

The Watchman.

P. GRAY MEEK, Editor. BELLEFONTE, PA.

Friday Morning, Nov. 20, 1863.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

J. P. M.—We shall meet again! shall appear next week. JAMES—It is utterly impossible for us to do anything of the kind.

The War.

This miserable, wicked, fratricidal war will drag its slow length along. During the week that is past no news of importance have been made in any department.

Their Object.

We have often wondered how men, sensible thinking, free men, could become so blinded by fanaticism or bigoted by political prejudices, as not to see a dangerous situation in which their liberties were placed.

Political Dialogue.

ABOLITIONIST.—Well, neighbor, I come over this evening to give you an opportunity of redeeming that promise you made last night. DEMOCRAT.—What promise was that?

A Fair Field for the Peace Party.

Whenever, in the course of argumentation, you observe that one disputant begins to call hard names, and to ejaculate; nonsense! absurd! false! ridiculous! you may rest assured that the party thus profane of epithets is in the wrong.

For Kinds Of Democrats.

The following from the La Crosse [Wis.] Democrat, expresses our views so perfectly that we copy them as our own: the editor says there are but four kinds of Democrats in the country.

Russia and America.

[From the London Times, October 20.] The war against Russia, which Poland and its wrongs scarcely equals the West of Europe to follow with much interest.

Speaking Out.

At a meeting of the democracy at Pike county, in this State held since the recent election, the following resolutions were adopted. The New York Day Book considers them a good enough platform for the next Presidential election.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.
