The Judgeship.

If Mr. Linn's home organs, -the one Know Nothing and the other Republicanand the conventions of the latter keep working away, they will soon convince the people how much of a paparty candidate that gentleman is. They virtually admit that he brever voted for a Democrat at a general clection in his life they know that he has A cotemporary says that "old men for "lampooned" every Democratio, candidate from Jackson and Shunk down to the most humble, from the day he was a voter to the present time, and the Central Press even now declares that 'be loss not deny any of his political proclinities. Then if he is elected Judge, it will be nothing else than a Re publican triumph, and he will be a Republican Judge. If this is all true, then his pretence of being a no party candidate is just what we said it was -- a shallow humbug ; -

But the Central Press affects to doubt Mr. Gamble's capacity as a lawyer -- which Mr. LINE will no himself do and asks with ap parent triumph why Mr. Livy has a large practice in the district, while Mr. GAMBLE has not, and proceeds to argue from this that mother's son of their voters. But if the De- | whelming victory. Shall not this work be | the former in the best lawyer. We answer. that at the time Mr. GAMBLE MAS elected to Congress he had as much practice as Mr. LINN, that he then abandoned it entirely, that since his retirement from Congress his practice in Lycoming has largely increased. and that he has not been compelled to seek a practice be ond the limits of his own county to gain a avelihood.

If the Ceptral Press will tell us how extra Courts can be held without expense to the people, we will certainly be greatly obliged. and we will most cheerfully lay the information before dir readers. Who will pay the Jurors? Who will pay the Sheriff for summoning them! Who will pay the incidental expenses attending all Courts. We beg to be enlightened. And we assure our cotemporary that his light shall not be placed under a bushel.

But Mr. Lann has himself taken occasion to say to us that extra courts would not be necessary in the event of his election, as a courts and try his causes. That the law would allow this to be done, we do not doubt, but would it be practicable ! We shall hunt whatever it be, publish it in our next.

We have neither sought to depreciate Mr. LINN, nor to misrepresent him. We reviewand republished it to prove that what we said was correct. That he has great merits and as few faults as commonly fall to the lot of mankind, we do not deny. That Mr. Gam-BLE is equal in merit and ability, we affirm As his political views are much more sound than Mr. Linn's, we have a right to infer that he is the best philosophical reasoner of the two, and of this there is no fair doubt Mr. Jefferson, with all the Democrats of his day, struggled against anti-Democratic Judg as, and contended that their political bian led them to decide against popular rights whenever they could The same is true We struggle to prevent what they "truggled to rid the country of as being prejudicial to its best interests and we follow the admonitions of the father of our party when we call upon the propie to elect none but Democratic Judges for the ample reason that popular rights are not safe in the hands of those who oppose Democratic tendencies -Clinton Democrat.

It is strange how often that old adage : -What is bred in the bone won't come out of the ficsh"-is illustrated. Here we find an unintentional paragraph in the great orgen of Black Republicanism, demonstrating that the same feeling is now entertained for the laboring men as, was held by the old Federalists, from whom the Republican leadere are descended.
