offences by whipping, standing in the pillory, or sitting in the pillory or sitting in the stocks.

MAD DOGS.—A School Room Tale.—The Washington Star of June 16th says: No little excitement was created yesterday in the female department of the Fourth District School, Miss Milburn by the entrance into the room of a mad dog forming at the moment a voyage as he ran along the passage. Declining the usual course of studies in such cases the greatest alarm was naturally excited as to school room. Mr. John E. Thompson principal of the male department with much presence of mind secured some tie, a clothes line, and, volunteered to assist the council, he being that by approaching it unguarded he might throw them over it. He then undertook the dangerous task of capturing the dog from the room and was so fortunate as to succeed in so doing without injury to himself or any of the pupils. The dog died in great apparent agony shortly after.
