pulses of the human hear not as to exaken an echo in the heart of every reader. When one writes poeiry un der the stimulus of passion, it only reaches the hearts of those similarly situated. But poetry written under the influence of the gentler and calmer feelings touches the hearts of all The poems of "Nina" are of the latter character, and are engerly inquir ed for by those most competent to judge of their merit. We would suggest to the Editors of the Demorari, and to "Nina" Full tors of the Demorari, and to "Nina" real name of the author with her poems fugh poetry will do relit to any one-Ture "Augusters Coverter"—The work of Il srace Greeloy known as the "Ameri-en Conflict." should not be purchased or poetry written under the influence of the

of Horace Greeley known as the "Ameri-can Conflict," should not be purchased or circulated by any Democrat. Like every-bing Horace writes, it has a fair face. and is well calculated to deceive the unsus pacting by its seeming impartiality Greelev's great success as a journalist has con sisten, not so much in converting people to has opinions, as in convincing them that there was really no difference in his opinion and theirs. He has a fashion of stat. ing prepositions as axioms which are net axioms, in such a way as to deceive those who do not reason closely, and in this way the can prove almost anything. This work of his on the great civil war, which he was as active in fomenting, has received some commendation, even from Democrats, for its fairness We wondered at this, even be fore we had bramined the work, for we did not believe that "good could come out of Nazareth," or that Horace Greeley could write an impartial history of a most important period, in which he was himself principal actor. An examination of the work has strengthened that .opinion Enough of documents are introduced to give an appearance of fairness, and the posias of the political parties of the country no stated so as to dessive all who are not po ned The truth is, it is a one sided affair, with just enough of the other side to do it the greatest injustice. We doubt whether there is a min in America competent to write an impartial history of the "great conflict," which riged so recently ; and there will not be for generations. There is now in this county, a man en gaged in canvassing for this work. His political complexion is enough to sondemn the book. He has a most malignant attack of Mongrelism, and is full of the praises of New England and denunciation of copperheads. However perfect the book might be no Democrat ought to encourage its sale by such a man. Let him carry his politics and lating to Internal Revenue, requires the his book where Greely and his party are more highly appreciated than they are in in the month of May, to be made in the this county.
