TRAITUR.—Your observations may or may not be correct; they may be esteemed just or unjust, bound or unsound, according to the light in which we view them. But the sober second thought of the people is fast witting the seal of condemnation upon all such expressions as applied to patriotic American sitizens. We believe that the effects of the monstrous dectrines taught by the Lincoln Administration are surely, though slowly, passing away from the minds of the people, and in a few years every vestige of the tyramp of that infamous era will be buried forever. Till then, we will watch and wait.

THINGS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

Mone Snow .- We were visited, with an. other "right smart" snow storm on Wedheeday night last. Sleighing, in this neck b'woods sint bad now.

THANKS .-- We are under obligations to the Hon. E. Cowan, of the United States Senate for an abridged copy of Messages and Documents for 1864-65, and to Hon. F. Kurta, for valuable Legislative documents.

A Species.-Judging from the crowd that was in attendance at the fair for the benefit of the M. E. Church, we should think that it proved a perfect success .-What amount of money was taken in we de not knew, but hope it was sufficient to relieve the church of indebtedness.

THE PLACE .-- If any of our readers when visiting town have a desire to taste some of she best oysters ever brought to this section, let them call on Mr. Martz at the Unmmings House Saloon. If they are desirous of taking a can home, they will get them their cheaper and better than any place this side of Philadelphia:

Tun Lucroum Counsu .-- The lectures of Gen. Frazier, in the Court House, have, thus far, been rather slimly attended, yet respectable audiences have been present .---The great difficulty with the General is that he is too highly intellectual for the people who go to hear him. As a general thing, his ideas and specialistions are not comprehended by them; hende there is considerable dissatisfaction with the manher in which he handles his subject. That Gen. Frazier is a gentleman of the highest culture, and of the most intense mental activity, there can be me'doubt; but his speculative themes often carry him so far above the duller comprehension of ordinary mortality, as to make what is to him perfectly clear and comprehensible, to them utterly extravagent and absurd. Ben. Fratier is, probably, the best educated man, and the findst acholar, that has ever addressed an audience in this town; and it is this tery superiority that gists. makes his thoughts and ideas so incomprehensible to many who have heretofore es-teemed themselves tolerably well-versed in
