. The New Orleans Bee, of the 29th, records the following tragical occurrence of the previous night :

At ten o'clock last night, a shoaking iras gedy was enacted in reality, on the stage of the German Theatre, or Object Hall, on Poydras street, between St. Charles and Oarondelet. They were playing the drams of The Wolf, and at that moment were acting a scene in a gambling house, where a young man is fleeced of his last dime, and when he charges the gamblets with cheating, is stabled and killed. John Kruger was playing the part of the gambler, Emile Sener that of the ruined young man. Kruger had not been furnished with a stage dagger by the property man, and borrowed a real ond from officer Berwin, who was the special policeman in Concert Hall.

In acting such scenes with real daggers on the stage the person who strikes the blow keeps his elbow out further than the point of the weapon, and the person who pretends to receive the fatal thrust leans backwards, so that the striker's elbow, coming against his hreast, stops the polion. Staner was an happil' somewhat heterteette, and and and should have thrown himself backward, he
