Miscellaneous.

High Hyer and Heenan.

On Sunday night a quarrel occurred at the Star House, of Broome street, between the noted pugilist John H. Hyer and Thomas Heenan, which for a moment threatened a serious contest. The quarrel grew out of the recent world's attack on Mr. Heenan in Boston in this case, and we are glad to give a full account of the cause of the quarrel, and the manner in which it was settled.

General Putnam.

Among the wounded who fell in the hands of the rebels, there was one of whom it is probable that you have heard. His name is General Putnam, who was wounded at the battle of Gettysburg. He is now recovering from his wounds at the military hospital at Washington.

Social Highness and Loyalty.

It is a curious thing to see how often the same man who is full of social highness, is full of loyalty. It is a curious thing to see how often the same man who is full of social highness, is full of loyalty.

A few weeks since a Boston boy named James McCallum came to this city. This man is said to have once a capital victory for burglary by the skin of his teeth, and common reports state that he is the son of the late and great John McCallum, the keeper of the famous house of prostitution in New York, who was the model of a villain.
