Sudden Death .- Charles McBride Sr. az old and respected citizen of this place, died very suidenty on Wednesday afternoon last. that the conscripts reporling to admit that they were able bodied beings never visited ofirstown, and we hope never will. It seemed as though our healthy and beautiful village, had for a time grouned the suffering victims of every-dis-young loyal leaguers, of this place upon a Mr. Poorman, of Marian Twp. because he happened to be a democrat, and expressed s bis opinion, that Grant's campaign egainst Richmond, had not proved as successfuil as many persons believed. Mr. Poorman is an old man whose grey hairs even common blackguards would have respected, but here in this place, loyal lenguers gloated over the fact, that he had been knocked down with bricks, and heated about the head, by two young leaguers, in a most shameful manner, for simply being a democrut. The matter is not over yet. - Some of the persons engaged will get their fill of it before the thing is forgotten.

We learn that a sap headed abolltionists, by the name of Coburn, that lives some place about Aronsburg, not satisfied with the number of soldiers already furnished by this county, went to Harrisburg a few days since, and had twenty men that were credited to Penn township given to some township by the same name in a different part of the State. To fill up the deficioncy thus made a draft for that township was ordered for yesterday, the result of which we have not heard. How many poor men will be torn from their familes and Ariends'through the efforts of this contemptible our, we have no idea, and if the cititible our, we have no idea, and if the citilens of that township fails to repay him, for God sends us something to love, but ere we are aware, and when we least expect it, he may take the treasure back to its native humo. Love is that feeding for which we are taught to pray, Give us this day our daily bread," but sometimes the Creator is almost forgotten in the creature, and, by affliction, the heart must be purified and made to "lay up its treasure in heaven where welther moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where theires no not break through nor steal." Our departed friend was one fitted to inspire warm affection. Her pleasant smile, affable manner, kin I tone and warm heart made her overywhere a welcome guest. Affectionate as a sister, true as a friend, dutiful as a daughter, and devoted as a wife, she will be mourned by all. Through a painful dluess she was ever gentle and patient. The availing before she was taken sick, she sang several pieces through with much feeling, seeming almost to know that ongs again, and that she would never more play the " Pleasures of Home" till she touched golden-liarp in her home on bigh.

In Lock Haven, Clinton county, Pa., May 24th 1864, Junes Anthur Carriers, son of Dr. Ira D. Canfield, formerly of Nattany Hall, Centre county, agod 51 years, S months and 10 days.

James A. Canfield was among the first to respond to the President's call in 1561, and a member of Capt. Jackman's Co. B, of the old 11th Pa, in the three months' service, He afterward culisted for three years or during the war, in Co. I. 56th Pa, and participated Pope's retreat, Antictam, South Mountain, and Chancellorville, besides other engagements of minor importance.

Just previous to the invasion of Pennsylvania by Gen. Lee, he was attacked by that fell disease of the soldier, chronic diarrhees. He was brought home in the latter part of July, 1863, where every offert was made to arrest the disease, but all in vain. He grew gradually and persistently worse, until death finally released him from his sufforings. As he never received his discharge he died in the service of the United States.
