Of sourse the abstract question is not changed, but an intervening next Congress will pass the measure if this does not. Hence there is only a question bundred miles westward from the initi al of time as to when the proposed amendment The report of the Scoretary of the Navy point at Omaha City, Nebrashe, and a vill go to the States for their action; and that the sooner the batter?

It is not elalmed that the election bas im posed a duty on members to change their views or their votes any further than as as additional element to be considered as their judgment may be effected by it. It is the heard upon the question. In a great national crisis like ours unanimity of action among those seeking a common and is very nless some difference that be paid to the will of the majority, simply because it is the will of the majority.

In this case the remmon end is the mainmance of the Union; and among the means to secure that and, such will, through the election, is most clearly declared in favor, of such a constitutional amendment. The mo diable indication of public purpose in this country is derived through our popular elections. Judging by the recent canvase and its results, the purpose of the people within the loyal states, to maintain the tegrity of the Union, was never more fire nor more nearly unanimous that now The extraordinary calmages and good order with which the millions of mingled at the polls, gave strong assur ance of this. Not only all those who supported the Inion ticket, so called, but a great majority of the opposing party also, may be fairly claimed to entertain and to be astuated hy the same purpose. It is an umnawerable argument to this bifect, that no eardidate for any office, however high or low, has ventured to shok votes,on the exemal that he was for giving up the Union. There has been much impuguing of mo ives, and much heated controversy as to the proper means and best mode of advancing the Union cause: but on the distinct issue of Union or no Union, the politiciani have shown their instinctive knowledge that there is no diversity among the people. In this firmness and unanimity of purpose, the election has been of vast value, to the mational cause.

The election has exhibited another fav not less valuable to be known—the fact that we do not approach exhaustion in the most 616 92 have been paid to pensioners of all of living men.
