Our Congressional Nominee.

In an other column will be found the proceedings of the Congressional conferees, who met at Lock Haven, on Tuesday last. And at the head of our pa per the name of our nominee, Mr WRIGHT, who it will be remembered, was a candidate for Congress some two years at the previous election had given a majority against the Democrey of upwardof 3000, was elected by the home vote over his competitor Stephen F. Wilson He was however, counted out by the sol dier vote, and the people of the distinct interests of his constituents, or regard endeavor to aid in the great work. for the voters who gave him their sup-

Mr. WRIGHT, is again placed in the field-with a record unstained -a chiracter without a blemish -known by all to be a gentleman, a scholar, a patriot and a Democrat, a friend of the white man, an advocate of economy in public expenditures, a supporter of the policy of President Joursoy, and an opponent of whatever savors of corruption extrav agance; fraud, and the infamous dogmas d'abolitionism, he cannot fail to be elected by an overwhelming majority, if the white men of the 18th Congressional district but do their duty

Perhaps, no single individual in the entire district has more personal popularity, and where he is best known among the proud. Gen. II. was one of the Vice his neighbors at Lock Haven, all admire Presidents of the Convention, and his sition, his manly, straight-forward course is the friend of tire white laborer and the enemy of the aristocratic oppressor. He believes in the supremacy of the of all the States. He has the ability, representative in Congress that his conhands could be entrusted the interests of her Chief Justice of the toiling tax-paying massess, with out fear of having them reglected or betrayed

Such is the candidate presented by the Democracy to the "hite men of the infamous measures, supported all the corrupt acts and endorsed all of the viled with corruption and labored but to whom they can place the most implicit | desired result nce, of whose Democracy there is not the shadow of a doubt, and whose qualifications-will place bim among the leading members of the fortieth Congress, and we know too that there are hundreds of white men in the district hundreds we might say in Centre county, who two years since voted for STEPHEN F. The Philadelphia Convention. The article on the Philadelphia Convention last week, written by the associate editor who was present during the that the latter portion of it was written by the associate while absent from home. and did not arrive in time for our last issue,- The first part of it was therefore all there was of it, and as it consequently did some injustice to the real views of the writer upon this subject, the remain der of the article is here to appended. It should the read as following after the resolutions of the Convention as printed in our last paper. The following is the remaining portion of the article alluded

While we have heretofore opposed, in a manner, the assembling of the Convention, or, rather, the participation of Democrats in its deliberations, on grounds that we still believe were justly taken, now that is over, we can heartly commend that liberal spirit shown by its members, and hope that its results for good may be far greater than we expected. Of one thing we are heartly glad, and that is that the sminont members of the Democratic party who were present as delegates, did not compromise ither their own or the party's position, either their own or the party's position, majority.

but in all things kept in view the fact that while the Democracy are willing to unite with the conservative elements of the land in an honest effort to drive from place and power the evil men who have almost ridden the country to destruction, they can never agree to surrender their existence as a distinct naional organization for the purpose of naugurating a new set of political principles, or of forming, under the lead of ranks of the opposition, a new party the hastily expressed opinions of the principles of the Democratic party, may the dignified attitude of the Democratic ts ancient landmarks and to uphold the marghed from victory to victory in days that are past, and under which it will agam see day when this Union prospered under the application of its benign theories to the government of the country We say we are glad that the position of the Democratic party was not compromised, and because it was not compromised we have some faith that the action of the Convention, as controlling the conservative Johnson clement, will, in conjunc-tion with the mighty effort which the Democracy intend to make this fall, eventuate in the complete overthrow and annihilation of that infamous party whose tule for years has been a bloody reality the effects of which will be felt. unusual press of job work and the bust in the shape of taxation and high prices, by generations yet to come.

We think the result of the Convention may be summed up in the single fact that it will act with the Democratic party in its attempts to seeme the readings on of the Southern States mee the to elect Haister Claymen to the Gubernatorial chair Both the Democracy and he con civative-Republican element of the equative as represented by Edgar Λ (fowar) and J. The Light is Breaking.

When engaged in fighting the "battles of the country" the soldiers of the late war were told that the men who remained at home-the democratic portion ion, and which the editor-in-chief of them-were copperheads and traitors, considered rather two laudatory of that who were opposed to the Government, body, was not published, from the fact and who wished for the success of the "rebellion." This infamous falsehood was, to a great extent, believed by the soldiers, for the simple reason that they were debarred all access to Democratic printed under the impression that it was newspapers, and every means by which they might gain a true insight into the real position of the great conservative party of the country, was denied them by the base minons of the most tyrannous administration that ever wielded powe in the American Government. The consequence was—as might have been expected and as was expected by the abolition party+the majority of the soldiers While we have heretofore opposed, in were drilled into the belief that the

But time, at last, "makes all things even," and the soldiers, as well as thousands upon thousands of honest but here-tofore deceived members of the abolition party have awakened in alarm to the true issue now before the country. They see the awful precipies upon which the liberties of the Republic now stand, and look pit of amalgamation which threatens to engulf the entire white social system of en who have hitherto acted in the this country As one man they have resolved to abandon the pernicious doctrines which are leading to this end, and to support with vigilant energy that parout, and which, unlike the grand old ty which is doing battle to preserve this Government forever as the government not be able to stand the test of time and for the white man and his children. Let it be made equivalent to an increase of fire housand votes for Hiester Clymer

We see it stated that Gen JOHN A. LOGAN, of Illinois, is about to visit Pennsylvania to canvas the State for Gen. GEARY. Taking into consideration the fact that he is a candidate for Congress in his own State, and that he is very far from being certain of his election, it would seem to be the part of discretion for him to stay at home and attend to his own affairs. However, if he comes please. The name of LOGAN, since the war closed, has lost whatever power it may have possessed, and if the manever did anything that was really commendable it has since been covered out of sight by the base political trickery he has been guilty of in later days. With the close of hestilites between the North and South the enguletted lions or asses, rather, of the LOGAN school, have lost their influence, and the people begin to see, beneath the glitter of lace and buttons, the hypocritical beatings of the craven hearts that they have so long been taught to look upon as the soul of honor and upright majority.

It s well worth while to pause and inquire juto this matter, and see if some plan cannot be devised whereby such enormous and wholesale plundering of the people can be stopped.
