REGIO EMIGRATION TO THE NORTH.

The distribution of the contrabands around among the free States is exciting a good deal of comment, and in some quarters is loudly condemned. It is not to be disguised that their condition among the free white population of the North will not be in the least improved, and their presence will not only be a source of discomfort to them, but of irritation and dislike to them among the white population.

It is not possible to legislate upon it by the States without doing vast injustice to those helpless people, imprisonment and fines are the only means by which they could be kept out of the State not desiring them, and this would be a cruel and oppressive measure.

According to what the Republican Abolitionists call the "Lexorable Logic" applied to the Union party, who have been doing "facts," if we had no Republican party, we should have had no war.

Every body knows that there are men now in the Union who are not only not in favor of the Union, but who are actively engaged in the work of disunion.

It is estimated, by the Secretary of the Treasury, that if the war is continued on its present gigantic scale, the public debt by the close of the next fiscal year, June 30, 1863, will amount to one hundred millions of dollars.
