

A Terrible Story.

A correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, (dated Warrenton), November 20th, writes as follows: "Every family around Warrenton has been pillaged by the army of nearly all its estates. But few thought it worth while to complain to the Provost Marshal. These were a Mr. Paget, a Mrs. Simms, a Mrs. Rogers and a Mrs. Cooper. The last cried bitterly at the marshal's office. These are all persons of property, but their sources of income having ceased at present, they rely for food simply on their poultry and hogs, and upon what land around their houses has produced this year. They will now find it difficult to live through the winter. A Mrs. Scott, living three miles from Warrenton, wife of the late Robert E. Scott, a prominent lawyer of Fauquier county, having been completely robbed, is now compelled to ask food of her friends in town. Her husband was shot, last spring, by our soldiers, while endeavoring to prevent them from marauding. Her aged mother died of grief consequent on Mrs. Lee, said to be the only Union lady in the field and horses taken from her. In regard to the case of Mrs. Scott above named, the whole truth is not told in the remark that her husband was shot last spring by our soldiers, while endeavoring to prevent them from marauding. The Providence Post completes the tale of infamy as follows: "Robert E. Scott was a man of note. He was as true a Unionist as ever breathed. He was at one time thought of by Mr. Lincoln for a position in the Cabinet! He was killed while endeavoring to prevent marauding and we wish this were the whole truth. But the whole truth is, that this true Unionist—this influential lawyer of Virginia was brutally butchered while attempting to prevent Union soldiers from committing an act over which humanity and decency blush upon his own wife and daughter, in his own house, and before his own eyes! Can the infernal region itself tell a more devilish story than this? And yet it is true—true as God's own word! Gen. McDowell investigated the case, and found the facts precisely as we have stated them. How do we know this? We know because Gen. McDowell reported verbally the result of his investigation to Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, whose kind heart was so sorely afflicted by the recital to allow of perfect silence. We can prove our statement. God forgive the men who are drawing blood from the heart of a good cause by such conduct as we refer to. "This war," said General McClellan, in his excellent order of August 6th, "is not a war of rapine, revenge or subjugation, not a contest against populations;" but "should be conducted by us upon the highest principles known to Christian civilization." And we say amen. Would to God there were more McClellans.—Phila. Journal.

The Discharge of Mr. Golden Tracy, Gould's Nephew.

Mr. Tracy was discharged from prison Friday afternoon. An officer of the Government came into the prison and asked him if he would not like to step over to the Judge Advocate's office. Mr. Tracy—Yes, not knowing what was to be done. The officer then told him that he had a better take his overcoat. The officer added: "You had better take all your things." Accordingly Mr. Tracy took all his things and went to Judge Advocate's office. He was asked whether he would like to be released, to which he answered, "Yes, of course." Mr. Tracy was then asked to sign a paper, which on reading, he found to be a simple promise to appear when ever called for, which he signed. He then set still for half an hour, supposing something else was to be done, whereupon they asked him "why he did not go?" Mr. Tracy (in surprise)—"Am I free to go?" Officer—Yes. And thus ended the arrest and imprisonment—Mr. Tracy having the privilege of paying his expenses from Washington; and that is all. Mr. Tracy has been in prison in Washington, about four weeks, and two or three days here in New York, before he was taken to Washington. His being discharged without trial parole or pledge, other than that to appear again, if invited, shows how unlawful he was imprisoned. The letter of Judge Gould and the New York Press, together with the coming first of January, the day of Freedom for New York white men, is the cause of his liberation.—Express.

"Pulpit Politics"

Those preachers who make the negro the burden of their song in the pulpit, are doubtless the lineal descendants of those who in New England in 1800, loudly proclaimed on every Sabbath against Jefferson and Democracy. These worthies were then in favor of old Federalism, its alien and sedition laws and its John Adams tyranny, as our hypocritical saints are now. Some two hundred years ago this same New England was equally and tyrannically used by this same sort of pulpit fanatics, and the consequence was banished and hung, while old women accused of witch craft were most cruelly and diabolically sacrificed in various ways to this infernal spirit. For some time past this blood-thirsty spirit has been rampant among our clergy, and they have formulated their anathemas against that party which opposed mad schemes of Abolition. These fellows have had much to do with the ruin of our country. We advise our friends, one and all, to cut loose from them. Do not encourage them in the way, and our word for it they will dry up. It is high time we were encouraging "Peace on earth and good will towards man." The clergymen who attend to their legitimate business and are friends to Truth and Rightness, are worthy of all commendation. Let such be sustained. An author (Daniel Defoe) a hundred and fifty years ago thus hit off this political condition of the pulpit. Wherever God erects a house of prayer, The devil always builds a chapel there, And 'twill be found upon examination, The latter has the largest congregation. We would change this verse a little to suit our times.—Exchange.

An Abolition Thief Caught.

Colonel Luman Guinnip who got his commission perhaps on account of his agency in leading a mob which tore down the People's Friend newspaper office last fall, since he has been in the army, has busied himself in looking up little things which he could convert to his own use. He has sent home any quantity of fine glass ware, silver plate of every description, foreign wines, &c., which were found in his house at Danville, Ill. In searching his house there was found a large quantity of fine cut glass ware, fine silver ware, six heavy silver fruit baskets, silver spoons, knives and forks, and baskets of fine imported wines and brandy—all of which he had stolen in Kentucky. He is now in jail.—Hurray for the Abolition thief and mobocrat.—Clearmont Sun.

A Bully Fellow.

I've just come out to sing a song, And singe all over his face, sir, A song which is all truth, sir, And should I make a slight mistake, You must know I'm but a youth, sir, Singing a bully fellow. It is all about a man in town, Who loves to please the folks, sir, Whose always in a happy mood, And gets off bully jokes, sir, Sternberg's a bully fellow. He keeps a clothing store up town, Which is both rich and rare, sir, A clever fellow you've not seen, Of clothing, I declare, sir, Sternberg's a bully fellow. He scrapes and bows and bows and scrapes, And pants of every style, sir, I vow I think I never saw A man so much grace, sir, Sternberg's a bully fellow. You ask to see some of the goods, That on his shelves do shine, sir, And then you're bothered which to choose, They're all so mighty fine, sir, Sternberg's a bully fellow. He shows you all his coats and vests, And pants of every style, sir, So neat and trim, so fair to view, You can't avoid a smile, sir, Sternberg's a bully fellow. And then he takes you round his store, And puts upon your head, sir, A bully hat, which makes you look Like one about to wed, sir, Sternberg's a bully fellow. In short, you're bound to be so pleased With all his goods and things, sir, You'll buy at once a broad new suit, Cost what it will, by jing, sir, Sternberg's a bully fellow. Because, you see, you can't refuse To help a man along, sir, When all you buy at Sternberg Hall, You pay for a mere song, sir, Sternberg's a bully fellow. And so I tell you when you come, Just bring along your purse, sir, For when you come into his store, You'll get some of the worse, sir, Sternberg's a bully fellow. In fact, so well I know the man, I venture for to say, sir, A clever fellow you've not seen This many a long day, sir, Sternberg's a bully fellow. And now to see this famous man, I hope you all will go, sir, And if you're questioned why—just say "PUMP SKISS" told you so, sir, Sternberg's a bully fellow. E.P.
