PITTSBURGH FEMALE COLLEGE.—We clip following highly commendatory notice of this excellent institute from the Pittsburgh Dispatch of the 10th inst.

The Pittsburgh Female College is just closing the most successful winter term in its history, upwards of two hundred pupils being in attendence. The trustees yesterday elected Professor and Mrs. Daunse, as teachers of the advanced classes in French and German. The college has thus the advantage of thorough and accomplished native teachers of these languages. The faculty now numbers nineteen thorough teachers, ten of whom have had from ten to twenty years experience in their profession.—Prehminary steps were also taken to secure two of the beautiful three story brick buildings adjoining the college, in order to accommodate the constantly increasing number of pupils. We are pleased to note the liberal policy of the trustees in thus providing an abundance of able and accomplished teachers and ample accommodations; and to know that Pittsburgh has now an institution which, in buildings faculty and equipment, has but few equals in the land. The prospects for the spring term, which will commence March 26th, are very promising. We advise our readers at a distance to send to the President, Rev. I. C. Pershing, for a catalogue.

DIED.

In Union Township, on the 6th day of the 3rd month, Noah, son of Elijah and Maria Fisher, aged 8 years, 8 month, and 16 days.

Again the omnipotent, and omnipresent Father has visited us with His warning hand, and by His impartial will has seen proper to deprive us of our much esteemed little friend Noah. In him we have lost a congenial, agreeable, and kind schoolfellow; an industrious, obedient, studious and honest pupil, the parents, an affable, loving and an affectionate son. While we grieve on account of his sad fate to us, and deeply mourn his loss, we rejoice that his home is in the skies, in that celestial dwelling, where the Father of Saints is ever administering to his wants. Ah! he has gone, and Oh! how conciliatory that he has left his friends to dwell in a haven of rest beyond this sphere, and where bliss is ever streaming forth as the rivulet from a never failing fountain. Oh! how pleasent to die for a happy future, for an anticipation of ecstatic joy—for a crown of never ending glory. May his parents be ready and waiting for the golden moments to be enjoyed in future; and when their vital parks of life diminishing, and their hearts begin to shudder, and their cords of earth to untwine, may they cast their spiritual eyes, as it were, to his harbor; so that when the fire is quenched, and when the hearts cease to shudder, and the cords are untwined, they may meet their little Son at home in heaven.

MARIAM.

PLUM GROVE,
March 14, '63

In Brush Valley, Centre Co., Pa., on the 9th inst, Mrs Christiana wife of Mr. James Grove, aged 52 years, 3 months, and 8 days.

She was a christian mother Her illness was protracted and painful, which she bore with patience, and resignation to the will of her Heavenly Father. She trusted in God, and in her departure she has exchanged a world of sorrow and trial, for a heavenly inheritance, and an immortal crown. "For we know, that if the earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens"

THE UNLUCKY COLD

To show what misery from a cold,
(Though 'tis in the head) may grow,
Young PETTIGREW did unfold
To us this story of his woe:—

"I wooed a lady, young and fair,
And half engaged we were to wed;
But ah! I caught from keen Marce air
A cold distressing in my head.

"My reddened eyes streamed down with tears
However distant was my task;
My nose most bottle-like appears,
My voice seems smothered in a cask.

"I knew that this wretched plight
My looks would quite repulsive seem;
And so I kept me from the sight
Of her who was my nightly dream.

"Another fellow soon ed the chance,
While I from Lucy stayed away,
And did so well his suit advance
That she has named the bridal day.

"He never had a cold I hear;
And must I tell the reason why?
At Sternberg's Hall he buys his gear,
And always has a good supply."
