

PURITAN PHILANTHROPY.

There was a man in our town... Who had a high opinion of his own worth...

One day some philanthropic gentlemen... Impelled by Puritan intense, Upon the dicky-bird man pounced.

Their speaker, Wendell Phillips, said: "These birds are not to be shot, but to be used as a means of grace..."

"Why!" quoth the man with starting eyes, "I have no law, but the birds are mine!"

When all the dicky-birds were out, These philanthropic men were out...

Then as the birdman waxed late, As punishment he was called. They seized his pictures, guns and plate...

Some died in corners starved to death— Many by little boys were killed...

By those who kill their needs, Some cared not and cared none more; Alas! they perished on broken reeds...

DISSOLVING VIEWS.

The fast rider quickest thro' Time is at last setting all things even. "The mills of God grind slowly, Yet they grind exceeding small..."

A party comes in power. Laws are ignored. Power swallows Justice, and closes the prison doors on Right!

Tyranny and Lincoln walked hand in hand. Incapacitly and extravagance took the place of statesmanship and economy!

A foal on the stage of a theatre in Washington jarred the continent and jolted history with his victim's blood.

Old women and virgin spinners, who weep over the wretched Diabolus, died!

All was black—half was hypocrisy. Lincoln passed away! Tears passed away!

The proclamations which erst ornamented parlors, how hang in bars of memory!

It was sold to a drayman the other day, for twelve hundred dollars—less than Booth's mare would bring!

A national "addendum" to the lamented Lincoln is passing away!

A home for Mrs. Lincoln has become a disreputable vial, and the project has been abandoned in disgust!

Love for the negro is passing away! Go is the negro!

The past is fading out! As a child has too many toys to keep it quiet, so have the American people too many idols in the fire.

Centralisation of power! Taxation for the poor! Exemption for the rich!

Abolition of slavery! Reduction of the national debt! Home for Mrs. Lincoln!
