Abuse, Blasphemy, and Rant of Leading Radicals.

TUREATS OF A CIVIL WAR.

We earnestly hope our readers and al fair-minded men will peruse with atter tion the following indisputable evidence that the radicals intend to insugur ate another civil war in case the Denic racy are triumphant in the coming ele tions and the President is sustained b the people. The extracts which we giv are culled from the speeches of their leading men and represent the true idea and intentions of that party. There no denying them-a deeply laid and in fernal scheme of riot and bloodshed ha already matured and only awaits the is sue of the political contest to develop into destructive and ungovernable fury. The men who thus threaten dire ven geance against the President for his no ble efforts in behalf of the Constitution and the rights of nine millions of our white fellow citizens, influence, to a harge extent a considerable body of the radical people of the country and all the negroes, and will then be enabled to to create a disturbance which, while it ill near be supcessful as to the objects a firm determination in the minds of the masses to uphold the President, and the first movement on the part of the Radiicals looking to his deposition will be met by a fierce resistance. Hence, if the Radicals persist in the objects which they now avow, BLOOD WILL FLOW and contest will- end in the hanging of the he and his friends hings his claim to an lection as Governor of Pensylvania. It strikes us that the people, seeking a ann for a civil office, will require something more than a military reputation, let that reputation be genuine or bogue. They delight to honor true heroism, but there are other ways to do so than that of making a sacrifice of their commercial manufacturing or agricultural interests. For pretenders they have no sympathy. If a military can didate possesses the rare marit of a soldier, reputation and sterling civil qualifications, they are glad to cast their votes for him, as an honor to him and a blessing to them relves.

But, what are Gen. Geary's civil qualifiestions ? His friends claim none for him He claims none for himself, except it be the reachery which he confesses to have perpetrated against the Presidents who appoint ed him to civil positions in California and Kansas. His friends know and admit that
