A DIALOGUE. John.-Hello! Billy, how are you this morn

ng! Billy.—Fine thank you, how are times with you? J.—Just tollerable; money's plenty, or rather J.—Just tollerable; money's planty, or rather the paper that is called money now-a-days 'tr plenty, but everything is so intolerably high,— goods of all' kinds and everything grosphing grain or what things we farmers have to sell, that a bunch of greenbacks go but a little ways in supplying ones wants. But how is it Billy, that you always go so neatly dressed, with clothes of such good quality and such excellent clothes of such good quality and such excellent fit, when I know that you do not expend one half as much in the year for clothing as I do, and yet I look like a ragamuffiin, most of the B.—Well John I cant' exactly tell, I'll, admit that you look pretty rough sometimes, and I know you get a great many cloths, but perhaps you ge to the wrong establishment to make your product of the wrong establishment to make your purchases—some place where the marchant is not acquainted with the business, and has nothing on hand but some "slop shop" stuff, stuck on to him by the sharpers in the city. Now if you will take hy advice and go the Sternbergs, when you want your next unit, you will know why it is that my clothes fit neatly and are always of a good quality.

J.—But how is it that he can sail clothing cheaper than other merchants about Bellefonts?

B.—Boomso he makes it his 40-10-11.

B.—Because he makes it his exclusive with ness, has been brought to it from beyoned and is connected with one of the largest citching extablishments in the city, where he gets whistover, he wants whenever he wants it?

J.—How long have you bought clothing from him?

B.—Ever since he came to Belliants.

DYSPEPSIA! DYSPEPSIA!

Dr. Wishart:—I have been a constant outform with Dyspepsia fourth last sightoon years, during which time I cannot may that I even analoyed a perfectly well day. Here were times when the symptoms were more aggravated than at others, and then it seemed it would be a great relief to die. I had at all times an unpicanust feeling in my head, but latterly my sufferings nucle increased that I became almost wast for business of any kind; my mind was configurally filled with gloomythoughts and forebydings, and if I attempted to change their surmant by reading, at once a sensetion of top collams in connection with a dead weight, as it week-marked upon my brain; also, a feeling of stolkness would coour at my stomach, and great pain to my ayea, accompained with which was the continual fear of losing my reason. I also apperienced great lassitude, debilit; and nervonness, which made it difficult to walk by day or sleep by might. I became aversue occubely and dispersed only to seclusion, and having, is ded the skill of a number of eminest physicism of various schools, finally came as the constimion that, for this disease at my present age (45 years), there was no cure in universe. But, through the interfigence of Divine Providence, to whom I devoutly offer my thanks, I at I has foculd a sovereign remedy in your Dyspaping. Pills and Tar Cordial, which seems to have offectually removed almost the last trace of my long list of allments and had feelings and the thoir place health, pleasure and contentment are my every day e empanione.
