TERMS:—$3 per year when paid in advance, $5 when not paid in advance, and $2.00 when not paid before the expiration of the year.

Democratic State Convention.

The Democratic State Convention for the nomination of a candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, will meet in the hall of the House of Representatives, at Harrisburg, on Monday, the 5th (5th) day of March, 1866, at 10 o'clock P.M.

The headquarters of this Committee are in the Democratic Club Rooms in Harrisburg, which are open day and evening. Democrats visiting this city are invited to call.

By Order of the Democratic State Convention, W. H. WALLACE, Chairman.

The "Dead Duck."

President Johnson has perpetrated a little "gag," as Artemus Ward would say, looking at the presidential dignity. (Just for a few moments,) he has been indulging in a few funnyisms that have covered the face of the whole country with a broad grin.

And this was how it all came about, and set the sovereigns to tittering: On the 22d of February there was a grand celebration of Washington's birthday in the Capital city of the land, in which "brave women" and "fair men" participated.

It is said that a great many Northern men—abolitionists, of course—are daily going South to settle and buy land. Well, if they go there with the determination to become decent respectable citizens, and to help to restore and build up the fair country they have devastated and destroyed, we presume their aid will not be rejected, and they may have a chance to make themselves useful members of society—something they have never been at the North. But if they go there to propagate strife and ill-will, as they have always done here, the sooner they are made to disappear from the face of the earth, the better for the South and the country.

THE GREAT SPEECH OF PRESIDENT JOHNSON.—Next week we will publish the great speech of President Johnson, delivered to a mass meeting in Washington city, which called to congratulate him on his veto message, on the 22d of February. This speech in connection with the veto message, which we publish this week, has stirred the popular heart of the country, and has placed the President on the side of the people, directly in opposition to the radical faction in Congress. Had it arrived in time for the outside of our paper, we would have printed it this week, but as it did not, owing to its length, we are unable to find room for it on our inside.

In this speech President Johnson contrasts the Thaddeus Stevens, Charles Sumner and Wendell Phillips as enemies of their country, and John W. Forney as a "dead duck." The abolitionists are astonished. They are unable to account for the action of the President, and point that he must have been crazy or "insane."

The Negro Bureau and its Work.

A sample of the infamous work of the "Negro Bureau" was given to the public in the "Dead Duck" of the 22d of February. The "Negro Bureau" is a department of the Executive Mansion, where he had been to procure the remains of a beloved son, who had been killed in battle. It seems that not only is this Negro Bureau an iniquitous thing, so far as heaping unnecessary taxes on the people is concerned, but that under its operation, the lives of white men are of no account, and are absolutely carried about upon the bayonet points of negro soldiers.

The instance to which we allude is where a certain Colonel Dyer, a Federal officer, whose term of service had expired, and who is said to have been a very worthy young man, with a widowed mother and several small brothers, and sisters to maintain, was shot dead, in the streets of Knoxville, by a nigger soldier. The facts of the case, as near as our friend was able to glean them, are as follows: Col. Dyer, it seems, had been attending a sale of Government stores, and had purchased some articles that he needed. On his way to the storehouse where his property was contained, accompanied by the agent, he came face to face with a negro sentry, who deliberately raised his musket, and shot him dead in his tracks.

On our outside this week we publish the veto message of the President, which has created such a scare in the abolition camp. We hope our readers will all give it a careful perusal, as it portrays the future policy of the President, and draws the line between the radical abolitionists in Congress and himself. The Democratic papers praise and commend the message universally, and generally express much confidence in the President, as do also many conservative Republican journals.

It is said that a great many Northern men—abolitionists, of course—are daily going South to settle and buy land. Well, if they go there with the determination to become decent respectable citizens, and to help to restore and build up the fair country they have devastated and destroyed, we presume their aid will not be rejected, and they may have a chance to make themselves useful members of society—something they have never been at the North. But if they go there to propagate strife and ill-will, as they have always done here, the sooner they are made to disappear from the face of the earth, the better for the South and the country.

The abolitionists are astonished. They are unable to account for the action of the President, and point that he must have been crazy or "insane."

JOHN FURRY'S "DEAD DUCK."

You published, in your issue of February 24, 1866, a piece of poetry, purporting to have been written for your paper, by "Annabel Montfort," entitled "You Kissed Me," and in which a part of the second verse is entitled: "Allow me to remark, with much delicacy that 'You Kissed Me' was written long before 'Annabel Montfort' thought of kissing, we suspect. The real author of the piece, which, by the way, is very beautiful, and intensely passionate, was JOSEPH S. HURT, and we remember printing it on satin, as worthy of preservation, when we were learning the printing business in 1856—ten years ago. Will you please make this correction, and read 'Annabel Montfort'—a very aristocratic name, indeed—a lesson on shamefulness of appropriating other people's brains?"

DIGNITY.—When asked by Alexander H. Stevens, at the meeting of the Peace Commissioners, at Fortress Monroe, what would become of the negroes that were freed, and how they would get along, the saintly, dignified Lincoln replied that they "must rot hog or die," and we do not recollect of hearing one of the many who are denouncing President Johnson for want of dignity, even intimate that this expression of the "Good Saviour," was in any degree undignified. What wondrous changes time works!

No WONDER.—It would be no wonder if the fellows of the "dead duck" would "quack" themselves hoarse over the demise of their leader, the announcement of which was first made public by President Johnson on the 22d ult. Won't their "red mouths" and long tongues be busy for the next few weeks?

STRANGE.—To hear an "occasional" quack from a "dead duck."

THE OLD GUARD.—A Democratic magazine, devoted to the principles of 1776 and 1788. Edited by C. Channing Burr. Published by Van Brice, Horton & Co., N. Y., at $3 per annum.

WE have received the March number of this favorite magazine. Its motto should be "Excelsior," for it is constantly growing better and better. The March number is not to be excelled by any publication.

LETTER FROM HARRISBURG.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 26, 1866. DEAR WATSON: Having promised to furnish you with such matter transpiring in the Legislature as may be of interest to Centre county people, I shall proceed with my first letter.

The business transacted in the Legislature, so far, has mostly been of a local and private nature. A general railroad bill was introduced at an early stage in the Senate. I have doubts whether a bill of that kind will pass this winter—it would be death to the Legislature. Centre & Spring Creek railroad, and therefore the people of our county would naturally wish to have this measure killed for the present.

The revenue bill which passed both Houses unanimously, a few days ago, interests the masses of the people in the State, and is very important. The State tax on real estate is thereby repealed, which takes somewhat of the burden of taxation from which the people have suffered so unprofitably since the getting in power of the abolition party, from off the shoulders of the tolling yoke of our good old Commonwealth, and places it upon the banks and corporations; the special state tax, however, remains, this is necessary to pay the war debt of Pennsylvania, one of the consequences of the war.

Consistency.—Not knowing what else to say, the abolitionists in this section are trying out against the President's speech, because, as they say, it was not dignified. After the manner in which they treated Lincoln for his humane and noble expressions, we think it would be about as consistent for the followers of the dead to talk of consistency, as for the advocates of Lincoln to speak of dignity. So long as those in power will carry out the suicidal designs of puritan abolitionism—there is no objection to their not being dignified in the eyes of their followers. No President since our Government was formed had less dignity, more actual vulgarity, and more "quackery," than did Mr. Johnson's predecessor, and yet they are not more dignified than the President of the United States.

Mr. Johnson, of Lanesville, is fighting...

Mr. Johnson, of Lanesville, is fighting for the nomination in the negro suffrage party with more vigor than any other man in the State. He has already been considered as a good possibility to be their candidate, and he has never followed their "democratic" policy. We never follow their "democratic" policy, and turning Democrat, is something never boasted of afterwards on account of its "dishonour."

The negro suffrage party present a sorrowful picture. Andrew Johnson's recent declaration, made in opposition to their disorganised designs, has shaken to its very foundations the President's determination to do his sworn duty, as chief magistrate, and this goes hard to swallow with the destruction. Mr. Johnson's speech on Washington's birthday, is all the talk here, just now, and no doubt, everywhere else. I hope you will print it entire, as it clearly shows who are the enemies of the country. The people stand by the President.
