A Common-Sense View

There is a sensible and matter of fact view which may be taken of the issue between the Rump Congress and the people of the South in which any man ought to detect the fallacy of the doctrines taught by the opposition to the Democcall uself by-and the correctness of the April 1865 there has been no power in exence dunn here which was hostile to the mediately before that time, the Govern ment had in the field a half a willion of mon, who were disbanded when the ar mies of the South land downstheir arm ed, a draft was pending for five and submitted to a fate against which they had nobly struggled in vain. At the very time when the war was thus hundred thousand more men. If their existed in the South the elements of a power which it would require the half million of disciplined soldiers already in the field and a half million of conscript in addition to overthrow, then there must now be, somewhere in the South, a power most formidable, which could very seriously oppose the United States govern tment, if it saw fit to do so. We will state the proposition in another form. It well known, of course, by everytone, that the Southern armies surrendered in the Spring of 1865 to the armies of the That the South was regarded as no mean foe by those who led the Northern armies is evinced by the fact that we had five hundred thousand men in the field and a draft pending for five handred thousand more. It is not to be supposed for a moment that such able erals and hornes as GRANT and SHER MAN had over-rated the strength of the antagonist against whom they had contended for five years, and the conclusion bresistable that the South at that very time had however enough to call out on is pulpably manifest that the South surrendered the very moment they were convinced that they could not maintain the government of the "Confederate States of America," and that they did not hold out to the "bitter end." Every one Who will take the pains to exam-

Yet the whole pow er of the country is in the hands of the party which a short time ago professed such love for the soldier. Why is not omething done to relieve these men ecessary legislation not had when the bled men who are actually suffering totally unable to work receives is barely enough to enable him to starve slowly We would be in favor of providing amp for such, and saving the necessary money for doing so by curtailing the use-less expenses of the government. Surey neither soldiers nor their friends can any longer be imposed upon by the specious pretensions of those who say so much and do so little for them Prominent Democrats have several times in racy-whatever name it may choose to troduced bills both into our national and State legislatures, having for their object principles which distinguish the party the soldier's good, and each time the of the Constitution. the people have the least chance to themselves on the great issues of the day, there is indicated a vast and those who would trample them under change in favor of the Democracy. After the Radicals had arrayed themselves squarely against the constitution of the lant little Connecticut-fired the first throw of the fanatical and revolutionary power which has wrought so much evil. CALIFORNIA sends over the glorious good things from him in the future greeting from the Pacific, and wheels into the Democratic column which is marching on to complete victory. Next comes the news that the hardy pioneers of the new territory of Montana have elected a Democratic delegate to Congress, and that the whole territory is strongly in favor of the party which is these absolute victories, we have also cut land the tide is beginning to run the oth gives her verdict against the Radicals ine for himself will discover that the and their revolutionary plans in October, leaders of the South desired to set up an the Union will be saved, and white men independent government, and that as rescued from the degrading thralldom of soon as they discovered that this was impracticable, they greatly preferred the old government formed by the constitution and laws of the United States, to any other on earth, and so surrendered any other on earth, and so surrendered place this State in the Union line at the

Duty of Democrats,

The coming election will be, in many respects, a much more important one than that of last fall. Then a governor was to be elected for three years, now Supreme Judge is to be elected for fifteen; then the work of destroying the government had not been carried so far by the Mongrels as now, and the ruin to e averted was not so close upon us. Democrats have as much to work for now as they ever had before, and if we are not direlect in our duty we will carry the election overwhelmingly. Many men think that their whole political duty is done when they go to the polls and vote, and no one could blunder into a greater mistake. It is the duty, of every man to use every legitimate Influence he can command to secure the success of his principles. In a campaign from actual suffering who were disabled like we are now engaged in, this is esin the country's service? Why is the two parties involves the very life of the party which loves the soldier so dearly republic, and every man who loves his has such overwhelming majorities in our country or values liberty is bound, not follows? We are in favor of only to vote but to spend his money and cutting off the rich sinecures which are his time, in the cause which he believes depleting the government treasury and to be right, This fall, no stone should be left unturned, no influence which could be brought to bear upon any one should be neglected. Let active and efficient Democrats everywlere, who know the importance of success now, work unceasingly to achieve it. * They cannot otherwise do their whole duty.

President Johnson.

No man ever had a bet'er opportunity o make himself famous for all time than Andrew Johnson has now. By simply keeping faithfully his oath .of office, in spite of all the threats of revolutionists and traitors, he becomes one of the greatest men in history The issue is square ly made now, and he can lose nothing by a firm constitutional course, while he will gameverything—If he desires honorable fame, no opportunity like the preent is likely ever to present itself to him again for achieving it. finitely locating and defining the political whereabouts of Grant. Not that individually, we have ever had a doubt upon this question, or cared to the extent of a starved fig. what his opinions were; but, for the satisfaction of a few "manufactures of public sentiment," who have been "laying pipe" for his nomination to the Presidency, by the National Democratic Convignion, next year. We incline to the opinion that half he of Angual Litter, has sailed that question, as well as Grant Doyond even an attempt at resurrection. The conslave of New York politicians, backed by the The Worlds newspapers, who for weeks have been persistently and insiduously endeavoring to invert the wishes of the masses of the Democracy, by foisting a hitberto politician nonentity upon them, have had, as The Democracy, perfected a month ago, their labor for their pains. Just what General Grant expected to accompash by his singular defence of Sheridan, it is impossible to clearly determine. It may be possible that he really desires to be a candidate for Presidential honors, and fearful of offending little Phil. takes this method of conciliating him and his friends. On the other hand, it may be simply a fear of results—a dread of the power of the revolutionary mob, misnamed Congress, which makes the hero of the Wilderness "urge, carnettly urge," &c. the rescinding the order removing the man at New Orleans. In addition to these somewhat plausible conjectures, as to his action in the premises, we do not forget that the Han Member from the 3d Hinnois district, Mr. Washburne, who has been health seeking in Europe, has returned home in the very nick of time. This individual's boast for some years has been that he made Grant, and, as he comes home, so says the dispatch, brith full of impeschment, it must necessarily big expected that his protege Grant, will obly orders. Having exhibited him throughout the West in much the same manner that Cumming or Ju Chaillu would an immense hon or gorilla, it is not unlikely that his appearance last week in Washington, had something to do with the earnest plea of the Commander in Chief, in favor of Sheridan Be the cause what it may; General Grant is politically disposed of, and out of the ring. Theradicals have managed to create sufficient prejudice against thim to prevent his being the nomine of their convention, while we think attempt at resurrection. The conslave New York politicians, backed by the have managed to create sufficient prejudice against him to prevent his being the nomi-nee of their convention, while we think that his endorsement of Sheridan, and the empty twaddle contained in the annexed paragraph, will effectually cure Democrats of any "hankering" after him
