understood it while they carried on a gigantic war for over four years to preserve the Union. The ground taken was that the withdrawal of the Southern States from the Union would most seri ously effect all that remained, and that the interests of all demanded a continuance of all the States under the govern ment created by the Constitution. This uiged by the advocates of the war for . vast expense of blood and treasure, the war has been fought to a conclusion, the only party which at present has power to restore the Union takes a position exactly opposite to this. Their doctrine now is that the South must be kept out as a punishment to them for the crime of 'rebellion " If this punishment is nec essary and proper, then why were they not permitted to punish themselves by going out in the first place, and that without the fearful sacrifices of the war? If the preservation of the Union was worth all the expense and misery of four years' civil war, and if the restorntion would componente us for the sacrifice, then surely the division which is kept up, and sought to be made perpet-

There nover was a time in our History when so great a necessity existed for all voters to examine and understand the Constitution of the Country and the great principles which underhe is. Never until the present time were those min ciples so directly at issue. The wisdom of those who devised our form of government was never before directly called in question. The Democratic party is naw defending not only its old positions In regard to questions of policy, but also the correctness of the principles on which the government itself is founded the opposition, and their leaders are in agency was established to take charge sidiou by controlling a vart party which of As it now is, and will be conducted, who desires to do his duty as an Amerithoroughly acquainted with the princiman who permits himself to be juffuenlead of fanaticism is not fit to vote at all

We see many indications that the people are beginning to realize the real condition of affairs. The effects of Mongrel policy are beginning to condemn the cause, and we believe that the time is not far distant when the bloody reign of fanaticism in this country will cease for ever. Not until then can be hope for a restored Union, or for a settlement-o the unhappy difficulties which have divided us. As was said by Jacksov ": Union can exist only in mutual confidence," and until means are taken to bring the different sections into confidance with each other, there can be no puece, no prosperity, no happiness and no Union.
